Explain This, Please.
Why Two Died.
Make Your Money Work.
Shoot Him Gently.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

SOMETIMES high finance is puzzling. Our Government borrows money, a few days later Canada's National Railway Company, government-owned and operated, mind you, borrows $40,000,000 in New York on better terms than Uncle Sam can get.

Is the Canadian National Railway's credit better than that of this government? How do our financial gentlemen, who say government is unfit to manage any business, explain this freak of nature?

MRS. BARBARA WOLSRATH, 65 years old, killed herself, leaving this message: "I want my rest. Bury me in my blue dress."

NOT far away, Martin L. Bartlett, twenty-four, killed himself in his Y. M. C. A. room. Disappointment in love was his trouble.

Poor Mrs. Wolsrath might have waited. "Rest" comes soon enough to us all.

And if young Mr. Bartlett had waited and looked about for a few weeks, he undoubtedly would have discovered consolation in pink stockings.

Suicide, always foolish, is something that can always be done. Doing it means an end of opportunity.

WILL H. LATTA, able lawyer, killed in an automobile accident, leaves $50,000 to grow at compound interest for 200 years.

IN 2129 this $50,000 at compound interest would amount to $160,000,000. And that sum, Mr. Latta divides by will in various interesting ways.

OUR laws and customs won't permit such accumulations and postponed divisions.

But the will is valuable, reminding young people that money creates money, and that while they work for their money, they should let their money work for them.

A COMIC opera star used to sing with an arch smile, "Shoot him gently, oh, so gently, etc."

Prohibition enforcement has taken the hint, and prohibition agents must no longer use long-range rifles on shooting expeditions.

IF, as you amble along in your little car, with mama and the babies in the back seat, you feel something going in between your ribs on one side and coming out on the other, you'll know it is a revolver bullet.

The law will no longer allow you to be shot with a rifle. Find comfort in that.

AN unfortunate little boy, 3 years old, suffered from intense heat in a New York dwelling, and crying for his mother, annoyed a sleeping truck-driver, who beat the child brutally, breaking his arm and jaw, knocking out his teeth.

WHEN the police woke him later, demanding an explanation, the man replied: "Bootleg whisky: what do you suppose?"

Will anybody try to find the individual really responsible, the bootlegger who sold the whisky?

The child will probably die.

THE "German Youth Movement," working against alcohol, proposes to substitute athletic sports for drinking.

American youth, please take notice.

If there is anything morally uglier than a young girl with a cocktail in her hand and a dirty cigaret held by painted lips, what is it?

THE biggest rose diamond in the world, found in the bed of a river in Brazil, bought by American dealers, weighs 113 carats, and is worth $500,000.

It will be worn, probably by some charming, middle-aged lady as positive proof that her husband still loves her.

YOUTH will imitate its elders.

A boy, seven years old, argued with another, twelve, about a baseball game, went to his house, got a pistol, shot the older boy dead.

Authorities are puzzled. You can't hang a boy seven years old.

MRS. RUTH PRATT, in Congress, rich already, inherits more than $9,000,000 from her husband.

That is "real money" even in these days, and will cause certain congressmen to feel greater respect for the honorable lady member from New York.

KING VICTOR EMANUEL has made Marconi a marque, the title hereditary.

Marconi reduced the time for sending a message round the earth to less than a second, with no expense for wires.

If Marconi is made a marquis, who should be made a duke?

Wife Shakes Snook Alibi in Co-ed Case

POLICE FREE DOCTOR'S RIVAL

Suspected Professor Tells Of Warning Slain Girl Not To Ride With Strangers

International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—Marion T. Meyers, who, with Dr. James H. Snook, 40, has been held since Saturday on a technical charge of investigation in connection with the murder of Theora Hix, 25, Ohio State University student, was ordered released by County Prosecutor John J. Chester shortly before noon today.

The alibi of Dr. Snook was definitely weaker today, authorities said.

His wife, questioned by County Prosecutor Chester, first stoutly reiterated that her husband had been in his home at 9:30 o'clock the night of the murder.

WIFE'S STORY BREAKS

Then, under severe examination and close to collapse, she admitted she had not seen Snook until half an hour before midnight, although she "thought he was in the house at 9:30."

Describing her as "the kind of a girl who would accept automobile rides from strangers," Dr. Snook told newspapermen he believed Miss Hix was killed by a "sheik motorist."

"She enjoyed auto rides," said Dr. Snook. "She was of the lonely type—very nice and dignified. She went to the movies alone, but I often cautioned her about accepting rides from strangers."

Snook, married, and a professor of veterinary medicine, and Marion T. Meyers, attached to the school's agricultural department, both were attentive to Miss Hix.

Although Snook reiterated his denial of having killed the girl as

CITY IN HEAT'S GRIP; RAIN DUE TOMORROW

Gathering Clouds Promise Relief; Mercury's Rise Checked; Records Broken

Mounting temperatures here were checked at the 89 degree mark today by gathering clouds in which Forecaster W. S. Brotzman saw a promise of showers and cooler weather for tomorrow.

Temperatures during the morning and afternoon averaged five degrees higher than those of yesterday, when the mercury reached 92 here. The forecaster believed yesterday's mark would not be exceeded, however, unless the sky cleared.

CITY SPEEDS RELIEF

As the city sweltered, the Bureau of Recreation speeded up work of providing relief facilities. Supt. W. C. Batchelor, of the bureau, announced that 40 showers scheduled for operation July 1 would be installed as soon as possible and put in operation.

Fifteen city swimming pools already has been opened on this schedule: Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, 1 to 4 p. m., boys under

MILK STRIKERS' LEADER SENT TO JAIL

Fined $200 on Contempt Charge, Must Pay or Stay In Cell, Result of Attack

Carmen De Renzo, vice president of Local No. 306, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Drivers and Helpers, an alleged ringleader in the strike of drivers of the Liberty Dairy Products Company, was adjudged in contempt of court by Judge Elder W. Marshall in Common Pleas Court today.

BLAMED IN FIGHT

He was remanded to jail until a $200 fine is paid, to be imprisoned not more than 60 days in the event of non-payment. De Renzo is the first of a group of five adjudged in contempt of court.

He was accused of violation of an injunction granted by Judge Marshall, and restraining interference with the production and delivery of milk by the dairy company.

He was alleged to have been one of five men who attacked Lee Collins, driver, in Hazel drive, Mt. Lebanon, June 1.

COMPANY ACCUSED

Thomas G. Robertson, acting president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, said his efforts to settle the strike "through the processes of peaceable negotiation" had been unsuccessful, "due to the position taken by the officers of the Liberty Dairy Company that their corporation would not negotiate an agreement with the Teamsters' International Union nor any local union affiliated with this organization."

"Conditions at the company's property," said Mr. Robertson, "are of a kind calculated to create friction and endless industrial disturbance."

He said he would address a number of meetings at which the facts as to the strike would be presented.

Crippled River Boat Rescued From Falls

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 19.—(AP.)—The passenger steamer Ossian Bedell reached port here this afternoon in tow of a Coast Guard cutter and a tugboat, after the waterfront had been thrown into a furore by word that the little craft, passenger-laden, was on fire and drifting helplessly down the Niagara river.

At the office of the New York and Ontario Ferry Company, operators of the Bedell, it was learned that the steering gear of the boat had broken down.

Stimson, Mitchell Get Degrees at Yale

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 19.—(AP.)—Secretary of State Henry Lewis Stimson and Attorney General William De Witt Mitchell were among twelve who received honorary degrees from Yale today.

Stimson, Mitchell and Vincent Massey, Canadian minister to the United States, received Doctor of Law degrees. Doctor of Science degree was conferred upon Arthur Holly Compton, University of Chicago professor.

Disarm?

CHARLES G. DAWES

Gen Dawes, newly-appointed ambassador to Great Britain, at the Pilgrims' dinner pointed the way to a "yardstick" in naval disarmament, his speech forecasting an early arms parley of all the naval powers.

AMBASSADOR WOULD BAR 'EXPERT' PLANS

Proposes Common-Sense Solution of International Military, Naval Problem

International News Service.

LONDON, June 19.—The speech of Gen. Charles G. Dawes, United States ambassador to Great Britain, outlining the American government's plans and policies with relation to international affairs, was hailed today as a harbinger of peace for sounding the call to the powers of the world to reach an early agreement on naval disarmament as a necessary step to universal amity.

In his first public utterance as ambassador to the court of St. James last night at the Pilgrims' Society dinner in his honor, Gen. Dawes made it clear that only by first agreeing amicably on naval reduction could the world powers eventually attain lasting peace.

MacDONALD ECHOES DAWES

Almost simultaneously, Premier Ramsay MacDonald, speaking at a dinner in his honor at Lossiemouth, Scotland, echoed similar sentiments in making a brief, matter-of-fact statement of Great Britain's plans for working toward the same object in conjunction with the United States.

Although Gen. Dawes delivered his speech in an atmosphere that was primarily Anglo-American, significance was attached to the fact that among the guests were diplomatic representatives of most nations of the world and that the ambassadors of France, Germany, Japan, Belgium, Brazil and the charge d'affaires of Italy were

DRY SLAYINGS UP IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP.)—Developments in the prohibition situation continued to hold attention here today.

Calling attention to what he described as "outrageous killings" in his state by government agents, Senator Copeland (Dem.), of New York, called upon the Senate to give serious consideration to a remedy.

Shortly afterward, Senator Carter Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, condemned the Hoover administration for "submerging" the prohibition problem in its proposed law enforcement inquiry.

The Virginia senator was the author of the $250,000 fund appropriated last session by Congress for an inquiry under the direction of the President into prohibition.

This is the fund now being used by the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission.

"I am citing these facts here," Glass said, "to show how completely this major problem has been ignored and submerged. I will not say its purpose is to shift the responsibility for the determination of a perplexing problem, but at least that will be the inevitable result."

PRESBYTERIANS ACT

The dry issue again reached to the White House. President Hoover told members of the National Loyalty commission of the Presbyterian Church in the United States that he feels the need of the moral support of the country in his campaign for obedience to laws.

The ministers and ruling elders composing the commission quoted the chief executive as having said that after all this was not a matter of politics or law, but of morals. They added that he said the chief thing was obedience to law and not solely a question of enforcement of law.

The President responded to an address by the Rev. Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, of Chicago, moderator of the General Assembly.

STUDENTS GIVE HEALTH PLAY

More than 8,000 public school children were participating this afternoon in a pageant, "The Pied Piper," before thousands of spectators in Forbes Field.

The production was staged under the direction of the department of hygiene of the Pittsburgh Board of Education.

All schools in the city were closed for the afternoon. Dr. Harry M. Burns, head of the department of hygiene, was in charge of the production. The pageant, written by Blanche Haines McCann, contained two parts with 12 episodes.

Part of the production depicts the neglect paid to the teaching of hygiene in the schools before a few years ago.

A system of amplification, with loud speakers, made the dialogue audible in every part of the field.

Children from Irene Kaufmann Settlement, Lawrenceville Open Air School, Industrial Home for Crippled Children, Leech Farm Hospital and Children's Hospital were taken to the field in automobiles furnished by local service clubs.

Among the organizations which furnished transportation were the Rotary Club, Lions' Club, Aero Club, Kiwanis Club, Monarch Club, Cooperative Club and Post No. 59, American Legion.

PIRATES AFTER RUBBER GAME

CINCINNATI, June 19.—The sweltering Pirate-Red series is scheduled to come to a close at Redland Field today with the contending athletes striving for the rubber game, each team having won two.

North Side Steve Swetonic will twirl the final for the Pirates while Eppa Jeptha Rixey is expected to face the recruit.

The Pirates will spend tomorrow in South Bend, Ind., out of respect to Manager Donie Bush who played in the Indiana city 22 years ago. At the completion of this exhibition game the Pittsburghers will hustle to Chicago to continue their drive on first place.

Ervin Brame pitched a six-hit game for the Pirates yesterday, but lost out in the eighth with two gone when the Reds made two doubles and a single to score two runs. The score was two to one.

Heat Fells Driver Hauling Two Tons of Ice

CHARLEROI, Pa., June 19.—One of the strangest cases of heat prostration on record was reported here today when Bernard Fuller, 30, of Belle Vernon, overcome by heat, toppled from the wheel of an ice truck.

There were two tons of ice aboard. The driverless truck sped down a grade and was wrecked. Fuller was taken to the local hospital.

Detroit Girl Wins Beauty Slogan Prize

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—Miss Marion Boyd, 17, of 6154 Sixteenth street, Detroit, today was announced as winner of the national wayside beauty slogan contest, conducted among high school students by Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Miss Boyd won the contest over 6,000 competitors with the slogan —"This is Your Country—Beautify It." She will be given a three-day trip from Detroit to Washington, where she will be entertained and where President Hoover will present her with the certificate of award.

Only Three of City Magistrates on Job

Justice was tempered by a lack of help in the city's police courts today.

Of the city's eight magistrates, three, John J. Sweeney, William Soost and George H. England were on vacation; Leo Rothenberg was ill, and A. D. Brandon was occupied at a Criminal Court trial.

The remaining three, Thomas D. Jones, J. A. Staley, Jr., and Edward Hough, functioned for the entire city.

BUS LINE DEFIES ORDER TO QUIT

Despite an order of the Public Service Commission ordering buses of the Nevin Bus Lines, Inc., operating between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, to discontinue operation, the service will be continued, Harris Nevin, head of the line, announced today. The order of the commission sustains a complaint of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Public Service Commission found that the Nevin line was primarily an intrastate carrier.

"The decision rendered will be appealed to court," said Mr. Nevin. "Previous decisions of the same character have been declared void by the courts. We will continue operation, and will furnish parallel cases that were all decided against decisions, if necessary."

Channel Plane Crew Freed of All Blame

LYDD, England, June 19.—(AP.)—The coroner's inquest on the four victims of the air liner City of Ottawa's crash into the English Channel Monday, today returned a verdict that the persons had lost their lives by drowning, caused by the accidental fall of the airplane into the channel.

The coroner exonerated the pilot, Capt. Brailli, and Mechanic Barnett from all blame. He said he was satisfied that the airliner was perfectly airworthy when it left Croydon Field.

"Cristeros" Take Town in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, June 19.—(AP.)—Dispatches from Tlaxcala today said that the town of San Pablo Del Monte, Tlaxcala, had been captured by a "Cristero" band, headed by the chieftain, Alejandro Cano. Troops have been rushed to recapture the town.

40 Perish, 100 Hurt In Colombia Flood

BOGOTA, Colombia, June 19.—(AP.)—Forty persons are believed to have been drowned and more than 100 injured when the town of Sevilla was virtually destroyed by floods from the Quilgace River, after a landslide had changed the river's course.

Sevilla, which is in the Department of Cauga, has about 6,000 inhabitants.

Briand, Stresemann Discuss Young Plan

PARIS, June 19.—(AP.)—A conference of the government to put the Young plan into effect could be called about the middle of July, said Foreign Minister Briand today after a talk with Foreign Minister Stresemann, of Germany, providing the other powers concerned agreed.

Motorist Is Fined $5 For Driving Too Slow

GARY, Ind., June 19.—(AP.)—Al Shaw, of Chicago, was arrested yesterday for driving 15 miles an hour on the Lake County Highway, and paid a $5 fine for his poky progress.

He was the first man to be arrested in the Indiana campaign against slow driving.

Policemen Save Babe's Life When Breath Fails

Two Mt. Washington policemen saved a new-born baby's life today.

For almost five hours they pumped oxygen unceasingly into the infant's frail form.

The child was near death when it was born, a five and one-half pound boy, to Mrs. Nellie Helf, in her home, at 203 Walter avenue. Its heart beat was slight, its breathing weak.

Instructed by Dr. George G. Shoemaker, the father, William G. Helf, breathed into the baby's mouth for a few minutes. The infant failed to pick up.

Dr. George G. Shoemaker issued a hurried call for a pulmotor. The father, William G. Helf, ran to Engine House No. 21, but there was none there.

The call then came to Mt. Washington Police Station. Wagonmen Louis Lehrman and Patrick Barry sped to the home with the motor and tanks of oxygen.

Barry and Lehrman worked without rest. After five hours the baby's breathing improved, its heart beat was audible.

Patrolman Thomas Houlihan and Wagonman James Coen then stood by in case of relapse.

Mrs. Helf was reported in satisfactory condition. She is the mother of two other children, both girls. Helf is a salesman.

3 Children Hurt at Play, Rushed to Hospital

Three children are in the McKeesport Hospital with injuries suffered while at play.

Three-year-old Helen Mochan, of 151 Watkins avenue, Wilmerding, while playing in front of her home last night, was struck by an automobile driven by Stewart Richards, of Westinghouse avenue, Wilmerding, and suffered a fractured skull, according to the hospital report. Her condition is serious.

Louis Carlson, 6, of 323 Airbrake avenue, Wilmerding, suffered concussion of the brain and shock when struck near his home by a car driven by Stephen Majecich, of Pitcairn, the hospital reported.

John Sincik, 12, of 107 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, fell 15 feet down an elevator shaft of the new Sears-Roebuck Building, 120 Fifth avenue, and suffered concussion of the brain.

VICTORY CAPS 8-YEAR FIGHT FOR REAPPORTIONMENT

CENSUS BILL SIGNED BY HOOVER

Congress Leaders Laud Hearst Papers for Aid in Battle for Justice to States

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Victory crowned a fight of eight years vigorously supported by the Hearst newspapers when President Hoover signed the census and reapportionment bill.

Under the act, which was bitterly opposed by selfish politicians in defiance of the Constitution, the House of Representatives will be reapportioned according to the growth and shift of the population since 1910.

In preserving the integrity of the Constitution, it is estimated that 23 seats in the House will be changed, with 17 states with large city populations gaining one or more seats and 11 rural states losing one or more members.

The law provides that the next census shall be started April 1, 1930, including an enumeration of unemployed, mines, agriculture and general population, which will provide temporary positions for more than 100,000 workers.

OBSTACLES OVERCOME

No legislation in recent years has more obstacles to overcome and more pitfalls dug for it than the reapportionment bill, which the Hearst newspapers solidly championed.

It was due to the determination, industry and parliamentary skill of Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, and Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), of Michigan, in the Senate, and Representatives Fenn (Rep.), of Connecticut; McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, and Englebright (Rep.), of California, in the House, that the measure was enacted into law.

California and Michigan are the two states which have suffered most from the unjust refusal of Congress to reapportion. The former will gain six seats, while the latter will gain four. Other states which gain are Arizona 1, Connecticut 1, Florida 1, New Jersey 2, North Carolina 1, Ohio 3, Oklahoma 1, Texas 2 and Washington 1.

In commenting on the signing of the measure, Senator Johnson warmly commended the Hearst newspapers for the fight they waged for the enactment of the legislation. He said:

"One of the most important, if not the most important, measures passed at the present extraordinary session is the census and reapportionment bill. Not only does it provide for the taking of the largest and most detailed census ever attempted, but it remedies the wrong and neglect of Congress in failing to obey the Constitution by reapportioning the members of the House of Representatives from the various states.

HITS CONGRESS NEGLECT

"For more than eight years, this duty has been wilfully neglected and not only has it disfranchised hundreds of thousands of American citizens, but it has done the grossest injustice to certain states.

"Too much credit cannot be given to such papers as the Hearst Press that have battled so valiantly to right this injustice.

"To much credit cannot be given to Senator Vanderberg for the industry and ability with which he participated in the good fight. I was delighted that because of my position on the commerce committee it fell to me to assist in piloting the bill through the Senate."

BALKS FUTURE DEFAULT

Senator Vandenberg was particularly gratified with the measure because it will prevent any default on reapportionment in the future. He explained:

"The new act provides that when the 1930 census and each subsequent census is completed, the President shall report the result to Congress. He shall also report a table showing how the existing size of the House (now 435 members) would be reapportioned by the method used at the last preceding apportionment.

"If Congress hereupon fails to pass its own reapportionment law, then the table reported by the President becomes automatically effective. Thus an inert Congress could no longer cheat the people of their rightful representation.

"Opposition to the bill came chiefly from the states which will lose representatives but I must pay tribute to 14 Senators in this class who courageously faced their constitutional duty and supported the measure. I refer to Senators Hale and Gould, of Main; Walsh and Gillett, of Massachusetts; Copeland and Wagner, of New York; Watson and Robinson, of Indiana; Capper and Allen, of Kansas; Reed, of Pennsylvania; Sackett, of Kentucky; Norris, of Nebraska, and Patterson, of Missouri."

Cement Managers Discuss Safety

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 19.—A hundred and fifty safety directors, plant superintendents and representatives of various departments of 15 cement manufacturing plants in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, West Virginia and New York were in attendance at the safety conference held here yesterday.

The address of welcome was given by Fred L. Rentz. A. J. Eales of the Bessemer Cement Corp., was in charge of the luncheon. E. D. Barry of the Universal Cement Co., of Universal, Pa., was toastmaster at the banquet held in the Cathedral last night. Larry Flint, of Sharon, Pa., was the speaker.

WIFE, 19, ASKS FOR ALIMONY

Mrs. Mary Louise Boyd, 19, of 605 Lockhart street, North Side, whose "December and May" wedding with Dr. Isaac Newton Boyd, 71, of 71 Knox avenue, lasted less than a year, has asked for alimony and counsel fees from her husband, in a petition presented in Common Pleas Court.

The petition was presented yesterday by Mrs. Sarah Thackeray, the young wife's mother, in answer to Dr. Boyd's suit for divorce. The petition denied the desertion charge.

On May 26, 1926, when Mrs. Boyd was 16, she was married to Dr. Boyd, prominent physician of the Knoxville-Mt. Oliver district. Dr. Boyd was then 68. The couple lived together until March 12, 1927, when they separated.

The petition, filed by Attorney William J. Graham, stated that Dr. Boyd has a large practice, yielding him a monthly income of $1,000 and upwards, and is the owner of considerable real estate. It states that his wife is without occupation, because of ill health, and is unable to support herself and retain counsel.

Odd Fellows Talk Adopting Budget

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., June 19.—The budget system, proposed for the first time in grand lodge sessions of the I. O. O. F. for management of the Order's home at Springfield, will be threshed out on the floor of the convention today, it was announced here.

Five hundred visitors enjoyed the afternoon viewing Tuscarawas County's historic spots, by motor. The 1930 convention may be held at Cincinnati.

MANY DEATHS REPORTED

International News Service.

The gods of heat continued to hurl their fireballs with relentless abandon at most of the United States today.

In virtually every section of the country, particularly the East, the mercury had mounted to near-record heights.

Bloomsburg, Pa., reported a temperature of 103 degrees, while prayers for rain were being offered in rural sections of the country.

Many deaths and prostrations were reported in International News Service dispatches from the North, South, East and West.

FAIL TO LOCATE PAIR OF DRY SLAYERS

Plattsburg Inquiry Strikes Snag; Lowman Replies to Demand for Officers

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 18.—(AP.)—Investigation into the fatal shooting of Arthur Gordon, 22, of this city, on a "booze trial" near here, appeared to have run into a blind alley through inability of county officials to serve subpenaes upon two customs border patrolmen who were reported to have killed Gordon "accidentally" four days ago.

Gordon was buried here yesterday.

Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of prohibition, was asked by District Attorney B. Loyal O'Connell, of Clinton County, to "at once request John C. Tulloch (collector of the port at Ogdensburg) to co-operate with me by having men who are under his jurisdiction present at an adjourned hearing at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning, June 24, at Plattsburg."

SEEK TWO OFFICERS

Those particularly wanted among the officers are Weldon J. Cheatham and F. L. Coveney, stationed at Mooers, at the time of the shooting.

Mr. O'Connell's telegram pointed out that a John Doe proceeding to determine circumstances in the shooting near Mooers was at a standstill with essential information lacking by reason of the inability to locate these officers for the purpose of serving subpenas upon them.

Tulloch, said O'Connell, "has ignored two requests from me." One request was for a complete report and the second that he direct the offices to attend a hearing yesterday morning in Plattsburg.

LOWMAN REPLIES

Secretary Lowman wired this reply:

"Telegram received; suggest if you desire attendance of witnesses that you issue subpenas for them to appear according to the usual legal proceedings."

He said he was "determined that Clinton County will have an official explanation" of the "killing."

Collector of Customs Tulloch announced that Border Patrolmen Cheatham and Coveney have been transferred from the Mooers border station to Ogdensburg.

RUM-SALE BILL OFFERED STATE

MADISON, Wis., June 19.—(INS.)—The Wisconsin Senate today had before it for consideration a joint resolution introduced by Senator Bernard Gettelman, of Milwaukee, proposing amendment of the state constitution to permit the state to make and sell intoxicating beverages.

In order to become effective the resolution, referred to the Senate Committee on Revision, must receive the approval of this and the next Legislature and then win the indorsement of voters in a referendum.

Gettelman's resolution is the result of an announcement by J. H. Hardgrove, former president of the Milwaukee Bar Association, that in his opinion the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution does not forbid state manufacture of liquor.

DAWES SPEAKS FOR ARMS CUT

WOULD SCRAP TREATIES

In his usual vigorous manner, the ambassador urged repudiation of individual treaties between nations in favor of a united move toward disarmament.

He urged new methods of negotiations on the subject. He stressed the fact that the agreements should first be reached by the statesmen of the world and that the "yardsticks" of naval experts of individual nations should afterwards be applied to attain naval parity.

In a refreshingly direct manner he stated that if human nature were taken into consideration in the negotiations, an "inevitable compromise" between the statesmen of the world to find a method by which comparative fighting strength of navies could be gauged would be reached regardless of tonnage, displacement, age and fighting strength of individual ships.

URGES NATIONS CO-OPERATE

Premier MacDonald in his address told of his meeting Sunday with Ambassador Dawes and of the accord they had found in the aims and aspirations of their respective nations for world peace.

He stressed the fact that Great Britain and the United States had no intention of first reaching an agreement on the subject and then presenting it to other nations as an accomplished fact which they could take or leave. He urged co-operation of the nations of the world.

The speeches left in doubt the next move to bring about the conference. In one sense they were couched in general terms, but in another they left no question as to the imminence of negotiations for naval disarmament, in which every nation concerned might share.

SCORES EXPERTS

Gen. Dawes attacked the practice of leaving naval disarmament problems up to naval experts, whose prior interest, he charged, was naval maintenance rather than naval reduction.

He then went into the roles played by financial experts in the reparations and similar conferences, and developed the proposition that whereas they were necessary to the success of those conferences, they would impair rather than abet progress if they played similar parts in a naval conference.

The ambassador sought to show the naval experts' proper place was in the fixing of a "naval yardstick," a standard of equivalent values to harmonize such widely variant factors as ship age, displacement, gun elevation, etc. Statesmen, he added, could apply a naval yardstick for the best interests of all.

HYDE SIFTS BIDS FOR FARM JOBS

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP.)—The exacting preliminary work before President Hoover can appoint a representative Federal farm board is being done by Secretary Hyde.

While the Agriculture Secretary was interviewing friends of those desired for appointment, the President took a step in farm relief by signing the bill appropriating $151,500,000 for use of the farm board.

Secretary Hyde is busy reading hundreds of letters and telegrams and sifting all available information to place the most concise panorama of the situation before Mr. Hoover.

Dozens of individuals and officials of organized farm organizations are on his calling list, some by invitation, but a great many by their own initiative. As a result the President will have the benefit of a variety of opinion in chosing from the long list, the eight men who will be charged with setting farm relief in motion.

Secretary Hyde has more than a duty to his chief in doing this preliminary work. The men selected by the President will be his own co-workers, since under the farm relief act he will be a member ex-officio of this latest of major bureaus.

In a large measure the Secretary will be the President's contact man. He has the power to assemble the board and it is presumed his view of any question that may arise will bear important weight since it will be generally accepted that he speaks with the knowledge, if not the authority, of the President.

But until the long parade of men calling to discuss the qualifications of prospective board members is at an end, Mr. Hyde's associates say he has little time for reflection on the board's work.

some quarters of the borderland today.

Officials of cities along the international line, as well as in many others in Northern New York, quickly promised co-operation.

John H. McGaulley, of Plattsburg, near which Arthur Gordon, 22, of that city, was shot fatally last Saturday, said:

READY TO AID

"The City of Plattsburg has at all times stood ready to aid Federal authorities in enforcement of law.

"I have, within the past few months, been compelled to protest to Collector Tulloch (collector of the port of Ogdensburg), of the customs department, against promiscuous use of guns in the hands of enforcement officers chasing law breakers through the streets of this city and using their guns as though they were on the open road.

"Collector Tulloch has promised to see that the citizens of this city have protection. Nevertheless, several shootings have occurred since that time. As to co-operation, we regard ourselves as good citizens of the United States and stand willing at any and all times to aid the President, even without being requested, in the enforcement of all laws."

SURPRISED BY APPEAL

The President's appeal "came as a distinct surprise to residents here," said Police Chief Herbert S. Myers, of Ogdensburg.

"There has been, of course, spasmodic liquor running and alien smuggling along the Canadian border, but this reference to a systematic war is the first we have heard about it," he said.

Said J. C. Wilson, mayor of Rochester:

"We will be very glad to co-operate in any way to enforce any and all laws, including the prohibition law. We are doing our utmost to do so at the present time and intend to continue."

Mayor Paul Weiss, of Dunkirk, said:

"We aid the government in all ways possible to stop this nefarious traffic (in liquor) and we will continue to do so."

CONGRESS ON SUMMER RECESS

Senate Will Return Aug. 19 To Complete Action on Tariff Legislation

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The special session of the seventy-first Congress, which President Hoover called to carry out his campaign pledges for the relief of agriculture and depressed industries, will start a long summer vacation today, its tasks completed with the exception of the new tariff bill.

The House will return September 23, and the Senate will come back August 19 to complete action on the tariff.

MAIN ACHIEVEMENTS

The principal achievements of the special session to date were enactment of a new farm relief bill, appropriation of $151,150,000 to carry out farm relief and enactment of the new census and reapportionment bill. The Senate disposed of another presidential recommendation by rejecting Mr. Hoover's plea for repeal of the national origins immigration act.

President Hoover will remain in Washington "hard at work" while Congress plays a month at least, and he may remain all summer, it was indicated at the White House today.

MAY CHANGE MIND

He may change his mind after he selects his farm board—a matter of two weeks—and clears the diplomatic slate. Ambassadors to France, Spain, Italy, Japan, Germany and Cuba must be appointed, and a few posts in South America, it is believed, will have new occupants. These appointments are expected to occupy the President several weeks, and at best he would have only a portion of the second month of the recess, it was explained.

President Hoover, it was said, has felt that his first year in office should find him at his desk, perfecting the personnel selections for his administration.

SNOOK'S WIFE SHAKES ALIBI

the culmination of an admitted affair, his stories, authorities said today, contained many discrepancies.

"NEVER SUSPECTED"

"Once," Snook asserted, "Miss Hix told me she would not marry me on a bet. I never suspected her of going out with anyone other than Meyers, however.

"I was willing to quit any time she said, so I did everything for her own good. I know no more about the case than do many outsiders."

"GOOD COMPANION"

Telling of his relations with Miss Hix in a bungalow he rented near the university campus, Snook called it "a damn fool silly love affair."

"She was a good companion," he said.

Snook asserted that the younger Meyers had many times begged Miss Hix to marry him.

"Miss Hix and I did not see each other for months last fall," Snook continued. "Finally she told me she had broken with Meyers. Then we resumed seeing each other.

"She never drank liquor while she was with me. Once she told me she had tasted a highball and she said she liked it."

"NOT DRUG USER"

Meyers occupies a cell near one in which Dr. Snook is prisoner.

Although United States District Attorney William B. Bartels declared he was investigating a report that Miss Hix was involved in a school narcotic ring, Prof. Snook declared the young woman was not a user of drugs.

Police questioned Mrs. Snook, wife of the prisoner, for several hours, before releasing her.

At one time during the grilling Mrs. Snook fainted when County Prosecutor Chester interrogated her concerning a kitchen knife believed to have been used to slash Miss Hix's throat.

Mrs. Snook admitted she planned to file suit for divorce against Dr. Snook.

Authorities are awaiting a chemist's report of analyses of stains on Snook's automobile and clothes. His wife yesterday asserted that he came home early on the night of the slaying, supporting his alibi.

Melvin T. Hix, father of the slain girl, today was permitted to be present during the county prosecutor's investigation of the crime.

Chester previously had denied the retired educator permission to be present during the questioning of persons thought to have knowledge of activities of those involved in the investigation.

PARIS TRAFFIC SNARLS LEAVE STOWAWAY IN DAZE

YANKEE BOY AMAZED AT RECEPTION

Shares in Honors Heaped Upon Frenchmen, But He Prefers Cigarets to Wine

This is the second installment of Arthur Schreiber's own account of his adventures in the French plane that flew across the Atlantic Ocean. His first installment described his preparations for stowing away; how he hid himself in the plane; the consternation among the three aviators when they discovered him in the tail near the control wires, and the details of the enforced landing in Spain and the two-stop continued flight to Paris. Today, Schreiber continues his narrative.

By ARTHUR SCHREIBER

Twenty-two-year-old Portland, Me., youth, first trans-Atlantic airplane stowaway, who flew from Old Orchard Beach, Me., to Comillas, Spain, and thence to Paris, with Jean Assolant, Rene Lefevre and Armeno Lotti, Jr., in the monoplane Yellow Bird.

(Copyright, 1929, by the New York American and Universal Service, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited).

PARIS, June 19.—After the magnificent reception we had at Cazeaux, I began to have some idea of what we would expect from Paris—but it was just a bare idea.

I've never had such an experience, and doubt that I ever will have another like it. What pleased me most on my arrival was that the French people seemed to accept me without prejudice, for, after all, as I know now—my hunger for a trans-Atlantic flight resulted in my endangering the lives of my companions.

The last part of our flight had been under bad weather conditions. One hour from Cazeaux, we encountered fog and rain, which forced us to fly extremely low, but I was in such good spirits at the thought of finally seeing Paris, I just hadn't any room for any fears.

At last Le Bourget—then Paris.

As soon as the Yellow Bird touched the ground, Lefevre snatched one of the two American flags we had aboard, and I took the other.

The moment the plane stopped, we were literally torn from the cabin and raised to the shoulders of the most energetic enthusiasts. There was much I would have liked to say then, but my agreement with Lotti prevented me. (Schreiber stated in his first article the terms under which the Frenchmen had him sign a contract regarding his story of the flight.)

BIG KICK IN IT

I got a great kick out of the thought of being in Paris—I, who had been home in Portland, Me., just four days before. It was a thrill—being carried to the same hangar where Lindbergh was received. There the cheering for the aviators reached its peak.

I met the parents of the three fliers, and again felt most grateful at the assurance they bore me no ill feeling. Indeed, Mr. and Mrs. Lotti, the father and mother of the Yellow Bird's sponsor, were more than cordial toward me.

Almost immediately, we were rushed into a motor and started toward Paris with an escort of gendarmes.

These Paris drivers — say! I wouldn't drive a car here if they

ECLECTIC HEAD GIVES TALK

Dr. Byron H. Nellans, of Cincinnati, president of the National Eclectic Medical Association, today gave the annual president's address before the fifty-ninth yearly convention of the society in its second day at the William Penn Hotel.

Following a business session which opened the day, two sections—surgery and materia medica and therapeutics—conducted sessions. Presiding before the surgery section was Dr. E. B. Shewman, of Cincinnati, while papers were read by Drs. D. S. Newell, of Melcroft; C. A. Price, Cincinnati; R. T. Rudd, Fulton, Ky.; J. C. Hubbard, Kansas City, and F. L. Hosman, Indianapolis.

Prof. John Uri Lloyd, of Cincinnati, scientist and author, spoke on "The Future" at an afternoon business session preceding the second technical discussion on the program. Speakers on the latter schedule included Drs. J. P. Harvil, Nashville; C. F. Flannery, New Castle; C. L. Johnstonbaugh, Bethlehem; J. E. Holman, Indianapolis, and John T. Stewart, Indianapolis.

A clinic tomorrow at the Homeopathic Hospital will include surgery, eye, ear and nose, and medical treatments. The annual dinner will be held tomorrow night at the William Penn Hotel.

MR. AND MRS. HOMER SAINT-GAUDENS

CHARGES DRYS SHOOT QUICK

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—"They don't tell you to shoot, but they might as well—they tell you to stop 'em at any cost."

This is the charge against his superior officers which Louis H. Jacques, former patrol leader in the customs service at Detroit; brought to Washington. Jacques intended to present the complaint to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman, but was ushered out of Lowman's office after Lowman had declared he would not consult with a "man of that type."

QUITS OVER SHOOTING

Jacques, who resigned after the shooting of Archibald Eugster in Detroit June 12 by a dry officer, came to Washington in an effort to persuade the directors of the prohibition drive to stop killings by dry officers.

He said he resigned solely because he "couldn't stand for the promiscuous shooting which already has cost the lives of many innocent people."

"I went into the service to uphold the prohibition law, and I quit because I couldn't stand for the killing of innocent people," he said.

MANY AGENTS YOUTHS

"Every time they line a patrol up—which is every eight hours—the officers in charge ride you," said Jacques.

"It is an unfortunate situation. In Detroit the augmented force of dry officers is largely recruited from Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee. Many of the agents are green youths from the hills of Kentucky and Tennessee.

"They are frightened when they go out on the job. They are imbued with the idea that they are going into battle. They want to keep their jobs and make a record—and they shoot to do it."

SAINT-GAUDENS RETURNS

His European honeymoon ended, Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts at Carnegie Institute, returned to Pittsburgh today with Mrs. Mary McBride Saint-Gaudens, his secretary before their marriage.

Saint-Caudens combined business and pleasure, spending a part of the four-month honeymoon assembling European paintings for the twenty-eighth international exhibition at Carnegie Institute, October 17.

Europe is rapidly becoming Americanized, and more people are becoming interested in art, Saint-Gaudens said.

"In Europe I saw more people in galleries, read more about art in newspapers, and heard more about it at afternoon teas than ever before," he said. "As the nations are growing more prosperous and stabilized, so the average run of art has grown markedly better and better as the artist has become happier and more optimistic in his outlook, because at no time in the history of the world has he gone very far on bread and milk alone."

"The Poles, for instance, are having a notable exposition at Posen. They have constructed buildings on a huge scale, for so small a community, and their art exhibition in its freshness, health, craftsmanship and vitality beats anything I have seen in Europe for a long time. Spain is having two big painting shows this year."

On recommendation of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, chairman of the technical committee, Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., in co-operation with the Pennsylvania Railroad will inaugurate its joint air and rail service between New York and Los Angeles July 8, it was announced today.

Tickets will be placed on sale in Pittsburgh July 7, but applications for reservations may be made now.

More than 1,000 applications already have been received for the 20 places available on the initial flight.

The time for the journey from Pittsburgh to Los Angeles by the joint air and rail service will be 39 hours, and the fare $335. Passengers change from railroad to airplane at Columbus.

POLICE PERILED, MAN SHOT

Shot three times when he is said to have pointed a revolver at two Coraopolis policemen who went to his home to quell a disturbance, Jesse Lance, 42, of 845 Seventh avenue, Coraopolis, was in a critical condition today in the Sewickley Valley Hospital.

He was shot in the abdomen, hip and right arm by Chief of Police Samuel J. Riddle last night who hurried to the house after having been informed that Lance was holding the policeman at bay with a pistol.

County Detectives W. O. Alexander and Michael Ford, who conducted an investigation, said that Lance's wife had called the borough police after her husband became disorderly. The officers alighted from an automobile and were about to enter the home when he confronted them, it is alleged, with a .38 caliber revolver.

Persons who witnessed the police being held at bay telephoned again to the police station. Chief Riddle responded and seeing his men menaced by Lance drew his revolver.

Lance, the detectives said, was about to aim his gun at Chief Riddle when the officer opened fire. Lance was taken to the hospital where an operation was performed.

3RD CHILD DIES OF POISON

CHICAGO, June 19.—(INS.)—Three-year-old Lorraine Markowski died today, the third victim of a mysterious poison that is threatening to claim the lives of a family of seven.

Fifteen physicians, including several specialists, were studying the case as Lorraine succumbed. The other dead were Chester Kwiatkowski, and his sister, Agnes, 8. These two were children of Mrs. Irving Markowski by a former marriage.

Two other children and Markowski and his wife are fighting for their lives in the county and psychopathic hospitals.

Doctors who examined the stomach contents of the dead and living said the poison appeared to have a metallic base and may have been caused by canned goods. It was said it also may have been due to ingredients of paint, which Markowski used in his occupation.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Markowski was able to give police a coherent explanation. Authorities said they either were subnormal mentally or were suffering from effects of the mysterious poison.

PHOTOGRAPHER KIDNAPED BY RUM GANG

Manhunt on for Smugglers After Paper Camera Man Is Captured, Films Ruined

WINDSOR, Ontario, June 19.—(AP.)—Provincial police today were seeking a band of rum runners who kidnaped a newspaper photographer, threatened to throw him into the river and released him only after they had confiscated films he had taken of their activities.

Horace Wild, 45, a photographer for the Border Cities Star, accompanied by two reporters and his son, Noel, 18, were cruising on the Detroit River near Amherstburg when their activities aroused the anger of a score or more of rum runners who were loading their cargoes for the night's run.

The rum runners piled into four automobiles, keeping pace with the boat along the shore road and posted guards on all roads leading from the river bank. With the view of throwing off their pursuers, Wild and his son alighted at a private dock while the boat continued upstream with the two newspapermen.

Wild hid his camera in the brush along the bank, but he and his son were captured by nearly a dozen men when they reached the highway. The son was searched and released, but the elder Wild was placed in an automobile, forced to reveal the hiding place of his camera and then taken to an export dock, where he said some of the men suggested he be thrown into the river.

Officials of the Star, learning of the plight of their photographer, notified the provincial police, but before their arrival Wild had been released by a dock official. The police escorted him back to the dock in an effort to identify his captors, but the men had disappeared. Dock officials declared the kidnapers were Detroit rum runners and had returned to the United States. Inspector Arthur Moss said charges of kidnaping would be preferred against the men if their identity could be established.

VETS IN REVIEW AT GETTYSBURG

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 19.—(AP.)—Once a soldier always a soldier and so last night the remnants of that valiant band of Pennsylvania volunteers who swept across the field of battle in '63 prepared for another test of strength equally as great for their advanced years—a review under the broiling sun.

The march across the famous "wheatfield" on the battle grounds here was planned for today as a feature of the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania department, Grand Army of the Republic. And the little group of 150 attending the convention won't flinch.

For the sake of glory they will pass before their commander, George I. Rudolph, of Pittsburgh, and other spectators, including Lieut. Gov. Arthur H. James. Following their march, the veterans, all over 80, will stand by to review the Sons of Veterans' reserve units.

A haven of welcome rest was found by the veterans on the battlefield yesterday, where they went in search of shade and escape from the heat. Their business sessions begin today with the selection of a commander as the most important item. Phil Engelskirger, of Franklin, and D. S. Beemer, of Scranton, are the leading candidates.

Six affiliated organizations are also meeting here with several thousand delegates in attendance.

Will Be Hostess To Mission Circle

The Women's Missionary Society of the McClure Avenue Presbyterian Church is scheduled to meet this afternoon at the home of the Misses Mary and Minnie Reineke, 251 Dickson avenue, Ben Avon. Mrs. John Dornburg is to conduct devotionals. Miss Eleanor Lang will discuss "Woman's Activities in the Philippines" and Mrs. M. E. Justice will read a paper on "The San Juan Hospital."

Child Near Death As Boat Overturns

When the motorboat in which she was riding turned over in the Allegheny River near Tarentum yesterday, Ruth McMasters, 13, of 306 Stieren street, Brackenridge, narrowly escaped drowning by being drawn under the overturned craft. She was rescued by her father, George H. McMasters, who was in the boat with her.

Boater Admits Dry Shooting Tale Hoax

WINDSOR, Ontario, June 19.—(AP.)—Carl Raymond, of Monroe, Mich., admitted last night that the shattered windshield on his speedboat was due to a collision with a United States Coast Guard cutter rather than to the machine gun fire with which he had charged the rum chaser had greeted him.

Raymond's admission, announced by both United States and Canadian authorities, corroborated the statement of Arthur Gobel, captain of the rum chaser, that blank shells from a one-pound gun had been fired at the suspected rum runners.

P. O. S. of A. Camps Hear State Chief

TABLET MARKS 1ST MOVIE

Paying tribute to th memory of the man who originated the "nickelodeon," more than 3,000 persons at noon today witnessed the unveiling of a bronze tablet to the late Senator John P. Harris.

The occasion marked the twenty-fourth anniversary of the opening of the first all-film show place at 433-35 Smithfield street, two doors from Diamond street. The tablet, the ceremonies for which were conducted by the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania, was placed on the Frank & Seder Building at the exact spot and was unveiled by Miss Geneva Harris, daughter of the late senator.

Tribute was paid to the accomplishments of the late Senator by Mayor Charles H. Kline. Other speakers on the program included Eugene L. Connelly, vice president of the Harris Amusement Company, and Dr. Clinton E. Lloyd, dean of theater arts at Duquesne University.

A message from Edward F. Albee was read.

The first pictures exhibited in the converted storeroom with its 96 seats and a muslin screen were "Poor But Honest" and "Baffled Burglar." Mr. Harris was a partner of Harry Davis at the introduction of this innovation in the amusement world, and Mr. Connelly is credited with having coined its name.

Police Say Suspect Confessed Robbery

Joseph Sears, 21, of 115 West Hazel way, Homestead, held on the charge of being a suspicious person by the North Braddock police, is declared by the police to have confessed to the robbery of the store of Andrew Zawolicagny, 1564 Electric avenue, North Braddock, early today. Two men entered the store, knocked Zawolicagny down and took $75 from the cash drawer. Sears was arrested a few minutes later in the rear of the store by Lieut. James Kelly.

140 INDICTED, DRYS OUT TO PUSH TEST

Doran Promises No Mercy For Sellers of Equipment To Make 'Sucker' Liquor

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP.)—Indictments returned against 140 individuals and firms in New York charging conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law was said today by Prohibition Commissioner Doran to be the first large-scale test case against manufatcurers of paraphernalia used to camouflage "sucker whisky."

Prohibition officials were elated over the case and plan to carry on their prosecution against persons and firms furnishing containers, labels, coloring matter and other articles used in placing synthetic liquors on the bootleg market.

"BIGGEST EFFORT"

"The indictments are the result of the biggest effort the prohibition bureau has yet made to prevent the sale of the fake whisky," Doran said. "The successful prosecution of the charges will do much toward stopping the sale of such liquor.

"We have proceeded against every person and firm whose products enter into the manufacture and sale of 'sucker' whisky and we intend to carry on this campaign until we put a stop to firms and individuals manufacturing and selling those things.

"NO MERCY"

"There were 80 separate informations in the indictment and we will not spare any firm, no matter how reputable, that indulges in the sale of such paraphernalia."

The commissioner declared the sale of old whisky barrels, the lining of which are shaved off and sold to flavor synthetic liquor, was a distinct violation of the law. Prohibition agents, he added, had found bales of "rye chips" in a Brooklyn storage flat, which had been shaved from the inside of such barrels and held for sale to the conspirators.

PRISCILLA DEAN MARRIAGE VOID

ATLANTA, Ga., June 19.—(INS.)—It isn't always a happy ending, even in the movies.

A fadeout in Fulton Superior Court was one of disaster for Priscilla Dean, star of the once-silent drama, and Lieut. Leslie P. Arnold, who flew to Mexico last September for their marriage ceremony.

They aren't married at all, an Atlanta jury decided yesterday, because Lieut. Arnold's first wife, a wartime bride who lives in Groton, Conn., was never properly divorced.

Neither Lieut. Arnold nor the movie star was here when the verdict was returned, but the first Mrs. Arnold, who had brought the suit to set aside the decree of divorce which her husband won in 1925, was here and was very happy about the outcome, she said.

"I feel that my husband took an unfair advantage of me when he sued for divorce and failed to notify me," she said. "He knew where I was. And so I brought this suit to vindicate myself. That's all."

She left immediately for Groton.

BAPTIST FIGHT ON WAR LOOMS

DENVER, June 19.—(AP.)—A resolution presented yesterday denouncing war and compulsory military training promises to stir up the first whole-hearted debate of the Northern Baptist convention here.

After laying plans to combat the divorce evil and voting for a renewed temperance educational campaign, the convention yesterday elected officers, selected Cleveland, O., as the 1930 convention city, then sidestepped for the moment a resolution on the compulsory military training question.

That the resolution will stir up a debate today was indicated by Maj. Alva J. Brasted, of Fort Logan, Col., Army chaplain, who was prevented from launching an attack on it by the maneuvering of the convention managers. A. M. Harris, retiring president of the convention, announced when the war resolution was reached that he would entertain a motion to defer the remainder of the report of the resolutions committee. Those opposing the resolution declared they would maintain that by adopting a blanket denunciation of war, the Baptists would make themselves fervid conscientious objectors.

The only controversy which was allowed to develop over the resolutions, which were presented by the Rev. Ambrose M. Bailey, of Lowell, Mass., chairman of the resolutions committee, grew out of a proposal to establish "for the Northern Baptist convention a repository of the records of facts of pastors and churches." Discussion from the floor of the convention revealed a fear on the part of some that the depository would serve merely to keep a record of "black marks" against churches and pastors that failed to co-operate with the denomination as a whole.

Alton L. Miller, of Boston, was elected president of the convention. The entire slate of nominations, including the Rev. Dr. David Jones Evans, of Kansas City, Mo., for vice president, was accepted.

3 Pittsburghers Get Dartmouth Degrees

HANOVER, N. H., June 19.—John Morrison Conlon, Harry Atkinson Fennerty and Porter Sawyer Kier, Jr., members of the senior class and all residents of Pittsburgh, were awarded degree of bachelor of arts by President Ernest Martin Hopkins at the one hundred and sixtieth commencement exercises of Dartmouth college held in Webster hall yesterday. John Watson Spangler, of Bellevue, and Robert Cornelius Waddell, of Jeannette, Pa., were also awarded degrees of bachelor of arts.

Keech Pallbearer Caused Race Crash

COATESVILLE, Pa., June 18.—(AP.)—The auto racing driver who precipitated the crash in which Ray Keech was killed at the Altoona speedway last Saturday served as a pallbearer at his funeral at Hepzibah, three miles from here, yesterday.

He is Robert Robertson, of Daytona, Fla., whose skidding car Keech tried to dodge, resulting in a crash in which he was killed.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A PRETTY FROCK FOR DANCING OR COMMENCEMENT.

Crepe dehine, crepe or chiffon may be selected for this style. Taffeta or net is also suggested. The dress is sleeveless and has a round neck under the draped collar, which is ornamented by a smart bow on the right shoulder. The bow and the sash at the waistline may be of self material or of ribbon. The skirt is straight and full as pictured; it is embellished with rows of shirring. The fullness may be disposed in tucks or plaits.

The pattern for this charming style is cut in four sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. To make the dress for a 12-year size will require 2⅝ yards of material 35 inches wide or wider. For sash and shoulder bow of ribbon ⅜ yards will be required.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Man Tries Suicide, But May Recover

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 19.—No reason could be assigned by Jeannette police for the attempted suicide of John Griffin, 27, of Zellers avenue, Jeannette, who fired a pistol shot into his left chest. He is married and is father of four children. Hospital authorities say he will recover.

Paris Traffic Snarls Leave Stowaway Dazed

gave me the best one ever made! I don't think I could ever get on to the traffic regulations—if there are any!

I might have been content to remain in my room ever since arriving in Paris, but it was certainly quite impossible. Of course, I have seen many of the wonders of Paris, and have met many great persons at the various receptions—in fact, so many that I can remember the names of only a few of them.

However, I must confess I feel quite out of place amidst the feting and cheering. I did nothing heroic, and I feel the fliers themselves, and not I, should get all the glory.

But Lotti says that now we are all friends, and should stick together as much as possible. He's certainly a prince of a good fellow, and I am looking forward to the time when I will see them all again in the United States.

AUTOGRAPHS EVERYTHING

I have autographed everything in this part of the world, from shirtcuffs to franc notes. But I would like a great deal to have some little time to myself. Last night, I took quite a walk all alone, strolling along the famous Rue de la Paix, of which I have so often read and heard about.

I thank goodness I have not become a spectacle. I wasn't recognized and pointed out as a curiosity, and I had a great time by myself, looking into the various stores and watching the different characters on the street.

Paris surely is O. K., and when I think how many chances there were that I would never get here, I am certainly surprised to find myself where I am.

For it should be remembered that it wasn't the matter of my getting aboard the Yellow Bird, but the skill and courage of my companions in conquering the Atlantic, that brought me here.

There comes to me now a forgotten incident in my amazing voyage, and there is one that particularly impresses me at this moment.

At one time, while we were over the ocean, the flow of gas into the engine stopped!

We dropped rapidly, and I thought we were finished. I could feel the hair standing up at the base of my neck, and the gooseflesh standing out all over me. That falling sensation—how it gave me the creeps! It looked as if it were all over. Something stirred within my numbing brain, and I whispered to myself:

"It won't be long now!"

But Lotti started the gas flow again in some way I don't yet know, and again everything was O. K. But I can tell you now, it wasn't a pleasant thing, to be up there and plunging speedily down toward the water.

FLYING HIGH

Incidentally, the fact is that most of the time we flew so high I couldn't have told from the airplane whether we were over water or land.

But, to get back to Paris, where I am now. It is a place where liquor is more plentiful than water. Yet one sees practically no drunkenness.

Everywhere I go I am offered champagne, and I am afraid to refuse it for fear the refusal may be misunderstood. Yet the fact is that I don't care much for liquor of any sort—not even the famous champagne that means so much to others.

Personally, I would much rather have one good American cigaret than 10 quarts of the best champagne ever made.

About this Paris night life—it is probably faster than New York, but I am in not much of a position to judge either. Wherever I have been here, I have been initiated into various groups maintaining headquarters at the different bars of other resorts. Of course, there are not as many bright lights here as in New York, but there seem to be other things which attract the greatest attention.

My day today has been not quite so crowded as yesterday, but it has been every bit as interesting. The first thing we did was to visit the French minister of aviation, M. Laurent Eynac. What impressed me was the difference from any experience I've had with officials of the United States. The guards, all standing about in uniform, provided another colorful feature.

"REGULAR FELLOW"

Naturally, I have heard much about how people must wait in anterooms for European officialdom. But we must have been the exceptions that proved the rule. We were ushered right in, and I was much impressed by Monsieur Eynac. He is certainly a regular fellow, and I am greatly appreciative of the honor of meeting him.

Then, there was the cocktail and champagne party this evening at Paquins. The moment we entered the reception room, all the pretty models rushed forward and kissed us on both cheeks.

Personally, I prefer women who can talk and be pals.

But kissing is kissing, anywhere. And Parisian kissing—the two-cheek variety—might be just the best thing in the world to the French. However—I'll take mine American plan!

Finally, let me say the most moving event of all has been our reception by Madame Nungesser, mother of that gallant Frenchman who, with Coli, his companion, went down in the Atlantic on their attempt to fly from France to the United States.

The scene was very pathetic. She is a very fine woman and her tragedy is the saddest. After embracing each of us, and kissing us on each cheek, she guided us to her son's room, showing us his medals and tokens.

When we emerged, I was again confronted with a particularly insulting inquiry. It seems there has been a constantly recurring report that Assolant authorized me to enter the airplane. I guess this is the time for me to brand it as a deliberate falsehood. It is absolutely untrue.

(Third instalment of Stowaway Schreiber's thrilling narrative will appear tomorrow.)

WORKER GETS HERO MEDAL

For first-aid work in resuscitating Norman Cross, a fellow workman, who had suffered an electric shock, R. W. Dickerhoff, of 7513 Ardmore street, Swissvale, an employe of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, has been awarded the Samuel Insull medal.

Cross was made unconscious when he came in contact with a high tension wire last December 21. T. P. Gaylord, vice-president of the company, presented the medal yesterday at the East Pittsburgh plant.

THE HAHN FURNITURE Co.

Announces

THE FORMAL OPENING TOMORROW

of the

New North Side Store

Occupying Entirely the Three Buildings

807-809-811 Federal Street

For the past six weeks, the three buildings have been in process of remodeling and enlarging. Now, with the completion of the work, this new Hahn store is a worth-while addition to the business life of the North Side—a credit to the entire city. The buildings provide an ideal setting for the splendid furniture and home furnishings which Pittsburgh expects from the Hahn organization.

The very fine character of furniture—the intelligent and courteous service—the excellent values—and the liberal credit facilities which have built the Hahn store in East Liberty will be duplicated in this new Hahn achievement. A hearty welcome is extended to all to view the new store tomorrow, which will be open from 9:00 A. M. until 9:00 P. M.

630 GRADUATE AT PENN STATE

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., June 19.—(INS.)—The largest class in the history of Pennsylvania State College, totaling 630, was graduated at the sixty-ninth annual commencement in the new recreation hall yesterday. President Ralph D. Hetzel also awarded 31 advanced degrees, including three technical and three doctorates.

Dr. John A. H. Keith, state superintendent of public instruction, was the commencement speaker. Dr. Keith compared the expectations of the young graduate with the probable reception he could expect from society.

Commissions as second lieutenants in the United States Army Reserve were awarded to 58 seniors who have completed the R. O. T. C. training. Twenty-five of the commissions signed by President Hoover went to infantry officers; 27 to engineers and one in the Signal Corps. Five must wait until they are 21 to receive their commissions.

There were 99 graduates from the school of agriculture; 52 from the school of chemistry and physics; 57 from the school of education; 174 from the school of engineering and 31 from the school of mines and metallurgy. Degrees were given 413 bachelors of science and 217 bachelors of arts.

TEXT OF AMBASSADOR DAWES' DISARMAMENT PLEA

LONDON, June 19.—In presenting his plan relating to naval disarmament here last night, Ambassador Dawes said:

"We are in a period when mankind, emerged from its greatest cataclysm—the World War—is lifting its eyes from the darkness of the past toward the sunlight of international peace and tranquility. It is the era of effort for world construction—moral and material.

"The ratification of the Kellogg peace treaty, which is the agreed-upon expression of a world intention, has one of its first effects in a pronounced change in the form of international discussion of the world's peace. The closing of the discussion upon the form of the expression of the principle and the inception of the discussion of the practical methods by which to make it effective prove the existence of the general determination to make the treaty not a mere gesture, but the foundation of an era of 'peace on earth and good will toward men.'

"The matter of first importance at the present time is that the friends of the world's peace move unitedly toward that objective with a clear understanding among themselves that any effort which is not an united effort is liable to be ineffective and tending toward disintegration.

Work Together!

"To avoid confusion and delay endangering their common objective, they now should not only unitedly consider what steps should be taken toward it, but the order in which those steps are to be taken.

"The importance of an early agreement on naval reduction by nations is of outstanding importance at the present time and it would seem to be the next step to be taken toward world peace.

"As to any other controverted questions between any nations, or between Great Britain and the United States, their future peaceful settlement either way, will not be endangered by the cessation of an enormously expensive naval competition in progress during their discussion.

"Congress has already by law permitted the United States to an immediate naval program involving over $250,000,000, giving, however, to the President the power to suspend it in the event of an international agreement for the limitation of naval armament.

"On May 31, last, the Secretary of State of the United States said:

"'I have in my possession a memorandum for the director of the budget showing the cost of the program recommended by the Navy Department in case the policy of naval reduction which the President advocated is not adopted. That memorandum shows that the authorized and contemplated naval program for the construction of new ships alone, amounts to $1,170,000,000.

"'When it is borne in mind that the foregoing figures involve the construction program of only one nation, and that if it proceeds, other nations will be impelled to follow suit, the burden of unproduction expenditure which will be imposed upon the economic world during the next 15 years can to a certain extent be realized.'

"My address tonight concerns itself with suggestions as to a change in methods for future negotiations for naval disarmament.

"Agreement upon a method of negotiations must concern, from the very beginning all interested naval powers and should not have a partial but a world sanction.

"While, in the course of the discussion I may refer to the principle of equality of naval power as between Great Britain and the United States, it is only because the outcome of previous conferences shows that this is the agreed policy of both governments.

Affects World Peace

"My theme is, what measure of procedure had best be adopted to translate a policy of naval reduction into a fixed agreement between the nations—a step so important to the peace of the world and the happiness hereafter of mankind.

"Edmund Burke in his 'Observations on a Lete Publication on the Present State of the Nation' once made a profound remark about politics which he could have made with equal truth of law, of government systems, and of dealings with international relations of all kinds, including methods of negotiation for reparations settlements or reduction in naval armament.

"'Politics,' said he, 'ought to be adjusted not to human reasonings but to human nature, of which the reason is but a part, and by no means the greatest part.'

"The long time which elapsed after the ending of the great war before a proper method of negotiation for reparations settlement was evolved, was because the first method was adjusted to human reasoning and not to human nature. That method was to have the recommended settlement prepared by the continuing and concurrent work of economic experts and statesmen combined.

"Since the reparations settlement involved, in each one of the nations interested, both an economic and a political problem, it was reasonable to suppose that it would be best determined by the joint effort of statesmen and economists working together.

"This futile effort continued so long before its abandonment that all Europe was brought to the brink of economic and political chaos. And then only, in the latter part of 1925, did the Reparations Commission as an experiment decide upon the separate formation of the first committee of experts.

"This expedient, viewed at that time as almost hopeless by most economists, and entirely so by all politicians—then designated by one great member of the Reparations Commission as the 'prescription of a pill for an earthquake'—proved successful.

Triumph of Despair

"The formation of that committee was not a triumph of intellect—it was a triumph of despair. It was adopted because nothing else had worked. Its success was due to its conscious, but proper adjust to the law of human nature.

"What happened thereafter demonstrated that by accident the world had discovered that the proper method of settling an international problem, involving a separate economic and political problem in each country, was to use independent experts whose suggestions involved their interpretation of the correct and fundamental economic principles involved in the situation, their formula then to be handed over to statesmen who, reinforced by the general public confidence in the impartiality of expert opinion, could better bring the respective public sentiments into acceptance of the necessary wording of the compromise between political expediency and economic principles.

"In committees formerly composed of collaborating statesmen and economists, the economists had always stood rigidly for conclusions endangering the statesmen and the acceptance of the plan, and the statesmen for conclusions which would stultify the economists and endanger the success of the plan.

"Under such circumstances the arrival of a constructive compromise was well nigh impossible. The method was not adjusted to the law of human nature.

"Economic and technical problems are one thing—governmental and political problems are another.

Compromise Possible

"The rigid attitude and determined expressions of international economic and technical specialists, as to the inviolability and sacredness of technical principle, is perhaps praiseworthy, but we must remember that these expressions are always incide to a doubtful embodyment of them in a personal interpretation of their applicability to international political situations, of which experts are not always competent diagnosticans.

"One who is inclined to believe that economists and technicians, claiming to be guided in their intellectual voyages by the stars and compasses and high lighthouses of fixed principles, never compromise, as do the alleged unworthy politicians, is lacking in experience on international negotiations.

"For six years after the war the unhappy Reparations Commission, besides its other misfortunes, was surrounded by an army of economic experts representing different nations interested in the problem. These experts delivered innumerable written ultimatums as to the correct economic principles which underlay their divergent recommendations, which filled vast untouched libraries and moulder in their unruffled dust. The disagreements of these experts with each other swearing devotion to infallible principles, were as complete and overwhelming as those which characterized the deliberations of supposedly less worthy, entirely confused, but fully as determined politicians and statesmen.

"I remember during the last two weeks of deliberation on the part of the first committee of experts appointed by the Reparations Commission that, as the inside export committee was laboring with the formulations of its conclusions, almost all of them more or less the result of a compromise, they faced a snowstorm of protesting papers filled with vomuinous, but disagreeing advice of outside experts removed from the field of negotiations.

"Wheat I have said has a most direct bearing upon the question of the method of conducting the great negotiations for naval disarmament soon, justly to occupy the attention of the world.

"The question is how best to adjust the methods of negotiations to accord with the laws of human nature so that a successful outcome, so vital to the welfare of the world, may not be unnecessaly endangered.

"International naval reduction is a task, the successful accomplishment of which requires cooperative employment of two distinctly unrelated talents—that of naval technical experts and of statesmen.

"Important as is a preliminary expert examination of economists to report to statesmen on an international problem involving both an economic and political phase, it is even more important where naval technicians and statesmen confront a problem involving both a technical and a political phase.

"But here we must keep in mind the law of human nature, in the case of preliminary use of economic experts, their prime objective as a formula which will recognize the dominance of economic law, and the success of a statesman in reaching the second objective of accommodating the expert formula to the political conditions in the respective countries, is something as much desired by the economic experts as by the statesmen themselves.

Plain Language

"That later achievement only will crown with success the preliminary expert effort. This attitude has recently been twice demonstrated. So anxious was the first economic committee of experts, the reparations commission in 1924, that their report should be the basis of a successful settlement that they were engaged continually during their work in adjusting the form of their statement to the expected political repurcussion.

"It was their constant endeavor to frame their conclusions in such language as would make them easily understood and be as inoffensive from a political standpoint as was possible. This effort to adjust economic necessity to political expediency led them to many collateral individual conferences for advice from European statesmen during their work.

"As a result, when the report of the first committee of experts was delivered to the statesmen of the London conference, the latter found it unnecessary to change the plan, but only to supplement it by collateral international agreements relating to it, making it politically acceptable to all the nations concerned.

"And thus it was with the world-important report of the second committee of experts just completed. It was their intense desire to have a constructive outcome of their work, as much as because the work itself was a diplomatic as well as an expert employment, that led them to consult constantly with leading European statesmen during their epoch-making labors.

"This desire on the part of these economic committee accorded with the law of human nature.

"But in the case of naval technical experts, working for a formula for naval equality, the law of human nature runs contrary to such an attitude.

"It would be vastly more difficult, other things being equal, for a mixed commission of navy technicians and statesmen to agree on a plan for naval disarmament than for a mixed commission of economists and statesmen to agree upon a reparations settlement, practically impossible as history has shown the latter to be.

"A naval expert is qualified to define accurately the principles which should determine abstract naval equality. But the law of human nature decrees that his opinion is relatively not as safe in a program which he formulates as a practical interpretation of these principles applied to a partial destruction of his own navy.

"The proper pride of a naval officer's life is his navy. His whole professional career impels him to think of a navy only in terms of victory.

"He not only instinctively feels, but he is rightly taught to feel, that he must strive not for equal navies, but for a superior navy.

"It is difficult for him to forget that with a superior navy, victory is probable—with an equal navy, doubtful; with an inferior navy, almost hopeless.

Wants Equality

"Other things being equal, I fear no naval officer inherently favors equality. The naval officer has his duty to perform to his state, and it is primarily to secure it against attack. He therefore trusts to his ships and his armament.

"It is the duty of the statesman to remove from his state the danger of attack.

"Under the latter primarily lies the duty of peacemaking, and in these negotiations he must mold the initiative. He is the one to build up the new order and to start the new policy, guided as he goes by the advice of those competent and patriotic naval experts who serve him.

"What differences there are in their respective duties can be coordinated into a policy of statesmanship. And that alone is what I have in mind in what I now say. I have no knowledge of the qualifications and records of any naval officers heretofore engaged in these negotiations, or acquaintance with them. I am concerned only that the methods under which this work is to be done, whoever may do it, shall be adjusted with the laws of human nature.

"At the beginning of the work, the contribution of the naval experts to the problem should be a definition of abstract equality. It is certainly possible to naval experts to arrive at a definition for the evaluation of the fighting strength of ships. Thus, for instance, one might find a yard stick with which to determine the military value of individual ships. These ships might differ in displacement, size of guns, age, speed and other characteristics, and yet such an agreed properly weighted value might be given to each of these different characteristics as to make it possible to compare, for example, the cruiser fleets or combined fleets of the two navies, and establish a parity between them.

"If the naval experts rise to a proper sense of their responsibility, the use by statesmen of their yardstick will not be one which will invite peril from those extreme pacifists and extreme militarists who form the 'lunatic fringe.'

Doubts Experts

"But again in connection with the method of preparing the naval yardstick, let us consider the law of human nature. Should a commission composed of the representatives of each navy concerned meet to reach an agreement upon this yardstick, they would be asked to agree upon something, the use of which will reduce in number the idols of their hearts—the ships of their navies, I am casting no reflection here upon naval officers when speaking of the law of human nature which subconsciously influences actions of all mankind, learned or ignorant, good or bad, rich or poor, skilled or unskilled, great or humble, old or young, of every race and nationality of the world.

"I have already spoken of the fallibility and the lack of agreement of expert and economic opinion as exemplified by the experience of the reparations negotiations. I will say frankly that from a commission of naval experts of the respective nations meeting together and called to evolve a final definition of the naval yardstick, I personally should expect a failure to agree. It would seem that to adjust to human nature the method of arriving at naval reduction, each government might separately obtain from their respective naval experts their definition of the yardstick and then the inevitable compromise between these differing definitions, which will be expressed in the final fixation of the technical yardstick, should be made by a committee of statesmen of the nations, reinforced from the beginning by these separate expressions of abstract technical naval opinion and able again to seek further naval advice if necessary before the final fixation. These statesmen should further be the ones to draw up for the world the terms of the final agreement upon naval reduction which should be couched in those simple terms understandable to the ordinary man on the street, which, while the pet aversion of the casuist, are the highest expression of true statesmanship, that final, agreement, covering the quantitative dispositions, will go to the nations for approval or rejection.

"If this should be the outcome, let those entrusted with the last draft of the conclusions of the last conference be men born with the faculty of clear and concise statements, for that document must appeal to the composite will of the peoples of the nations, and in order to make a proper appeal it must be read generally and understood. There again we remember the operations of the law of human nature and will hope that in these men the temptation to show erudition will be subordinated to writing that which, while properly covering the cause, may be understood by their audience, a clear statement of the case, understandable by all, should mean success.

Gives Navy Hearing

"And here let me anticipate possible comments of those whom we have always with us on both sides of the ocean—the social purveyors of the trivial in international discussion who talk so continually about good relations and do so little to forward them. In all I have said tonight I intend nothing in derogation of the absolute necessity for consideration and presentation of the naval side of this question by its ablest experts the world over, and on the other hand, nothing in derogation of the absolute necessity of bringing to the political side of it the highest qualities of statesmanship which the world can provide. But to properly solve the problem we must adopt the methods which bring the full weight of both of these classes of men to bear upon it without unnecessary collisions during the first formulation period when they are properly concerned with two separate objectives.

Mistake Made

"Again, and also anticipating certain comment, let me say that while it is the fashion of these sensational days to attribute to any statement of irritating fact by a public man some malevolent purpose toward individuals, there is nothing of this in my mind.

"The committee from the governments which met at Geneva to agree upon naval disarmament was a mixed commission of statesmen and naval technicians, and in my judgement that was the reason for itts failure. The method was adjusted to human reasons, but not to human nature. We should not look upon the failure at Geneva in 1927 as the failure of individuals but of the method under which they were asked to function. This may be said, however, that under the laws of human nature probably 90 per cent of Englishmen think the American delegation was responsible for the mistake, and 90 per cent of Americans think that the British members of the commission were responsible for the mistake. The great overwhelming and sole satisfying fact about it is that the British and American people are a unit in agreeing that, whoever was responsible for it, a mistake was made. And of what is this significant? It means that in the inarticulate consciences and hearts of the two great English speaking peoples there is upheld, sacred and inviolate, the principles of the equality between them of naval strength.

"Their attitude upon this question—unmistakable—assumed as out of the realm of debate even by nationalistic demagogues of both countries—while decorated by reason, is based under the providence of God upon fundamental human instincts and a comingling of the blood.

"Under these circumstances, let us be hopeful for the cause of world peace and the progress of civilization, for in the joint hands of these same English-speaking people rests their secure guaranty."

LAWYERS SHARE TAX VICTORIES

Pittsburgh lawyers who set the ball rolling in the movement for the downward revision of the Federal tax on earned incomes when the subject was first announced in the Sun-Telegraph last February, are sharing with the Hearst newspapers in the success of the campaign.

Although the public objected to the burden of the tax levied on professional men and women, salaried people and wage earners, there were few who had the hardihood to voice their resentment of the tax when the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst papers first pointed the way.

It is recalled that a resolution presented at the March meeting of the Allegheny County Bar Association asking Congress to act in lightening the tax was met with a motion to lay the matter on the table. Farseeing members stood by the resolution and it was adopted. This was the beginning of a campaign which has since won the indorsement of every important civic and commercial organization and professional group in Pittsburgh.

Attorney Joseph Stadtfeld, president of the bar association, who steered the tax reduction resolution three months ago, declared today that the work of the Sun-Telegraph had borne good fruit and aroused the people of Pittsburgh and the surrounding country to the unfairness of taxing those who earn a living. He said:

"The fact that the Sun-Telegraph campaign is so successful is shown by the hearty support it has received wherever presented. I see no reason why earned incomes should be taxed so heavily. The indorsements received by the Sun-Telegraph indicate that bankers, merchants and industrial leaders as well as professional men concur in this opinion. I heartily commend the Sun-Telegraph for its undertaking."

Self-Inflicted Cuts Cause Man's Death

Blood poisoning developing from self-inflicted razor wounds caused the death last night in Mercy Hospital of Harry Jaffe, 60, of 2133 Forbes street, morgue attaches said. Deputy Coroner Robert Newman, to whom the case was reported, said that Jaffe had slashed his throat, left wrist, and both legs and then leaped from the second story window of his home June 1. He died after his right leg had been amputated when gangrene developed.

Misses' Chiffon Frocks

For Summer Afternoons and Evenings

$16.75

Two or three chiffon frocks will take a young woman successfully and coolly through the "dressy" occasions of the summer, and this group offers the opportunity to have the required number at comparatively little cost. At least one chiffon frock for summer is almost imperative, and this is certainly the time to select that important one.

Choose long-sleeved afternoon frocks; and dresses for dinner and informal dancing, in which deep cape collars take the place of sleeves.

Choose solid-color ones in orchid, Nile green, soft shades of blue, and pink. And prints in flower and refreshing conventional patterns.

NO DOMINATION IN METRO PLAN

By JOSEPH T. MILLER,
Chairman Metropolitan Plan Commission

In view of the interest in the forthcoming referendum election for the approval of the Pittsburgh Metropolitan charter, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has published daily brief statements of the commission. This is the last of the series.

These articles on the Metropolitan plan have outlined the government and the powers of the Consolidated City. They have told just how the Consolidated City will be ruled, how much authority it will have, how little it will interfere in any way with the home rule of any borough, township or city. Above all, they have explained that the Metropolitan plan is not a plan for a super-government, one dominating the whole county, but a plan for the co-ordination and co-operation of all the municipalities of the county for the best interests of the district as a whole.

Finally, in this concluding article, there is one point to stress.

NO DOMINATION

That is, that the suburban communities need fear no domination by the existing city of Pittsburgh.

The charter makes it impossible for the present city of Pittsburgh to control the situation by taking away from the boroughs, townships or smaller cities any powers, rights and privileges.

For if the legislature should pass any amendment to the charter making any change in the rights of these smaller municipalities, the amendment would have to receive not only a majority vote of the people of Allegheny County, but a majority vote in each of a majority of the municipalities of the county, or 62 municipal units.

Now, the existing city of Pittsburgh counts only as one unit. For it to get control would mean that it would have to go out into the country, or Metropolitan City, and persuade 61 other units, that is, boroughs, townships and cities, to agree to a change of their power. An outcome highly improbable, indeed impossible.

CITY OUTVOTED

More emphatic is this fact when it is considered that Pittsburgh under the present law has only 183,773 registered voters; the suburbs, 288,359.

But even if the improbable should come to pass, the surrender of the powers would not be to the existing city of Pittsburgh, but to the new Consolidated City.

Indeed, far from losing representation by the charter, the suburban communities gain by it. That fact is true because at present the three county commissioners are Pittsburgh men, not one of them from outside the city; but if the charter passes, three of the commissioners of the Consolidated City would have to be elected from outside the existing city of Pittsburgh.

Try Magnesia for Stomach Trouble

To Neutralize Acidity and Fermentation. Prevents Indigestion, Sour, Gassy Stomach.

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, soda and various digestive aids and got little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia, which you can obtain from any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE IS DANGEROUS

If you are over 40 and have dizzy spells, hot flashes, thumping in the head, shortness of breath, and sleeplessness, you have symptoms of high blood pressure, a dangerous condition that should have attention.

If you want relief from high blood pressure, go to Dow Drug Co., or any drug store, and get a bottle of Norma, a physician's prescription, that reduces blood pressure so surely it is sold on a guarantee of money back if not satisfactory. Often one bottle shows marked improvement. Try it today.

Real Estate

R. K. MacConnell, title officer of the Title Guaranty Company addressed the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board yesterday following the noon luncheon at the William Penn Hotel. He discussed the legislation considered by the recent session of the State Legislature which had a particular bearing on real estate, describing the real estate brokers' license law and the part which the Pittsburgh Board had in securing its enactment. James W. Cree, Jr., president of the board, presided.

The Wendover Land Company has filed plans with the Bureau of Building Inspection for a 10-story apartment building to be erected at 4601 Bayard street, Oakland, at a cost of $300,000. John McSorley is the builder.

"NO MEDICINE IN THE WORLD LIKE KONJOLA"

Pittsburgh Lady Found Health in New Remedy After All Others Failed Dismally.

"Konjola was the medicine I should have had in the first place." Time after time this expression creeps into the written or verbal indorsements of Konjola, the medicine with 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of roots and herbs.

MRS. ANNIE T. CARIFOLD

The Konjola Man, who is in Pittsburgh to help all who are suffering, was not sent to this city primarily to sell Konjola. Without obligation, everyone who wishes to be well again is urged to call on the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, and find out all about this super remedy. Find out what Konjola has done, what it is doing and how it does it and then decide what you will do about Konjola. You will learn how each one of its 32 body-cleansing, pain-banishing, health-giving elements go to the very source, the cause of the disease, strengthening, invigorating and regulating the important functionary organs to a more normal, healthy action. You will hear of case after case wherein Konjola proved the first and only medicine that gave relief. A typical example of Konjola at work was described by Mrs. Annie T. Carifold, 705 Arch Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"There is no medicine in the world like Konjola in my estimation. I have come to this conclusion because it did more for me than all the other medicines and treatments I tried put together. Every time something was recommended to me to relieve the stomach trouble from which I was suffering, I gave it a trial, but with the same result—disappointment. Dieting, drinking orange juice, buttermilk—everything, but still my stomach caused intense distress. Finally my kidneys and liver started acting up and the miseries almost drove me mad. I was discouraged and without hope of betterment.

"Then Konjola was recommended to me and the indorsements were so sincere that I felt I would be making a mistake not to give it a trial. I secured several bottles and started the treatment. That was the turning point and I improved rapidly. Just as I was told it would, Konjola went to the source of my ill health and removed the cause. My digestion was restored so that I could eat three hearty meals a day without distress. My kidneys were corrected and my liver was regulated. I can hardly believe I am the same person and my former ailments seem like a bad dream. To Konjola goes all the credit."

The same old story—success—wherever Konjola is known and put to the test. Konjola is a medicine for the family—for everyone, for what it has done for others, it will do for you.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

The Merry-Go-Round, Old Mill, Whip, Ferris Wheel, RACER, OR CHOICE OF ONE RIDE IN KIDDIELAND, the Caterpillar, the Miniature Railway, Seaplanes, Tilt-a-Whirl and Tumble Bub will be open for these guests of the Sun-Telegraph on July 3.

Every youngster in Pittsburgh is invited to take his fill of the exciting rides in this great amusement park—free!

Anyone under 16 years of age is invited.

Dr. Duncan Defends State's Blue Laws

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 19.—The blue laws of Pennsylvania were vigorously defended here last night by the Rev. Dr. W. W. T. Duncan, of Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, Pittsburgh, in an address before the fifty-second annual convention of the Greene County Sunday School Association. Criminal laws in this country, he asserted, were educative rather than deterrent. "The law is one of the greatest educative forces," he declared.

KURTZ BURIAL TO BE FRIDAY

Funeral services will be held Friday from the Moreland Funeral Home, Highland avenue, for Harry L. Kurtz, 63, private secretary to Harry Davis, and for 23 years secretary and treasurer of the Harry Davis Enterprises Company, who died yesterday at his home in the Dithridge Apartments, Dithridge street. He was born in Connellsville, and after attending the public schools of that city entered the University of Pennsylvania. Previous to his association with the theatrical business here, he was connected with the Frick Coke Company of Connellsville, and the Baldwin Automobile Company of Connellsville, one of the first manufacturers of automobiles in the United States, being a director of the latter company.

He was a member of King Solomon Lodge, F. & A. M., of Connellsville; Pennsylvania Consistory, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, and Syria Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine; Connellsville Order of Elks, the Pittsburgh Athletic Association and the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church.

He leaves his widow, a brother, I. W. Kurtz, of Peru, Ind.; a sister, Mrs. Carl Cameron, of Pittsburgh, and a niece, Mrs. J. E. Carroll, of Berkeley, Cal.

Even little women have learned —beauty comes from within HELPLESS little lady! She can't patronize the beauty salons, where fine complexions are made from without. No compacts and lip sticks in her purse! She must depend entirely on the beauty that comes from within. Even beauty specialists admit there can be no permanent good looks without good health.

Delicious, chocolated Ex-Lax is a great aid to the beauty that comes from good health. It's the safe, effective chocolated laxative for young and old. Children love Ex-Lax because it tastes like a bit of smooth, fine chocolate. And science shows that it is safe, gentle and effective.

The laxative ingredient of Ex-Lax is an achievement of chemistry. It does not gripe nor disturb digestion. It does not embarrass—its action is dependable and prompt—yet natural.

The chocolate with which this laxative is blended by the exclusive Ex-Lax process is a perfect carrier insuring uniform action and full effect.

Your druggist has Ex-Lax in two sizes—25c and 50c. Trial size 10c.

Don't let Rheumatism make an invalid of you.

S.S.S. stands ready to knock it out.

THOSE muscular pains, commonly called rheumatism, are generally due to a run-down condition, with the number of red-blood-cells below the normal count.

S.S.S. aids the system in building up these red-blood-cells and in getting rid of the condition of which the rheumatism is but a symptom. The body becomes strong and disease-resistant, and the rheumatic pains go.

Pains in your muscles and joints make you miserable, less efficient, interfere with your working hours, ruin your sleep. If allowed to continue, as the years pass the danger increases.

But what a change with rich, red-blood-cells in your body—Nature's building material—making the flesh firm—giving strength to the vital organs.

You can't rub rheumatism out. It is deeper than that. It must be knocked out. And the sure way is by helping the fighting blood—the red-blood-cells!

Increase your army of "workers" (red-blood-cells), and those muscle and joint pains, commonly called rheumatism, vanish. S.S.S. has brought this change about for thousands. Why not for you?

"After suffering several years, six bottles of S.S.S. completely relieved me of rheumatism. It also cleared up a skin eruption and gave me a good appetite. I think S.S.S. is a wonderful medicine."
R. L. Busic,
Southern Railway,
Knoxville, Tenn.

"I was very nervous; had hardly any appetite, and suffered with rheumatism. I tried many medicines, but S.S.S. is the one that did me the most good. I am now well, and feel like a new man."
William Osborne,
2406 Sloan Street,
Flint, Mich.

COAL DEMAND INCREASING

CHARLEROI, Pa., June 19.—Indications that the Youngstown Steel and Tube Company, and principal Pittsburgh district consumers were filing heavier demands for coal from the Monongahela Valley helped the general trade outlook today.

Increased demands for 200,000 to 250,000 tons of coal on monthly lists were reported in the chief distributing centers. Price levels down to a tonnage rate, where coal is practically an easy bargaain for the consumer, had an influence on the market and was expected to fill many of the steel companies' storage yards.

Unfilled orders amounting to 125,000 tons were reported in the Bentleyville mining area, while the river looked optimistically on their list of unchecked, unfilled orders. Clairton, Duquesne and Homestead mills were reported as demanding 20 per cent more coal than in the previous June period.

4TH AVE. AUTO BAN RESCINDED

Safety Director James M. Clark has rescinded his recent order forbidding automobiles to stop on Fourth avenue long enough to discharge or admit a passenger, according to a letter submitted to Council.

Clark advised Council on Monday that he would begin the following day a 60-day trial period prohibiting cars to park at any time on the northerly side of Fourth avenue or to stop even momentarily between 8 and 9:30 a. m. and between 4:30 and 6 p. m.

PROTEST RECALLED

Upon receipt of Clark's notice, Council instructed him to defer establishing the drastic ruling. Various members recalled a protest lodged a few months ago by Fourth avenue bankers when Clark suddenly began to enforce a three-year-old ordinance prohibiting parking on both sides of Fourth avenue. That ordinance has not been repealed.

The protest was made at a hearing before Council and resulted in a compromise whereby the safety department was to allow machines to park for a reasonable time.

In yesterday's letter, Clark stated he had intended his last "no-stop" and no-parking ruling to apply only to the northerly side of Fourth avenue, implying that parking would be overlooked on the southerly side.

OTHER BANS AFFIRMED

He declared he would submit next Monday a letter outlining definitely where the "no-stop" rule shall apply.

Council yesterday affirmed ordinances forbidding parking on both sides of Carson street from Tenth to Seventeenth streets; on the westerly side of Logan, Congress, Elm, Fernando, Epiphany and Chatham streets and Washington place; allowing parking on the easterly side of the latter thoroughfares; prohibiting parking on the northerly side of East North avenue from Federal street to Loraine street.

An ordinance prohibiting parking on Nobles lane, Carrick, between Brownsville road and Trost avenue was held in abeyance until the rule is subjected to a 60-day trial period as required by law.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Messler Completes Plans for Debutante Dinner Dance

FOR a brief week or two this sunny June, the debutante will come into her own. The debut parties of June buds will close the season, and more debut events will open the fall and winter season in September. Weddings really hold sway over June events in spite of horse shows, and dog shows, and benefits, and sports, and debuts, too. But the early summer debutante becomes more important each year.

Most of our entertainments for debutantes will be coming out parties or dinners or dances for girls who are coming out the last two weeks of this month.

One exception will be a dinner dance Mrs. Remsen V. Messler will give on Monday in the Pittsburgh Golf Club for her niece, Anne Douglas Stewart, daughter of Mrs. Douglas Stewart, of Solway street. Debutantes of the past winter and girls who'll come out this month or in the fall will be included among the guests, and other members of the younger set as well, I understand.

Anne will not come out until fall.

OUR interest of late has been centered a great deal in weddings in the East, one of the most important to us being set for tomorrow, when Eleanor Croft, daughter of the Harry W. Crofts, of Pittsburgh and Greenwich, Conn., will be married to J. Henry O'Neill, son of Mrs. Joseph O'Neill, of Fifth avenue.

The ceremony will be performed at "Grahampton," the Croft summer place, by the Rev. William B. Martin, pastor of the Holy Family Church of New Rochelle, N. Y., with only members of the families and a few close friends there. Eleanor is having just two attendants, her brother's wife, Mrs. Richard G. Croft, and Mrs. Samuel Pryor, Jr., the former Mary Taylor Allderdice. Both of them live in Greenwich.

William Howard Taft II, of New York, is going to be Mr. O'Neill's best man and the list of ushers includes Henry Vaughan Blaxter, William F. Bickel, Erl C. B. Gould, Alfred G. Harlow and Charles A. McClintock, all local men, and Richard G. Croft, of Greenwich.

Mrs. O'Neill and her daughter, Miss Josephine Temple O'Neill, left last night for Greenwich, and they will be guests of the Crofts over the wedding.

ANOTHER eastern wedding, in which several local girls will be members of the bridal party, takes place tonight. Mrs. Bennett Rodgers will be matron of honor, and Elinor Munroe, Helen Murdoch and Josephine Nicola will be bridesmaids at the wedding in the St. Regis Hotel, New York, of Mary Katherine Blagden, daughter of the E. Reynolds Blagdens, of Greenfield and Hyannisport, Mass., and Roger Vereker Farquhar, son of Roger B. Farquhar, of New York.

The bridegroom's father will be best man, and Elliott Johnson, of Chicago; Norman Farquhar, John Duncan, Jr., Chester B. Robbins, Clarence Pray, Henry Bahnsen, Shiff McCarroll and Kenneth Hobbs, all of New York, will be ushers.

A reception for more than 200 guests will follow the ceremony.

After the wedding the Farquhars will sail for Europe on the Isle de France.

ALSO of interest here is the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Louise Ryals de Cravioto, daughter of Mrs. Katharine W. Ryals, of Waverly place, New York, and Bartlett Arkell, of New York, which was solemnized Friday in Paris. Mr. and Mrs. Arkell are planning to remain in Europe all summer and when they return they will live in New York.

The former Mrs. de Cravioto is a sister of Mrs. Herman R. Blickle, of Dunmoyle avenue and Warrenton, Va., you know. Her daughter, Elizabeth Consuelo de Cravioto, was married to Magill Smith in New York late in February, you may remember.

AT a birthday party given this afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Paul in Hulton road, Oakmont, announcement was made of the engagement of their granddaughter, Eleanor Tiers, of Thirteenth street, Oakmont, to George C. Quelch, Jr., of Pennsylvania avenue, Oakmont.

FRANCES KIER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kier, of Beechwood boulevard, who is home from Farmington for the summer, has as her house guest Jeannette Hyde, of Hartford, Conn. Last night, Frances gave a very small dinner dance at home for her guest.

THE marriage of Miss Alma R. Pfischner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. W. Pfischner, of North avenue, Millvale, and Charles A. Braun, son of Mrs. Rose Braun, of Delafield road, Aspinwall, was solemnized this morning in St. Mary's Catholic Church, Sharpsburg.

The bride wore a powder blue lace ensemble with a horsehair braid and lace hat to match and carried Claudia Pernet roses and delphinium. Mrs. C. O. Gilson, as matron of honor, appeared in sun tan chiffon banded with tulle with a hat of horsehair braid and satin to match, and she carried butterfly roses and salmon snapdragon. Lambert D. Dorworth, of Greensburg, was best man. A breakfast at the Hotel Schenley followed the ceremony with covers laid for 20, and later Mr. and Mrs. Braun left for an eastern motor trip. They will be at home after July 15 in Delafield road. The bride attended Penn Hall, Chambersburg, and Mr. Braun is a University of Pittsburgh graduate.

AT a double wedding tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in Calvary Lutheran Church, Wilkinsburg, Miss Ellen Sophie Schmid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fidel Schmid, of Holland avenue, Wilkinsburg, will become the bride of Ernest F. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Brown, of Savannah avenue, Wilkinsburg, and her sister, Miss Minnie Anna Schmid, will be married to J. Alfred Geikler, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Geikler, of Philadelphia. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Luther A. Krause, assisted by the bride's brother, the Rev. J. Herman Schmid, of Minneapolis. Miss Hildegarde and Miss Margaret Schmid, sisters of the brides, will be maids of honor, and the brides will be given in marriage by their father and their brother, Albert Thomas Schmid. Howard Geikler is to be his brother's best man, and Kenneth F. Brown will be best man for his brother, while the ushers will include Albert T. Schmid, Edward Harder, Frank Thompson and Albert Schueller. A reception at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel will follow the ceremony. The rehearsal dinner will be given tonight in the Alcoma Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Brown.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Miss Carrie Lois Lawrence, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. John Sharpe Phillips, son of Mrs. J. S. Phillips, of the North Side, which was solemnized yesterday at 5:30 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. Kidney, in Bellevue, by the Rev. Dr. James Russell McFarland, of Monessen. The bride, who was given in marriage by her cousin, Carroll Norton, wore flesh-tinted chiffon and carried a Dresden bouquet. Mrs. Norton was matron of honor, appearing in Nile green chiffon and carrying Dresden flowers. Dr. John Kaiser was best man and the ushers included Guy Ramsey and Dr. Paul Riester. A dinner followed the ceremony and later Dr. and Mrs. Phillips left for a motor trip. They will be at home in Marshall avenue, North Side, after August 1.

MISS ELEANOR RANKIN ALEXANDER, daughter of Mrs. Nellie Rankin Alexander, of Park avenue, New York, and John Charles Newsome, of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Charles Newsome, of Bellevue, were married yesterday at 4:30 o'clock in the Byzantine Chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York, by the Rt. Rev. Arthur Selden Lloyd, suffragan bishop of New York. Miss Ethel Norton Skinner was maid of honor and Thomas Austin Yawkey, best man. The ushers included Robert Lee Newsome, Richard Hernely Newsome, Herbert Walker, Alan Choutard Eustis, Jr., Brittin Choutard Eustis, Lester Ward Manning and John Alden North. A small reception in the Alexander home followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Newsome sail tonight on the Aquitania for a trip abroad and early in August will be at home in East Eighty-fifth street, New York. The bride is a graduate of Miss Masters' School, Dobbs Ferry, and is a member of the Junior League in New York.

MRS. N. GROSS, of Lee road, Cleveland, has announced the marriage of her daughter, Miss Dorothy V. Gross, and Arthur Katz, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Katz, of Braddock, which was solemnized June 10. Mr. and Mrs. Katz will make their home in Wheeling, W. Va.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. FRANK G. SHERRY, of Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Catherine Bernadine Sherry, to Paul C. Duffy, son of Mrs. Margaret Duffy, of Braddock. An early fall wedding is planned.

* * *

A CHILDREN'S party is planned for Friday afternoon at the Pittsburgh Country Club. A special entertainment has been planned and there will be favors for the children. Mrs. H. S. Nicholson is chairman and Mrs. Frank E. Wilson, vice chairman, of the hostess committee.

"I am a WOMAN—but for 6 years I dressed, fought and courted like a MAN"

THE intimate day-by-day adventures told by herself of Mrs. Valerie Arkell-Smith who, as swashbuckling "Capt. Barker," fooled the world for six years.

What prompted this aristocratic, high-strung girl to hide her sex and assume the role of a man? How was she able to dupe soldiers with whom she fought, lovers who adored her—even the woman she married—into believing she was a man?

She bares her soul and tells all in "WHY I MASQUERADED AS A MAN." You have never read a story like it—the most amazing human document ever printed.

The Greatest Issue of the Magazine for Young Women

Smart Set is the gay, entertaining, up-to-the minute magazine that helps young women make the most of themselves.

The brilliant July issue is printed in color, brimming with the best fiction money can buy, and packed with more than a thousand hints on how to improve your beauty, intelligence, style, and personality.

6 masterly short stories—5 great novels—10 brilliant special features—3 touching poems—8 expert articles dealing with every problem of the young woman of today.

Note just a few of them below.

The Inside Story of the Lindbergh-Morrow Match

How would you like to know Lindbergh as he really is—to know what goes on behind those blue, fearless eyes, that smiling, inscrutable face? What was there about Anne Morrow that stirred the heart that beautiful women by thousands have failed to touch? Read "THE COLONEL'S LADY" and you will know. An intimate accurate picture of Lindbergh, written by a woman who has known him since he was fourteen and who speaks with authority on his match with Miss Morrow.

The Passion that Poisoned a Queen

For her Sir Walter Raleigh flung his coat in the mud. Dukes, Lords, Prime-Ministers, and Generals fell like chaff before the whirlwind of her personality. Her name? Queen Elizabeth the Great. But mark this—she never had a happy love affair in her life. Her besetting sin and her unquenchable passion was jealousy—and it defeated her. For every woman who is in love there is a great lesson in "THE WOMAN WHO NEVER GAVE," a remarkable biography written by Adela Rogers St. John.

Why Marion Talley Renounced Fame at Twenty-Two

The world could not understand why this lovely opera star kicked fame into the discard at the very pinnacle of her success. Here she tells why. She wanted a beach and a ukulele instead of an opera stage and the plaudits of millions. She wanted to be herself instead of a celebrity. As fascinating a life story as you will ever read.

One Hundred Hints for the Mid-Summer Wardrobe

How would you like to look Paris-dressed on a very small expenditure? You can do it. Smart Set has devoted more than 40 pages to the discussion of chic and daring bathing suits, afternoon and evening gowns, hats, slippers, and scarves.

Would You Marry A Poet?

Peggy did—and got fired from her job for doing so, and he was the world's worst poet at that. Virginia Lee has written a romantic tale, a funny tale, in "THE LADY OF THE HARD HEART."

The Problem of Hair at the "In-Between" Stage

If your hair is at the "in-between" stage, here is a Permanent Wave that avoids the difficulties of the transition from a modish bob to hair that's long enough to "stay put." A Permanent that waves the hair becomingly about the head and curls up unruly ends into manageable ringlets. In technical terms, it's done by a "Quarter-twist" for the top and a "flat wrap" for the ends. But, whatever the terms, the result is gratifying—in beauty and in comfort!

BREAKFAST'S HEADLINER ....a cup of good coffee

SUBSTITUTE anything else on the breakfast bill, but don't leave out the coffee, for to the average American a cup of good coffee is indispensible to his morning peace and happiness. ¶ Now it's made electrically at the table. Now you can listen to the "perking" while you eat. Now you can catch the appetizing odor of coffee in the making. Now you can watch it being poured and taste the joy of anticipation. And then you can taste the coffee itself, and realize how good a cup of good coffee can be. ¶ The Breakfast Headliner . . . make it worthy of its position . . . make it electrically.

PHARMACISTS IN CONVENTION

BEDFORD, Pa., June 19.—The Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association opened its fifty-second annual meeting at Bedford Springs yesterday with three interesting sessions.

President C. Leonard O'Connell, of Pittsburgh, opened the first session at 10 a. m., which was taken up with reports of various committees.

The afternoon session was again given over to committee reports, which were followed by an address by Charles T. Pickett, secretary of the Pennsylvania Association of Retail Druggists.

At the formal opening of the convention last evening J. Anson Wright, member of Legislature from Bedford County, welcomed the convention to Bedford Springs. The responses were made by Cecil R. Bloom and Mrs. Henry G. Renwer. The president's address was followed by the reception to the president and the annual ball.

Today there will be but one business session, most of which will be given over to an illustrated address by Dr. Robert J. Ruth. The balance of the day the members will enjoy golf, tennis and swimming.

Hail Hits Fruit Near Uniontown

UNIONTOWN, June 19.—One of the most destructive hail storms in Fayette County in recent years yesterday did thousands of dollars damage to fruit trees. The hailstones were as large as walnuts.

In scores of orchards the fruit trees were stripped clean. The hail seemed confined to a radius of about a mile, as little fell in Uniontown.

My Bleach for Tan and Freckles

"I continue my photographic posing all through the summer," says Miss Emily Boyle, noted New York camera model, "and being inclined to tan and freckle, I have to have a bleach that will keep my skin white and flawless and at the same time is harmless.

"For my bleach I use no ready-made preparation, but simply get three ounces of Orchard White at the drug store and mix it with the juice of two lemons. This makes a quarter pint of a perfectly marvelous bleach for a few cents. Rubbed into the face, neck and arms, it bleaches away tan and freckles and makes any dark, sallow or discolored skin beautifully clear and white. This is the bleach all the studio models learn about soon after they begin posing. No ready-to-use preparation can equal it, because, for one reason, you use it while it is still fresh."

of the program committee, as outlined in the new year books, are carried out. Opening October 10 with a luncheon in the Edgewood Country Club, the members will go on through a year of papers by members, addresses by visitors and occasional social events. "Where Does Our Money Go?" "Are Budgets Practical?" The Origin of Christmas Carols," "Homemaking Versus Housekeeping" and "Family Hospitality" are the subjects assigned to the club's own members, while others are to be discussed by outside speakers, among whom will be Dr. N. Andrew N. Cleven, Miss Elva Bascom, Kenneth Black, Mrs. David Alter, Samuel H. Allen, F. U. Arrera Guerra, Mexican consul; Dr. E. L. Piper, Mrs. Rollins A. Haddock, Jr. Their topics will vary from books, inter-American relations, investments and peace to wills, citizenship training and preventive medicine. A night meeting on February 13 will have Ralph G. Reichhold, cartoonist, as the attraction; a theater party in March will be another spring event and a guest day is dated for May 8, a covered dish luncheon closing the season on May 22. A play under the direction of the drama committee will feature this affair. Mrs. George Schmidt is next year's president of the club.

Ruth Harding's Friends Start Race With Death To Save Her Life

CHAPTER XXXIV.

AS the echoes of the shots died away, sanity broke through Jimmy's drink-crazed brain.

"Ruth! Ruth!" he called. "What have I done! Help me! dear God!" But the gods of Jimmy Adams—and his ancestors—failed to come to his aid, there at the edge of the world's greatest crater.

Fear—stark, naked, abject—and terror—were the only companions which rode beside him as he went back to the cabins.

These—and the crumpled, silent, bleeding figure of Ruth Harding.

He never knew anything of that lonely ride back to the cabins with the unconscious body of that wounded girl beside him. Don Carlos was the first person he met. He had been unable to sleep and was standing on the small lanai of the cabin, puffing at his pipe.

Suddenly Jimmy was standing before him, with the quiet body of Ruth in his arms, and Jimmy's lifeless voice was saying:

"I have shot the only human being I have ever loved. I—I think I have killed her."

Don Carlos' heart stood still at his words.

"A-a-auwe! A-a-uwe!" He recalled the warning of the old witch! And it had come to pass.

He rushed madly forward, took the burden in his own sturdy arms. Jimmy collapsed at his feet.

Lights shone forth everywhere, suddenly from darkness and silence.

But the silence was no deeper than the silence into which Ruth seemed to have gone. . . . Broken only by the dry sobs which shook the body of Al Harding. But from Jimmy, sitting huddled on the ground outside, came never a sound.

It was Eugenie's clear-thinking mind which finally got the little group organized. Everyone else seemed to be running madly about—lost motion everywhere. She awakened Col. Drinkwater and asked him whether any of his fellow officers knew anything about wounds.

"Lord! This is awful, terrible. The darn old witch. It never would have happened if it hadn't been for her warning. That poor little girl." He looked grotesque in his long white nightshirt, as he bent over Ruth.

"Something must be done quick," he urged. "Her heart is beating ever so slightly."

Eugenie stripped the girl of her blood-stained garments, attempted to stop the flow of blood from a gaping wound below the heart.

"Don't stand there, colonel. If any of those officers know the first thing about surgery, awaken him and bring him over here immediately."

"God bless my soul! I'm that stupid! To be sure, old Simpson is an army doctor. Retired, but a darn fine surgeon even now. I'll run over and drag him out of bed. God bless my soul. That poor little girl!"

Eugenie and Eleanor were doing everything for Ruth that was possible before Col. Simpson arrived. But there seemed so pitifully little for any of them to do.

Col. Simpson came back with Eddie Drinkwater; his trousers pulled over his pajama suit, his hair disheveled. But looking none the less the professional man called in an emergency. He had seen service on Flanders Field.

He found the frightened group standing about the unconscious little form, lying so quietly on the rough cabin bed. He ordered them all from the room—save Eugenie, who was washing away the red stream of Ruth's blood with the clear mountain water.

Afterwards, when he had made his examination, he shook his head sadly.

"This is serious, Mrs. Nahuli," he reported. "I doubt she can stand the long ride back. But we must take the chance. An operation may save her life. The bullet is imbedded just below the heart."

"She has a chance?" Eugenie asked.

"A fighting one. But order the trip back to Wailuku at once. Phone ahead for preparations for an emergency operation."

It was a nightmare—that trip back to town. Ruth had been put under an opiate by Col. Simpson, but ever and anon her muffled moans tore at the hearts of those beside her.

She looked so tiny and white, her dark hair outlining the frail little face lying against the pillow, lifeless. Al, sitting beside her, where they had improvised a bed for her, holding one of the small hands in his own bronzed one, whispering softly to ears that might never again hear his endearments.

"Sweetheart! Little Sweetheart! Don't leave me, my own! You're my whole existence!"

Paul Howells drove slowly over the rough mountain roads of Maui in the eerie dawn, racing with Death!

PETTING PATTY — Patty Would Get Jealous

EDWIN NEVER KNEW — By JULIA RANDOLPH ELAM — Daily Short Story

ALL his life Edwin Hastings had labored under a terrible handicap. He was a twin, and thereby lay his undoing. Even as a baby he had never received individual compliments—people had raved over the twins. As he grew older, he was repeatedly blamed for not answering when his brother Edward was the one called, or Edgar would receive credit for having gathered up the toys which he himself had carefully laid away. When they reached the pugnacious age, Edwin received several black eyes which were destined for Edgar.

In school alone did their likeness serve them to good purpose, for either one who knew the question could respond without fear of detection. Edwin even then seemed to get more black marks than Edgar, for he almost invariably knew the answers to Edgar's questions, while both of them frequently fell down on the questions assigned to him.

For two weeks during his senior year in high school, Edwin, who had been extremely shy of girls, fancied himself deeply in love with a curly-haired little blonde with big blue eyes. He had carried her books home valiantly every afternoon, withstanding the teasing of the other boys as bravely as a knight of old, and he had even perpetrated the extravagance of giving her a two-pound box of de luxe chocolates. He had counted highly on the hay-ride picnic just preceding graduation as an opportunity for a more intimate session with his ladylove but Edgar, availing himself of Edwin's foundation, which he had not had initiative or funds to lay for himself, stole the kiss which Edwin would not have dared to ask for.

Thus ended love's first young dream, and in the years that followed Edwin had immersed himself in the mastery and practice of the dental profession. Edgar was also a dentist and had an office adjoining Edwin's, so some of Edwin's patients went to Edgar by mistake, but notwithstanding this Edwin made a fair income.

One hot summer week-end the twins were invited on a house party. Invitations were always extended to both, since no one could discriminate between them. Occasionally Edwin dropped a laughing hint that he would like to be invited singly, without his ever-present double, as the competition was too close, but the remark was taken as a joke and disregarded, as no one knew whether it had been uttered by Edwin or Edgar.

Edwin did not care for golf, so Saturday afternoon he found himself with Merle Smoot, a grey-eyed, black-haired young lady, who also preferred the cool cloister of the woods to fashionable basking in the sun. Edwin was glad that she was not a blonde, for since the high school episode he had detested blondes.

They sat on a mossy bank, dabbled their bare toes in a cool hollow beneath an overhanging rock, and discussed the major and minor poets, and such personal things as whether they preferred waffles or soda biscuit for breakfast.

For one glorious afternoon Edwin was an individual. Then he suddenly remembered that Merle would inevitably meet Edgar, when he returned from the golf course, and she would probably not be aware of the fact that Edgar didn't give a hang about poetry, but, as all the rest, would simply see in him a slim brown-eyed, brown-haired replica of Edwin.

All the way up the steep rock path to the house, Edwin scarcely knew what he said to Merle, for he was sure he had found in her a kindred spirit, but he was almost equally sure that Edgar would appropriate her. He couldn't warn her, couldn't give her a password by which she might distinguish him, for if she didn't feel that he was different, that he was himself, Edwin, an individual, it would be useless anyway.

"Bye, Merle, see you later," he said more nonchalantly than he felt, and went up to dress for dinner.

When he returned to the porch, his brother was smoking a cigaret at the farther corner. He seated himself in a wicker rocker near the door and glanced idly at the day's paper.

Merle stood poised in the doorway and both Edwin and his brother rose punctiliously. Edwin fought to keep a tremor from disturbing the mask of his face. He waited, one hand tense on the baluster rail.

Merle, with a swish of green draperies, crossed direct to Edgar and looked up laughingly into his face.

"Oh!" she said with a little grimace, "you are the other one. Mrs. Greene told me she had invited twins for the week-end, but I didn't know you and Edwin looked so much alike."

Edwin fancied a tiny emphasis on "looked." Merle then had detected his individuality, the intangible something which differentiated him from his brother and the rest of the world. He smiled all over himself and his white shirt front inflated.

He took Merle in to dinner and basked in her flattering attention to his every comment and her laughter at his weakest jokes.

Midway the dessert, the question smote him: "Would Merle know me in the dark?" It was most essential that she should, and he would not be satisfied until he put her to this final test. He was conscious of a choking feeling in his throat.

After dinner it was suggested that they drive to a nearby resort for dancing. Edgar had brought his sedan, so four of them started towards the car. The moon had not risen and the driveway was pitch dark.

"Have a seat in front?" Edgar questioned Merle, and Edwin waited at her other side, his fingernails digging into his palm.

"No; I'm going to sit in the back with Edwin. We'll swap later if you want the back seat," Merle laughed.

Now Edwin knew—Merle was his girl forever and always. Edgar could not take her away from him.

Merle did not deem it necessary to explain to her husband in after years that she had taken a memory course for faces, and had immediately spotted the tiny mole in the corner of his left eyebrow.

And, after the first time, it was easy, for Edwin had the diffidence of her lover, while Edgar possessed the cocksureness of the indifferent.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Husbands, At Par

THE greatest surprise that some men will have in Heaven will be the astonishment on the faces of their wives, at seeing them there.

If we really develop through pain and suffering, the woman who is married to a bore, an egotist, a Don Juan, or a parlor wit, must be spiritually ready for Heaven long before she dies.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Why Are You Always in Perfect Health?

I HAVE a suspicion that many persons suffer needlessly from muscle and joint pains. One of the most common of human complaints is backache. Neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism as well as lumbago and sciatica, are among the things which take the joy out of life.

DR. COPELAND

We hear so much about the suffering of the human race that I sometimes wonder how many persons there are who never have an ache or pain. There come to my desk every day hundreds of letters from every part of the world. One day recently more than a thousand such letters arrived.

I realize, of course, that persons who are never sick are unlikely to write. Many of the unafflicted, however, are kind enough to express their appreciation of my efforts to keep them well. You will recall that the central theme of every one of these articles is how to avoid sickness. It is the business of the family doctor to treat the sick. I can conceive it to be my job to do the best I can to keep you from illness.

But the particular thing I have in mind today is to find out how many people never have aches and pains. I should really like to hear about this. If somebody should read these lines who is never sick, who never has a headache, a toothache, or a backache, please write and tell me about it. At the same time, please be good enough to tell me why you think you have been so well.

I am sure we are agreed that it would be a wonderful thing if we could make health contagious instead of having disease contagious. The only way to do this is by establishing such standards of living as have been found to be successful in the maintenance of health.

If you have been well all your life, if you have been free from aches and pains, if you have good teeth, strong muscles and smoothly working joints, we want to know the reason why you have been so fortunate. Certainly you have convictions as to why you have good health. Give us the benefit of your convictions.

IN the game of love woman is always the spider, man the fly. But there the parallel ceases. For never has man been unwilling to be caught in the tangled meshes of the web of Love. True, cynics sometimes say that the victim tries to escape and that the more determined are his efforts, the tighter is drawn the web.

But cynics and sentimentalists alike will admit that the web of love is inescapable—that once caught the victim cannot disentangle himself if he would. And the explanation is simple. The enchanting smiles and the beautiful eyes of a girl in love are spellbinding. Man can only watch, admire and succumb. He realizes that slowly but surely the web is being drawn about him, to hold him fast for life. He realizes that, like the unsuspecting fly, if he but hovers near he is doomed.

Wouldn't you expect him, then, to keep out of sight? Wouldn't you think he could manage to avoid the temptress? Ah, but this is no easy task. Can man escape the sunlight, can he flee the magic of the moon? Beauty is everywhere, and where beauty is, there are drawn man's feet.

Woman is the charmer, and man the willing victim of the web she weaves.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Logical Reason for Mary's 'Trick' Bank Account Being Sought.

AT Katherine's softly spoken assertion that she thought she knew why Mary had a bank account at Southampton under the name of Janet Rawdon, Lillian and I turned and looked at her hopefully—and respectfully. I had been so obsessed with the theory of Janet Rawdon's being a blackmailer, that the discovery of the truth had left me groping blindly for some explanation of Mary's action.

I saw from Lillian's face that she shared my uncertainty. "If you've got a theory, Katrina, bat it out quickly," she said. "I've just had mine knocked into the bleachers."

"I may be wrong, of course," the little nurse said hesitantly, "but I've been imagining lately that Mary is getting restive under her agreement with Phil Veritzen to keep away from his beloved son."

"You're not the only one," Lillian struck in. "I've been thinking that little thing myself. How about you, Madge?"

"I have been sure of it," I said, "since last night. There was something about the nonchalant way in which she telephoned Prince Georges to bring Noel, and the marked favor she showed him after he arrived, which made me feel that she must be distinctly defiant toward Philip Veritzen's dictum."

"Exactly," Katherine assented. "She's planning revolt, I'm sure. Of course that means she'll have to give up her dream of being 'the greatest actress Philip Veritzen ever trained' as he promised her. think she's been saving her allowance with some fantastic idea of having a little reserve fund to fall back upon when she and Noel face the world together."

She laughed softly, fondly, as she finished, and we smiled with her.

"It's just the sort of fantastic scheme Mary would evolve," I said. "She's the most impractical child alive—"

"Except Noel," Lillian amended. And I nodded a troubled assent.

"I think you've guessed the answer," I told Katherine slowly, "and while I'm terribly relieved, of course, to find that Mary isn't the victim of a blackmailing scheme, yet this upsets me. I had hoped—" my voice trailed off into silence, and Lillian finished my sentence for me.

"That Mary wouldn't upset the apple cart until after the Zenda-Graustark romance thing had palled upon Olina and Georges. I've been 'holding that thought' too. If the break comes from Olina's side, then Phil couldn't blame Noel for the collapse of his ridiculous plan to ally his house to a royal one."

"Well, no beans have been spilled," Katherine said comfortingly. "If Phil Veritzen would get out of the way for a little while, it would help a lot."

"He's likely to depart from our midst any day," Lillian announced, "to be gone a fortnight or so. About this time of year he does his Caliph-of-Bagdad stuff, traveling under some other name to the sticks and watching shows, hoping to find some unknown genius doing a song and dance. Anybody else in his position would be sticking close to little old N'Yawk, currying his horses for the race. But he chooses to start late and make everybody wait for the Veritzen production of the year. I think it's colossal, idiotic conceit myself, but it sure plays into our mitts just now. Anything may happen in two weeks. Let's lay Mary's affairs on the shelf for a day or two. Do you realize, Madge, that your spouse and mine may roll in any minute? 'Me, I goin' git dressed oop.'"

Katherine and I laughed at her realistic imitation of Katie, then as she went out of the room, we looked at each other with eyes suddenly tender.

"She may not know it," Katherine said, "but she's more in love with her husband than she was with Robert Savarin."

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Thoughtless Husband

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My husband and I were crossing the street the other evening. I hesitated to allow a car to pass; he went on and called back: "Come on!" When I caught up with him, I reprimanded him for not having taken my arm and assisting me, as a gentleman should. Here is his argument: "Why should I take my hands out of my pocket when they are cold, to take your arm, when it is just as easy for you to take hold of my arm?" He also continued with the argument, saying that if I should write you for advice and explain the facts to you, you would tell me I was a most selfish girl to expect such treatment. Now, please—am I?

READER.

I WONDER what we can do to erase this small—I hope!—streak of ungallantry, to call it by its least disagreeable name, in your husband? It's the wilful male making itself predominant, I suppose, over the "female of the species," and being extremely discourteous about it. "Selfish" is the perfect word, I should say, for HIS attitude about being helpful to his wife. You'll need a world of tact and understanding and patience to eradicate this shadow of thoughtlessness, and I'll put my prayers to the wheel to help you.

The Guests of Honor

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. In giving a formal dinner for an engaged couple, does the hostess place the gentleman at her right and his fiancee at his right?

2. Also, is he his fiancee's escort to the table or does he escort the hostess to the table? C. H.

THE fiance is placed at the right of the hostess, and the fiancee at the right of the host. These are the positions of honor.

2. He goes into the dining room with the hostess, and his fiancee is with the host.

"SKINNY" WOMEN, QUICK!

GAIN WEIGHT AND CHARM

New IRONIZED YEAST Adds Pounds in Few Weeks. Results Guaranteed—or pay nothing

"Gains 15 lbs. Clears Skin. Looks 10 Years Younger"

"Gained 15 pounds taking IRONIZED YEAST. It ended tired feeling; gave me pep and ambition. Cleared my complexion. I look 10 years younger."—(Mr.) W. P., Campbellsburg, Ky.

Don't let a "skinny" body, ugly hollows or bony limbs ruin your charm. IRONIZED YEAST adds 5 to 15 pounds in few short weeks; clears your skin, banishes age-lines; gives you new pep. You'll feel and look years younger.

How and Why Ironized Yeast Works Wonders So Quickly

Ironized Yeast is two great tonics in one. Weight-building YEAST and strengthening, blood-enriching IRON. The Yeast is the kind used in making malt and which makes malt so beneficial.

This Yeast is treated with two kinds of Iron used for years by highest medical authorities. Iron enriches the blood; makes cheeks rosy; tones nerves and muscles.

The Yeast is further treated with Violet Rays, the latest scientific discovery, which increases its energizing and weight-building powers.

Only when Yeast is thus Ironized is it most effective; for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building, strengthening value of Yeast. By this special formula, Ironized Yeast gives you results in half the time required by Yeast or Iron taken separately.

Don't be skinny, haggard, weak, pimply. Get IRONIZED YEAST today. Pleasant tablets without "yeasty" taste. Do not upset stomach; no gas or bloating.

A "Skinny" Body Ruins Charm

Quick Results or Money Back

Go today to any drug store. Get full size treatment of IRONIZED YEAST. If not delighted with results of this generous trial get your money back.

CAUTION! While the amazing health-building value of IRONIZED YEAST tablets has been clearly and positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, indigestion, constipation, skin eruptions, poor complexion, and a generally weakened physical and mental condition, IRONIZED YEAST should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to having weight increased to normal.—©I. Chauncey Parsons Sings 'Gypsy Love Song'

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

HERBERT'S "Gypsy Love Song" from "The Fortune Teller" will be sung by Chauncey Parsons, tenor, during the Yeast Foamers' concert over KDKA at 8 o'clock.

The feature is of particular interest to Pittsburghers because both the composer and the singer have been prominently identified with Pittsburgh's world of music. Victor Herbert conducted the Pittsburgh Symphony many years ago while Mr. Parsons formerly sang from KDKA many, many times when people listened in on what Jim Hughes describes as "tin can receiving sets."

In view of the recent escapade at the Western Penitentiary, fans might show more than a passing interest in a four-act prison thriller, "The Black Flag," which will be produced by Hank Simmons' players during the Show Boat Hour, WJAS at 8 p. m.

A little bit of everything is included in the Palmolive Hour, WCAE at 9:30, including "Love Tale of Alsace Lorraine," "The Glow Worm," "Dardanella" and "Dance of the Paper Dolls."

Oldest Senator Feted, Gives Rule For Longevity

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP.)—The oldest member of the Senate, Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming, listened smilingly to an ovation from his colleagues yesterday and then turned from legislative business to tell what the experience of 85 years has brought him.

Success, he said, is achieved by those who "work hard and stick to it," but that is not all.

"Do everything well," he added.

"I wish to all the members of the Senate the long life and happiness which have been my portion," the veteran replied as applause again resounded through the chamber, and later he offered a simple prescription for longevity.

"Do what you think you ought to do," he advised.

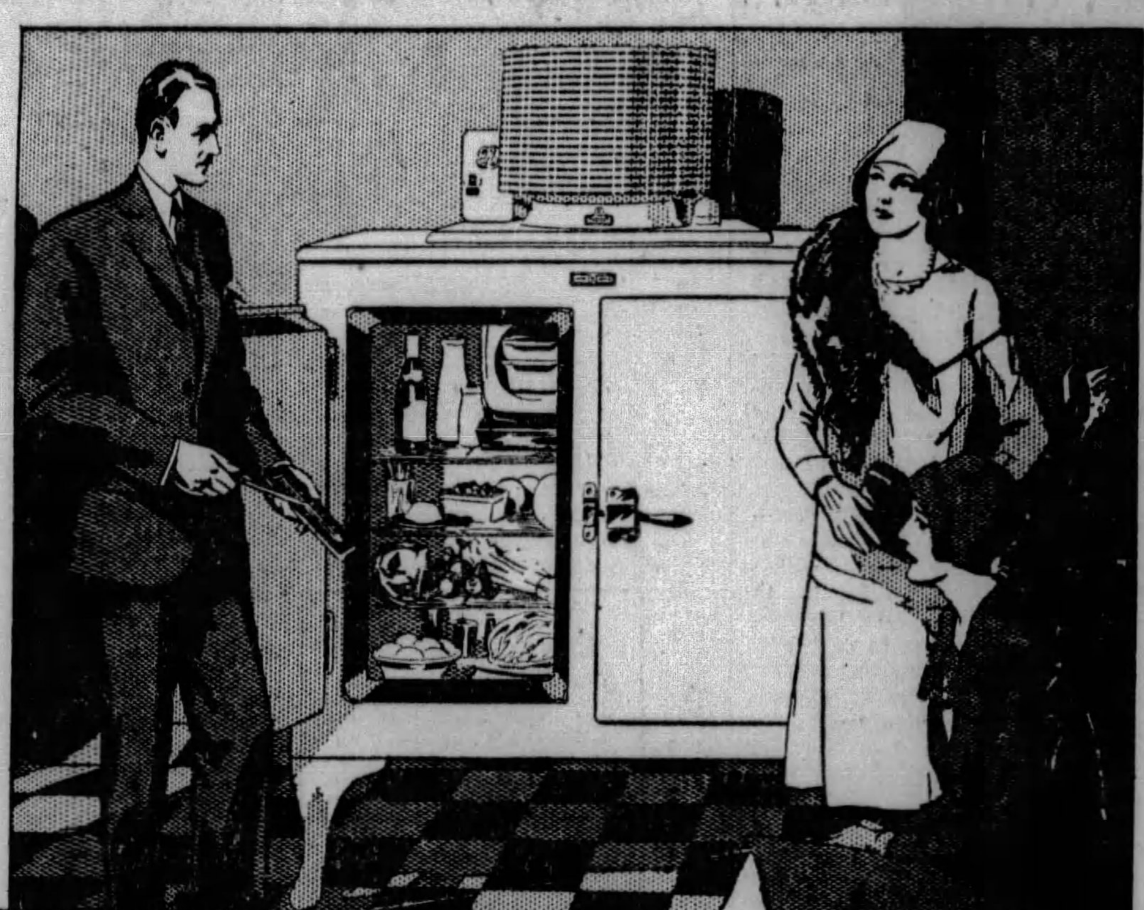
It keeps your food safe
—the temperature is well below 50°...always!

For family health ... for appealing menus ... this is vital



In the General Electric Refrigerator the temperature is kept several degrees below fifty . . . always! Fifty degrees is accepted by scientists as the "danger point" in the preservation of food. When the temperature rises even a degree or two above that, bacteria multiply, foods become unsafe to eat.

Perhaps you think your own refrigerator is always "cold enough." You cannot be sure unless you actually take your refrigerator's temperature. It is constant cold which is needed.

Note these vital points of superiority

Countless superiorities give the General Electric Refrigerator its outstanding position . . . an hermetically sealed, dustproof mechanism, mounted on top . . . an accessible temperature control . . . a new standard of quiet operation . . . no oiling . . . no troublesome machinery . . . simplified installation . . . no radio interference . . . an unqualified two-year service guarantee.

The new all-steel cabinets and the hermetically sealed mechanism combine to produce what we believe is the finest refrigerator ever made.

Not a dollar for repairs

More than a quarter of a million homes are enjoying the convenience, economy and health-guarding services of the General Electric Refrigerator. And not one of these owners has ever paid a dollar for repairs or service! This is a record in the industry.

The new all-steel General Electric Refrigerators are priced as low as $215 at the factory. A small payment down places one in your home.

Visit our display rooms—see the new models—you'll agree that they offer the greatest values of all.

8 RALLIES TONIGHT TO SPUR METRO DRIVE

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

A LOCAL boy who is making good in his home town, Steve Swetonic, a pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, is to be tendered a testimonial dinner a week from tomorrow night in the clubhouse of the Allegheny Elks. Swetonic, a North Side boy, will hear pleasant things said about him when Toastmaster James F. Malone begins calling on the speakers. One of the prize movers in the affair is Happy Moran. That regular attendant at dinners and banquets, Councilman Harry Little, another North Side boy, is so enthused over the Swetonic affair that he has captured no less than two tables. The word is out that the main body of the Pirates will be on hand as well as a group from the visiting team.

Sam Gardner, the district attorney, is clearing his desk preparatory to another motor trip this summer. He is probably the most traveled amateur motorist in the city. He has been as far east and as far west as you can go in this country without getting your machine wet from the ocean spray and he has driven as far north as Montreal. This year Mr. Gardner is contemplating a trip to the Canadian Northwest to add a few more thousand miles to his speedometer. The other point of the compass has been neglected by Mr. Gardner because his vacation comes in the summer time and the South, in case you don't know, is a little too warm to visit in July and August.

While going over his plans in court the other day, Mr. Gardner espied the case that had brought him in. A woman was holding a baby in her lap. At some distance away was her husband, a man of some 35 years, wearing an untrimmed beard. Mr. Gardner was seeking to have the man removed from jail so that he might help the baby and the mother. The man was thrust into jail to satisfy some sort of creditor, but Mr. Gardner was going to ask the court to let him out so the man could get work and attend to the wants of the mother and baby.

IN THE same courtroom a jury was being called, on which were several women, and a court attache remarked that women make good jurors because they are interested in the work and because they believe they should be conscientious inasmuch as they draw what they consider a good wage from the county for this work.

A number of the women called to jury service are plain everyday housewives, who welcome the change from the monotonous grind of dish-washing, hanging up clothes, washing the baby, mending socks, and listening to the troubles of their respective husbands.

It is the dope around the Court House that women jurors are harder on sisters before the bar than they are on men in similar distress. They seem to go on the theory—the old double standard which unfair as it is also is upheld by the ladies—that more is expected of women than men.

The usual grist of cases seemed to be coming up, with Mr. Langfitt acting as inquisitor, but yet achieving a very impersonal air in the proceedings. The cases were listened to by an elderly judge, who, in delivering his various sentences, seemed to be dealing with hypothetical cases, rather than actual ones. One young man, a deceiver, was ordered to the workhouse, ordered to pay so much a week to the mother, and to take care of other expenses, and his lack of emotion, the matter-of-fact attitude of the girl, the impersonal observations by Mr. Langfitt, and the words of the court rolling out into space made it most difficult to believe that this was something in real life. There would be slightly more emotion shown in any freight yard where the receiver presents his bill of lading for a box of oranges. I always am a little disappointed in these matters, brought up as I was on fiction and melodrama, for I think that district attorneys should point more fingers of scorn than they do, and I would like just a few more tears from the accused and the accuser.

375 GRADUATES AT NORTH SIDE SCHOOLS

Allegheny, Oliver and Perry Arrange Exercises Next Week at Carnegie Hall

Three high schools of the North Side—Allegheny, Oliver and Perry—will present diplomas to 375 graduates at annual commencement exercises next week.

Oliver and Perry will have banner classes. Allegheny, once the only high school of that district, has seen a marked drop in the number of graduates since erection of the two other institutions.

USE CARNEGIE HALL

All three high schools will hold their commencements at Carnegie Music Hall, Schenley park.

Perry high, with 103 graduates, will hold exercises next Monday night. The program will be provided by the students of the graduating class. Orations will be given by Earl Warrick, valedictorian, Elizabeth McKinney, salutatorian, and probably by two other honor students. John H. Adams, principal, will preside.

Baccalaureate services for Perry will be held next Sunday night in the school auditorium. The Rev. Dr. John E. Simpson, of North United Presbyterian church, will deliver the address.

STUDENTS GIVE PROGRAM

Oliver High's commencement will be held next Wednesday night, with J. F. Bailey, principal, presiding, along with Charles S. Ramsey, class president. One hundred and twenty-seven will receive diplomas. Orations will be given by Leonard B. Volkin, valedictorian; Lois Hernan, salutatorian, and Margaret McCauley. The Rev. Dr. Robert H. Allen, of Brithon Road Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation.

Allegheny High, with 145 graduates, will hold commencement, Friday night, June 28.

LUNCH TALKS ON CHARTER SLATED

Meetings in Various Parts Of County Aid Campaign; More Leaders Indorse Plan

Eight meetings are scheduled in different parts of the county tonight in the interests of the Metropolitan Charter. In addition, two speakers were to discuss the charter at luncheons and another meeting was to be held later this afternoon.

A mass meeting was held last night in Leetsdale and three prominent residents of the county added their indorsement to the charter in statements issued yesterday.

William E. Best and Daniel B. Dougherty are scheduled to speak tonight in the Rennerdale school in Collier township and three other speakers will address a gathering in the Braddock township fire house. Other meetings are to be held in the home of Mrs. Ray Hissner, 2781 Home avenue, Baldwin township; at the ball park at Large, Jefferson township; in the Davidson school, Penn township; the Morse school; the residence of Mrs. John Wright in McCandless township, and at the East McKeesport High School.

George Rankin, Jr., was to address the Lions Club of Wilkinsburg at the Penn Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg, and Dr. E. N. Clopper was to address the Knights of Columbus luncheon at the William Penn Hotel today. This afternoon Mr. Best was to speak to members of the Dormont New Century Club in the St. Clair country club.

Charles A. Woods, Sr., borough solicitor of Sewickley, addressed a community meeting in the Leetsdale High School last night. E. T. Whiter, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, issued a statement indorsing the charter yesterday. Henry Tranter, president of the Tranter Manufacturing Company, and Bernard McDermott, Sr., Democratic city chairman of Duquesne, also added their approval to the charter.

3 AUTOS CRASH; PAIR HURT

Two persons were injured in a crash of three automobiles at Cape May and West Liberty avenues yesterday. They were Joseph Damattio and his wife, Anna, of 3725 Kentucky avenue, Dormont, both of whom were cut and bruised.

Police reported that Damattio made a left turn off Cape May avenue and crashed into a machine driven by Charles Framissio, 25, of 95 Dawn street. E. Gordanna, of 1703 Rutherford street, who was nearby was unable to avoid the wrecked cars, police said, and crashed into them. The drivers were arrested by Mt. Washington police charged with reckless driving.

Goodwin Academy Stages Benefit Play

The dramatic department of the Goodwin Academy gave an entertainment in the East Liberty Carnegie Library for the benefit of the Homewood Post of the American Legion's welfare fund. Three one-act plays were presented.

LAST FLAT BEER CASE QUASHED

The end of the famous "flat beer" case was written into Federal Court records today.

On motion of United States Attorney John D. Meyer, Judge R. M. Gibson quashed an information charging contempt against one "B. E. Henderson," a mysterious defendant who never was apprehended or identified.

Gossip at the Federal Building at the time of the hearing, seven years ago, had it that "Henderson" was a prominent Western Pennsylvania politician.

John Douglas, Jr., former county clerk of courts, and William A. Kelton, former prohibition group head here, were adjudged guilty of contempt in removing several hundred barrels of confiscated beer from a government warehouse, where it had been placed on court order. Each served one year in jail.

Saloonkeepers who complained they were compelled to buy "flat beer" were responsible for starting the disclosures.

NO INQUEST FOR OFFICER, WIFE

With the investigation by county detectives closed and accepted for official records, Chief Clerk James L. Davidson, of the coroner's office, announced that there will be no public inquest into the deaths of Patrolman Edward Stemmler, 23, and his wife, Jean, 24, in Sewickley Monday. Evidence shows that Stemmler killed his wife of 10 months and then took his own life, the investigation revealed.

The body of the slain woman will be taken to Huntington, W. Va., her former home, by her mother, where it will be buried, while that of her husband late yesterday was removed to an undertaking establishment in McKees Rocks.

Club to Observe Third Anniversary

The Beacon Club has arranged for observance of its third anniversary to be held in the club rooms, Forbes street, Thursday June 27. Three members of the club will be honored at this time, M. Barney Cohen, recently named assistant district attorney, Thomas Calig, named county detective and Sam Friedman who is a court attache. Invitations have been sent to city and county officials.

2 GIVEN MEDALS FOR SAVING LIFE

Saving the life of a boy and rendering first aid to three other persons injured in an automobile accident won the Theodore N. Vail medals today for Allard J. Davids and Huber N. Fleegle, employes of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. The medals were presented to them by F. J. Chesterman, vice president of the company, at a luncheon at Penn McKee Hotel, McKeesport.

On May 11 Davids, an installer-repairman, and Fleegle, an installer, controlled a hemorrhage from an artery which had been severed in a boy's head when an auto hit a pole in Wilmerding. The other occupants of the car also were skillfully treated for lacerations and shock.

Negro Held in Fatal Attack on Woman

A coroner's jury today held Wilbert Rose, 30, a Negro, for murder in the death of Mrs. Mary Mulvihill, 75-year-old widow, who was beaten with a skillet and hatchet June 9 in the home of Matt Hodgson, 802 Shaler street, where she was housekeeper. Lieut. David Corbett, chief of the homicide squad, testified that Rose had confessed to the assault.

'PEGGY' BURNS TRAILED

Frank Burns, 1425 Page street, North Side, whose daughter, Margaret (Peggy), 15, disappeared Tuesday of last week, said today he suspected she had gone to Cleveland.

He had been informed, he said, that "Peggy" was on friendly terms with a girl from Cleveland who was stopping at the Federal Hotel. Burns intends to visit the Ohio city tomorrow to investigate.

He asked the Sun-Telegraph to print this:

"Margaret, if you want to see your mother, come home at once. She is very ill."

Margaret Burns is the girl to whose delelnquency Teddy Joyce, master of ceremonies at the Penn Theater, was alleged to have contributed. He was exonerated.

Merger of Churches Approved by Court

Judge Elder W. Marshall, in an order handed down in Common Pleas Court, approved the merger of the Calvary Evangelical Church and St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church, of Natrona, under the name of the former, which was incorporated in 1926. St. Peter's Church was incorporated in 1898. Rev. A. Boerstler was president of both congregations.

RIVER HEALTH SURVEY SET

A sanitary survey of the Allegheny River from Ford City to Aspinwall and including the Kiskiminitas River, to determine the character of river water as to its suitability as a source of supply for waterworks serving the public, is about to be undertaken by the sanitary water board of the State Department of Health.

Dr. Glenn V. Brown, chemical engineer of the board, who is to supervise the survey, already has established headquarters at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg.

The survey will include detail studies of public sewage, industrial wastes and acid mine drainage discharged into the main river at various stream stages, according to Dr. Brown.

A base laboratory from which operations will be directed is being established at Wilkinsburg, while another will be placed at the filtration plant of the New Kensington Water Company, New Kensington.

The Pittsburgh water department, through Chester F. Drake, superintendent of filtration, and E. C. Trax of McKeesport, consulting analyst for a number of waterworks in the Allegheny valley, will co-operate in the work.

The conclusions of the survey will be the basis of recommendations to be made to the sanitary water board relative to regulation and control of pollution by both sewage and industrial wastes.

Charges Officer Hit Him; Asks $20,000

John J. Fitzgerald, 65, veteran employe of the Carnegie Steel Company, asked $20,000 damages of Frank Digman, Pittsburgh patrolman, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. Fitzgerald alleged that while he was in his home, 68 Edgewood avenue, Lincoln place, May 23, Digman entered and without any provocation attacked him, striking him violently on the head with his mace and kicking him on the legs and hips, causing injuries which have prevented him from working since.

Rose Party Planned For Scholarship Fund

The Queens Daughters of the P. C. C. W. will hold a rose party in the Council House, 5216 Penn avenue tomorrow night. Euchre, five hundred and bridge will be played. The proceeds of the party will be applied to a scholarship fund pledged by the members.

Picnic Arranged By King's Guards

The King's Guards, a children's mission group of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, will hold their annual party on the church lawn Friday afternoon. Ice cream, cake and candy will be sold.

BUSINESS MEN PLAN PICNIC

The Mt. Oliver-Knoxville Business Association has arranged for its annual outing to be held at Kennywood Park, Tuesday, July 16. An exhibition by an airplane and a parachute leap will be a feature. Assisting President Louis R. Schmidt are the following committees:

Dance—Frank J. Hoffman, chairman; J. Henry Gensler, Carl Goettler.

Transportation—Edward Henning, chairman; Frank Seemiller, John Colligan, Walter Horn, Charles Longerman.

Refreshments—Frank Seemiller, chairman; Ralph Churchill, Louis Ross.

Publicity—W. P. Linn Noah, chairman; Walter Horn.

Tickets—Louis R. Schmidt.

Sports—William Brennen, chairman; Ralph Greb, Carl Habegger, Al Winterhalter and Denny O'Brien.

Prizes—L. A. Sahner, chairman; William Wood, Fred P. Burger, Geo. Hahne, H. W. H. Schuckman.

Program—Louis R. Schmirt, chairman; M. H. Cantwell.

North Side Boosters Heard on Town Hall

A delegation of advocates for the location of the Town Hall on the North Side site bounded by Anderson street, River avenue, Goodrich and Lacock streets, was given a hearing before the County Planning Commission today. F. J. Osterling, spokesman, stressed the site's advantages.

$25,000 ASKED FOR LOST LEG

For the loss of his leg, David A. Stopp, of East Liberty, asked $25,000 damages of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. While boarding a train at East Liberty for Edgewater, Pa., March 3, 1927, a brakeman ordered him off, telling him he was on the wrong train, and he was thrown under the wheels when the train started with an unnecessary jerk, Stopp alleged. His left leg was crushed and had to be amputated, he stated.

Stately Bellevue Avenue Yields to Progress

The gradual transformation of Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, once famed for its stately homes with spacious lawns and shade trees, continues.

Another old-time dwelling at 616 Lincoln avenue, on the western edge of the business district, is to give way to commerce. A. E. Hertzig has been granted a permit to erect a two-story concrete garage on the site at an estimated cost of $31,000.

Negotiations are said to be under way for still another development of similar nature in the district.

A modern business building is to supplant the old store building at 567 Lincoln avenue, occupied for many years by the S. B. Charters Company and later by Huey & Mathews. A. B. Pruitt has been given a permit for a two-story brick structure, 28x90 feet, to include store room and offices, at an estimated cost of $25,000.

Other permits issued recently by W. N. Zortman, building inspector of Bellevue, include the following:

James McDonald, for five brick veneer dwellings at 186 to 202 North Jackson street, to cost $25,000; same owner for a four-family dwelling at 185 North Jackson street, to cost $12,000; Arthur R. Braum, for a two-story brick veneer dwelling at 81 South Euclid avenue, $8,000; Emil Stankovianski, two-story brick veneer dwelling, Means and Virginia avenues, $10,000; Edward Baumbeck, two-story brick veneer dwelling, Means avenue, $5,000; Bellevue Savings and Trust Company, installation of elevator and alterations, $5,000; Bellevue school board, new cornice on Grant Avenue School, $7,200.

Four Generations Attend Wedding Anniversary

Four generations were represented at the Twenty-fifth wedding anniversary celebrated by Patrolman and Mrs. John B. Muck, in their home, 1111 Crucible street, Elliot, this week.

They were: Mrs. Francisko Muck, 71, 211 China street, West End; her son John, 47; his son Theodore, 24, and his baby, 2 months old.

Mr. and Mrs. Muck's 11 children were there. They are: Theodore, 24; John, 22; Dorothy, 20; Herman, 18; Charles, 16; Mildred, 14; Albert, 12; Rose, 10; William, 8; Agnes, 6, and Anna, 21 months old.

Officer Muck, now police patrol driver in the West End district, has been on the police force for 23 years. For 12 years he was stationed at the Mt. Washington station; for four years on the South Side; he rode a horse in the downtown section for one year, and for the last six years he has been working in the West End.

Theodore is the only married child the Mucks have.

Homewood Puts Ban on Fast Time, Clocks Slow

Although Pittsburgh has been called the birthplace of daylight saving time in America and in the city and suburbs the clocks have been advanced each summer since 1918, there is one community that still sticks to "slow time." In Homewood, embracing the populous district between Penn and Frankstown avenues, the clocks are ticking along an hour behind all other timepieces in the city.

Why the majority of the denizens of Homewood prefer Eastern Standard time to daylight saving time has not been explained. In nearly all the business houses "slow time" is observed and this schedule is followed in opening and closing shops and stores. In a few of the residences the clocks have been moved forward, but among the greater number daylight saving is taboo.

Lil Boy in Italy

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 19.

Brisbane was right, it turns out now that my fourteen-year-old stowaway was forty years old, weight two hundred pounds and was hid in the pilot's seat, and the only persons that didn't know he was stowaying on there was the United States Senate and myself.

They talk about Americans being the champions for publicity, but none ever paid as high for it as those three Frenchmen. I still claim if they had arrived in Paris without him they would have gotten more space than to arrive in Spain with him, unless he was awfully good company,

Yours, WILL.

'ROTTEN ENGINEERING' BLAMED FOR CITY WORK DELAY

MALONE HITS LATE SHIFT IN PLANS

Paving of Water and 18th Streets Slowed Up When Widening Jobs Are Added

"Rotten engineering" in the Department of Public Works will delay the completion of street repaving projects, according to President of Council James F. Malone.

Malone's criticism was expressed yesterday at a meeting of Council's Public Works Committee during discussion of ordinances for extra work in connection with the improvement of Water street and of South Eighteenth street.

NEW BIDS NEEDED

Council had authorized the repaving of Water street from the Point to Grant street and the repaving of South Eighteenth street from Josephine street to Arlington avenue. Both projects are well under way.

Later the Department of Public Works came to Council with a proposal to add 10 feet to the roadway of Water street between Wood and Smithfield streets and to pave the widened area at a cost of $13,500.

The department also asked Council to authorize the widening of South Eighteenth street at Rugraff street and at Monastery avenue. No costs were submitted.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt ruled that the widening proposals must be considered as extra work and could not be given, without taking bids, to the contractor on the job.

DELAYS INVOLVED

The result was that ordinances authorizing contracts for the widening projects were ordered advertised and under the law, awards cannot be made for 30 days.

Malone declared that the Eighteenth street improvement has been under consideration by the department for three years. He said the widening was merely the easing of curves at intersections and should have been included in the original contract for the repaving. He said the same neglect was apparent in the improvement of Hazelwood avenue and declared that "rotten engineering" in the department was costing the city extra money and delaying improvements.

Corliss St. Tunnel Will Be Repaired

An ordinance authorizing repairs costing $25,000 to Corliss Street tunnel has been affirmed by the public works committee of Council.

PARK'S SPRING CONDEMNED

Guards will be placed at the spring in Schenley Park, if necessary, to stop a group of small boys from selling polluted water to thirsty motorists, according to Health Director Charles C. Maits.

Dr. Maits ordered the spring closed temporarily when an analysis of the water last Monday revealed a contamination. However, boys in the neighborhood have reaped a rich harvest during the last few days by selling the forbidden water to drivers of passing automobiles.

Dr. Maits declared he would keep the spring closed until the water proves absolutely pure.

Weather Conditions.

The skies are mostly clear over the Middle Atlantic Coast states, and the Plains states, but there is considerable cloudiness over the South Atlantic states, the central valleys and the lake region. Light showers occurred at many places over the country from the Mississippi eastward. The temperature continues high over the states east of the Mississippi, while west of the Mississippi it is moderately cool. A low pressure area is centered over Saskatchewan and covers the Canadian Northwest and southward over the Dakotas and the western plains to another center in Southern Arizona. Over the East the barometer is relatively high and the pressure is nearly the same everywhere from the central plains eastward. This flat barometric condition is favorable for local showers and thunderstorms.

Woman Injured By Backing Bus

Mrs. Anna Bilska, 46, of 225 Voeghtly street, North Side, was struck by a bus while crossing Seventh and Liberty avenues, last night, Joseph Dillon, of 1010 Liberty avenue, the driver, told police that he was backing the vehicle into the curb when the woman was struck. Suffering sprained ankles and bruises, Mrs. Bilska was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital.

CHECK SUSPECT UNDER ARREST

S. H. Bobinchak, alias R. S. Bartell, of 107 Morewood avenue, was arraigned in Central Police Court today, charged with being a suspicious person. Detectives said he had issued worthless checks in Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Denver and San Francisco. An officer was on his way from Denver to take him back for trial, it was testified before Magistrate Thomas P. Jones, who held him for the officer.

According to the police, Bobinchak is a photographer, specializing in pictures of banquets and conventions, and maintaining an office under the name William Penn Photo Company, at 505 Wylie avenue.

The detectives asserted he is widely traveled and an accomplished linguist.

Campus Wedding First Held at Penn State

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., June 19.—(AP.)—The first commencement wedding ever held on the front campus of the Pennsylvania State College took place this afternoon when Miss Ann R. Garber, of Refton, Lancaster county, became the bride of Charles A. Phillips, of Scranton. Miss Garber had received her degree in institutional home economics this morning; Phillips was graduated last year.

The ceremony was the culmination of a student romance begun when both were engaged in Wesley Foundation work among students at the local Methodist Church.

TWO CHILDREN AUTO VICTIMS

Automobiles claimed the lives of a boy and a girl yesterday. The drivers of the machines were arrested and released on $1,000 bond each.

Margaret Curran, 13, of 521 Ann street, North Braddock, died late yesterday in the Braddock General Hospital shortly after having been struck by an automobile near her home. Ralph W. Matheline, of 2235 Braddock avenue, Swissvale, alleged driver, posted bond before the coroner.

On his way to school yesterday afternoon, Anthony Foglio, 7, of 2515 Spring way, was struck and killed by a taxicab driven, police said, by William Patton, 22, of 5515 Sunnyside avenue. The boy was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital where death was attributed to a broken neck. The accident occurred at Twenty-second street and Spring way.

Suffering bruises and lacerations when struck by an automobile while playing near his home yesterday, John Malsnick, 4, of Margaret street, McKees Rocks, was taken to the Ohio Valley Hospital. The car was said to have been driven by George Mafko, of Shingiss street, McKees Rocks.

Two Armed Bandits Hold Up Chain Store

Two armed bandits entered a chain grocery store at 5431 Penn avenue, late yesterday while scores of pedestrians were passing, and after forcing the manager, J. A. Doyle, Jr.; his sister, Miss Eleanor Doyle, a clerk, both of 707 South Aiken avenue, and a woman customer, whose identity was not learned by police, to throw up their hands, looted the register of $75. The pair then fled into the street where an automobile with an accomplice at the wheel awaited them. They headed toward Wilkinsburg.

LEASE ON RIVER AIRPORT HELD UP BY LANG

Thorough Inquiry to Be Made By Council Before Granting Landing Rights Downtown

A 10 months' lease for an airport for amphibian planes on the Monongahela River wharf, granted by the city last Saturday to the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, has been recalled by Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang.

The lease was issued by Lang and permitted only the mooring of a float along 700 feet of water front at the south bank between Wabash and Point bridges.

Lang had before him a request from Council to submit a recommendation on a pending ordinance giving the same aviation corporation permission to build derricks, hangars and driveways on the land between the above named bridges.

ASK LEGAL REPORT

In addition to Lang's recommendation, Council had also asked City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt to report on the legal phase of leasing the wharf for an airport.

Lang replied yesterday that he had recalled the lease for a float on the water "pending further consideration and an amicable adjustment of the proposal."

Waldschmidt stated that the city had no right to lease any portion of the wharf for the erection and operation of derricks, driveways and shelter for aircraft. The lease for the float on the water was legal, he said.

HEARING TO BE HELD

While department recommendations were pending, Council was asked by the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange to defer action on the pending airport project until river interests could be assured they would not be injured.

On motion of President James F. Malone, Council ordered a copy of Lang's lease recall letter sent to the coal exchange with the advice that Council would give all interested persons a hearing upon request and that no action would be taken until the airport proposal was minutely examined.

Daniel Winters questioned the wisdom of permitting an airport on the downtown wharves. He declared that many large cities refuse to allow landing fields in thickly populated sections. He referred to a congressman aviator who was censured recently for flying too low over Washington, D. C.

BOARD OF EDUCATION NAMES HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPALS

HERRON HILL HEAD GETS NEW POST

Succeeds Peabody Chief Who Is Shifted at Own Request; Only Few Changes Made

Election of principals of high schools, with few changes, were made by the Board of Public Education yesterday, on recommendation of Dr. William M. Davidson, city superintendent of schools, who leaves soon for a tour of Europe.

In the list of changes D. Edwin Miller, principal at Herron Hill Junior High School, was transferred to Peabody High, where he will replace Frank L. Matteson, who, owing to ill health, had requested that he be given the post of vice principal which he formerly held. Dana Z. Eckert, assistant director of curriculum study and research, will become principal at Herron Hill High, being succeeded by T. O. Hughes, now vice principal at Peabody High.

PAGEANT TO BE FILMED

The board named a complete list of principals and vice principals for high schools, the Frick Training School for teachers and principals for the continuation and vocational schools. With the exceptions of the officials involved in the changes, all were re-elections. D. D. Lessenberry was made principal of the Short Course Business High School, filling a vacancy caused by the death of Louis B. Austin.

The board authorized, at a cost of $975, a motion picture record of the school children's pageant today at Forbes Field.

Acting on a request of the Pittsburgh Teachers' Association, the board voted to permit collection of premiums on life insurance for teachers, according to a plan submitted by the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

NEW OFFICIAL GREETED

Dr. Davidson formally presented to the board Dr. Samuel L. Weber, of Charleston, W. Va., new associate superintendent in charge of personnel work in the city schools. He was welcomed by President Marcus Aaron. Dr. Weber will have much to do with the administration of the teachers' salary schedule, recommended by the citizens' committee on teachers' salaries. He announced he would welcome co-operation along constructive lines.

Dr. William F. Kennedy, associate superintendent of schools, was granted a leave of absence with pay to attend the world conference of educational associations in Geneva, Switzerland, and later to travel in Europe. He is one of America's delegates to the conference.

TAKES SCOOTER INSTEAD OF WALKING

Sun-Telegraph Aids Actor Out of Delemma; Boys and Girls See Opportunity

A series of big laughs—that's Charlie Melson in "California" at the Stanley this week. And the biggest laugh of all comes when the girls make him walk home!

Yes, sir, Charlie has to walk home.

But he outwits them and goes home on a "Whoopee" scooter which the Sun-Telegraph has given him.

Charlie likes the Sun-Telegraph "Whoopee" scooter plan so much that he has brought it into his fine act on the stages of the Stanley Theater.

He's not at all bothered by his accident with the girls, because he has this fine, new "Whoopee."

A large number of Pittsburgh boys and girls are going to have these scooters this summer. The Sun-Telegraph has made it possible for any youngster who wants a scooter to obtain one without hardship.

"Whoopee" scooters may be had by any boy or girl in the Pittsburgh district who secures one 26-week subscription for the Sun-Telegraph. Hundreds have already responded, and many hundreds more are expected to earn their new speedsters.

This summer is going to be play time for Pittsburgh boys and girls. You won't have to walk home if you have a "Whoopee" scooter!

THIRD AVE. CLUB RAID VICTIM

A club in the downtown section was one of six places raided by prohibition agents yesterday. Liquor was seized in each, according to the agents.

H. P. Kleinschmidt, 49, of 1534 Rockland avenue, was arrested in a raid on a club on the second floor of 340 Third avenue, agents said. Whisky was reported found in the place.

The saloons of Matt Bestic, 826 East Ohio street; Anthony McGeevr, rear of 102 Hazelwood avenue, and Michael Hrees and John Hersko, 501 Fifth avenue, Homestead, yielded moonshine, it was reported. In a club in the rear of 849 East Ohio street, the seizure of four pints of gin was reported. Nobody was in the place at the time.

Roy Page, 29, of 1318 Clark street, a confectioner, was arrested after a small quantity of moonshine had been seized in his place, the raiders reported.

Brentwood Firemen To Buy Uniforms

Brentwood firemen will wear uniforms similar to those in which Pittsburgh firemen are attired, it was decided at a meeting recently held. It also was voted to attend the Allegheny County convention at Sewickley July 6 as well as the Western Pennsylvania affair at East Pittsburgh in August.

Ex-Marshal Slain By Welch Policeman

WELCH, W. Va., June 18.—(A.P.)—J. Henderson Mitchell, 57, former United States deputy marshal, was shot and killed in the Welch fire station tonight by C. C. Hutton, chief of police.

Hutton, who was arrested by a deputy sheriff, while en route to the mayor's office to surrender, claimed he shot Mitchell in self-defense. Authorities said Hutton told them that Mitchell endeavored to secure Hutton's gun during an argument. The chief of police, they said, retained his weapon and fired. There were no witnesses.

Two Get Jail Terms On Vagrancy Charge

Mike Butch, 48, and Frank Turkal, 36, arrested by Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Patrolman H. R. Bartlow, in the railroad's freight yards at Carson and South First streets, on a vagrancy charge early yesterday, were sentenced to serve three days in the county jail by Magistrate E. M. Hough in South Side Police Court yesterday. George Ferguson, 62, arrested with the other two, was discharged by the magistrate.

Patrolman Sprains Ankle in Fall

Patrolman Henry Zinn, attached to the West End Police Station, early yesterday morning slipped on the curbstone in front of 1726 Stratmore avenue, Crafton Heights, while walking his beat, receiving a badly sprained right ankle. After receiving treatment by Dr. E. F. Waller, 55 Wyoming street, a city physician, he was removed to his home in the police patrol.

FREDERIC KAY, BUSINESS MAN, DIES

Retired Industrial Leader Was Active Figure in Squirrel Hill Development

Frederic Goddard Kay, 76, prominent business man and leader in the development of the Squirrel Hill district, died at his home, 5430 Forbes street, early today.

He was director in the Union Spring Company, and a member of the Pittsburgh and Duquesne Clubs, the Allegheny Country Club and the Pittsburgh Golf Club. He retired from active business affairs several years ago.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Jane O'Hara Kay; a son, Alfred G. Kay, of Chester, N. J., and a daughter, Mrs. J. M. Schoonmaker, Jr., of Sewickley.

GIRL BLACKMAIL CASE DROPPED

Charges of attempted blackmail against Elizabeth Stockton, alias Betty Brosko, preferred by H. M. Freed, of the Ruskin Apartments, were withdrawn just before the case was scheduled for hearing before Justice of the Peace Ira H. Edmundson, of Mt. Lebanon, late yesterday.

According to the justice, Freed called him on the telephone shortly before the case was to be heard and told him of his intention, agreeing to pay the costs in the case.

Detectives arrested the woman last week after a number of business men, they said, had accused the girl of fleecing them out of sums of money.

Freed was arrested last week on a serious charge preferred by the Stockton woman.

What arrangement had been reached which resulted in charges being withdrawn against the prisoner were unknown to him, Justice Edmundson said.

RIN-TIN-TIN, DOG ACTOR, GETS VACATION AS TALK FILMS RULE HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 19.

I DON'T know how you feel about Rin-Tin-Tin but for lo these sundry weeks I've wondered what the deuce happened to that stellar canine.

"Do you know?" to Louise Fazenda.

"Why, Rin-Tin-Tin's living in Beverely Hills!" Louise exclaimed.

He is, too, right near the country Club.

Rin-Tin-Tin.

Which recalls a story that may or may not be strictly true, but tis, for a' that, worth a chuckle. They do say that Rinty never had any too much respect for his leading woman. In fact, that after saving her from the plot Heavy, his master had to keep a sharp eye on him less he take a playful leap at the heroine's ankle.

Mix Identity In Hollywood

LOUISE DRESSER was having a manicure. She wore a large hat. 'Tis vital to mention the large hat. A fem entered the shop, which was natural. She was selling stockings, which may also be natural. She scrutinized Miss Dresser, who serenely avoided returning the compliment. Exit the stocking fem. She re-entered a few minutes later, deliberately walked up to Miss Dresser and peered beneath the hat. Louise, be it admitted, was a little fussed.

Louise Dresser.

Are you Marie Dressler?" askd the unknown.

"No," smiling.

"You look like her," accusingly.

"Thank you," nodded Louise Dresser. "But I am not Marie Dressler."

The woman walked away, certain some one was—er—fibbing, and that some one not her!

And by jove, I witnessed a "dupe" to this scene in front of a book shop on Vine street. Miss Dresser was waiting for her car when she was addressed by a stranger, to be sure, as Marie Dressler.

Marie meets with the same experiences, only in her case she is addressed as Louise Dresser. She went to the theater the other eve and was asked, for a change, if she were May Robson!

Miss Tashman Enjoys Eating

LILYAN TASHMAN was accused to her face on Norma Talmadge's "Tin Pan Alley" set of having a hollow leg. Lilyan, of course, denied the accusation.

It started when Lilyan observed several electricians munching sandwiches and sighed dolorously: "I'm starving."

"Lilyan can eat more than any human I know," asserted a bystander.

Lilyan Tashman

"She does," emphasized another.

"'Twas then Louise Keaton, Buster's younger sister, accused: "Lilyan must have a hollow leg."

Miss Tashman thereupon contended that food agreed with her. It never mutinied by giving her surplus weight. At the moment, however, she vowed she was so empty she didn't know whether she had a backache or a tummyache.

With Hollywood lulled into yawns and drowsiness by a too beamy sun, flicker activities appear to be slightly dribby. I asked Alice White what she was doing.

"Nothing," shrugged the White. "I'm between pictures."

"Are you behaving yourself?"

"Oh, yes. I'm having photographs made."

You see how difficult life can be? . . .

Corinne's New Beach Outfit

CORINNE GRIFFITH is treating her friends to a glimpse of a combination tennis, bathing, and beach outfit of hand-woven white material. She carried it back from Paris. A smart pleated skirt can be shed by freeing one button. Corrine is then revealed in nifty white trunks. The boyish skirt and trunks are all in one piece and Corinne is ready for her plunge straight from the tennis court with the skirt converted into a beach cape. (Stay with me). A large cretonne sport pocket-book carried with the outfit contains vanity equipment, and a folding flowered sunshade. She may loll on the beach after her swim. Verily, that fashion combine smacks of stitched sovietism.

Corinne Griffith

In all seriousness, the following item: "A total of 227,116 miles was traversed by the 'Hell's Angels' airplanes in filming the sky action of this $3,000,000 aviation picture." How can one still believe in short cuts?

Margaret Anglin In Sharp Stock Next Week

Margaret Anglin arrives in Pittsburgh today to join in the rehearsals of "The Woman of Bronze," in which she will be guest star with the George Sharp Players in the Pitt next week. The company has been rehearsing all week, but Miss Anglin is familiar with her role as "The Woman of Bronze" is a vehicle in which she formerly starred. She appeared in the Pitt in it several seasons ago.

Frances Neilson, who is to be a permanent member of Mr. Sharp's company, has arrived from New York and will make her stock debut next week in Miss Anglin's play. Miss Neilson, who has had road experience, has appeared in Pittsburgh on numerous occasions. She will play character roles, replacing Alice Ann Baker, who is leaving Pittsburgh, making her farewell in "Is Zat So?"

Historic Violin Used By Elias Breeskin

The violin used by Elias Breeskin in his "Last Rose Of Summer" solo in the Penn this week is a Stradivarius of the year of 1715, loaned by Wurlitzers. It is known as the "Lipinski Strad" because it once was owned by Karl Joseph Lipinski, celebrated Polish violinist who died in 1861, since when the violin passed through several hands before coming into the Wurlitzer collection.

Screen Realism Calls for 75 Pounds

The strangest sacrifice ever made for screen realism has just been brought to light in filmdom. Winifred Westover, divorced wife of Bill Hart, who recently emerged from eight years' professional retirement, has added 75 pounds to her weight within a few weeks' time in order to play the title role in Herbert Brenon's all-talking production of "Lummox" for United Artists.

Forty pounds excess was acquired by eating fat-producing foods, and the additional 35 pounds needed to give her the posture of the servant girl heroine of Fannie Hurst's novel are the result of Brenon's ingenious scheme of concealing lead weights in the skirt hem, collar, sleeves and shoes. The fictional "Lummox" has big feet, so specially built shoes, with 15 pounds of lead in the soles, are worn by the screen character.

Miss Westover's normal weight is 120 pounds. When she stepped on the scales recently she registered 195 pounds. She plans a rigid diet and intensive exercise to get rid of the excess as soon as she completes the picture.

To a Scoffer at Romance

NEW YORK, June 19.

SILLY and soft," you say. "There is no room
For romance in our busy, modern age."
Ah, very well! There has been many a sage
Who spoke such wisdom—and has met his doom
And lies forgotten. But the fragile grace
Of tender lovesongs, hymned to some fair face
Still lingers in old gardens like perfume.

And from such nonsense as romance may be,
From such poor, empty nothings, has had birth
All master-beauty that has stirred the earth,
Marble and canvas immortality!
And golden tales that with their magic hold

This new race spell-bound, as they hold the old.
Poor fool! Do you not know what whispered runes
Have built our mighty towers of steel and stone?
Commerce and science have proud giants grown
Because of ancient trysts beneath dead moons!

THE RETORT PROPER

IT HAPPENED aboard the Lipton yacht several seasons ago when it was here with Lord Dewar as its distinguished guest. Ring Lardner was cornered by the nobleman who unfolded a series of sour gags until Lardner's patience wilted. Ring finally told Dewar that one of his jokes creaked.

"You went a long way back for that one, me Lord," chirped Lardner.

"Sir!" growled Dewar, "a gentleman has never heard a story before!"

"I know," was the indifferent reply, "and no gentleman has ever told a story twice, either!"

HAW!

Take it from Joe Kane, who would have you believe that he knows a Scotchman who got bowlegged from climbing lamp posts to light his cigarets!

NIFTY

IT WAS at one of the fortnightly broadcasts to Commander Byrd and his crew in the Antarctic, and Bugs Baer was at the mike. "Commander Byrd," clowned Baer, "although you do not want it, and cannot possibly use it, I am going to give you the correct time. Now listen carefully, and when you hear Bombardier Wells drop, it will be exactly one minute after the start of the first round!"

ADD LITTLE IRONIES

Long before Harry F. Sinclair got into his present jam he owned the Newark Federal baseball team, and engaged a promising pitcher at $8,500 a year, who soon revealed that he was a false alarm. Sinclair bargained with him to break the contract and when the lad snubbed the offer, he was instructed to report at the field every morn to practice with himself, not being permitted to play or rehearse with the nine. He tossed the pill against a fence or hurled flys at himself all season, but collected his full wage. Then Sinclair banished him from baseball and later the exile became a United States marshal.

Imagine Sinclair's feelings then, when he discovered that the lad he tried to ruin, was one of his official escorts to prison.

CONFESSIONS OF A CRITIC

(By Ashton Stevens.)

A SHOW has to be twice as good in summer . . . Dull people do not like Mrs. Fiske's acting . . . Several of the now historic epigrams credited to Maurice Barrymore were invented by Wilton Lackaye when he was too modest to claim them as his own . . . Neither of the two foremost revue sponsors have ever topped the humor of the old Weber & Fields shows . . . The Shuberts once battled an organization known as the "Theatrical Trust" and are now thrice its size . . . Criticise Ethel Barrymore's acting and she will love you, but criticise her once and she hates you forever. William A. Brady was once a news butcher, but a boss peanut vender . . . And David Warfield was one of his peddlers . . . Richard Mansfield was the most successful bad actor on the American stage . . . The great Lawrence Barrett, meeting Nat Goodwin at the Hoffman House bar (where Nat frequently practised), greeted him austerely with: "Good evening, Nathaniel!" Whereupon Nat lightly touched the shoulder of the dignified tragedian with his cane, and replied: "And now, Goody Two Shoes, I turn you into a bag of salt!"

LIVE AND LET LIFT

THERE appears to be quite a tiff in the Bulb Belt between Fred Allen, the nimble-witted laugh-provoker of "The Little Show" and several competitors whom he charge with thefting. To hear Allen argue it, some of the star comics have engaged spies who jot down his new cracks at every performance, and he has worked himself into a lather over the sich-ee-ay-shun.

"You honestly think that Joe Blank really steals your gags?" he was asked.

"I certainly do," replied Fred, "but he isn't to be blamed, they tell me his father was a columnist, and his mammy drew cartoons.

OOP!

"While I am catching you at your researches into ancient literature," affectionately writes George Goldsmith, ex-drama editor for the Herald-Trib, "how will you account for the fact that one of your very finest locutions, to 'go gay,' first got into print in one of the apocryphal books of the Old Testament? The citation is Baruch VI:9 (the Epistle of Jeremy); and the verse is 'And taking gold, as it were, for a virgin that loveth to go gay . . .' From which, I submit, virgins and their practices were much the same in the days of Baruch and Jeremy as in the epoch of Garbo and Vallee."

SACCO-ANALYZING FT.

THE "inside" on the folding up of the highbrow mag, The Dial, which lays its egg with the July issue, is that Scofield Thayer, who has been dropping $40,000 annually on it, is the nephew of Judge Thayer, of Massachusetts, who condemned Sacco and Vanzetti to death. During the trial Scofield sent bitter and violent telegrams to his uncle demanding their release and fought him in his intelligent magazine. This caused a family tiff, which ended in Scofield being relieved of his inheritance and subsequently lodged in a sanitarium, where he is now.

COUNCIL SEEKS STREET RULE

Council has taken steps to insure the proper construction of streets and provision for recreation sites in new plans of lots submitted to the city.

On motion of President James F. Malone, Council asked the City Planning Commission to arrange, if possible, to have proposed streets in sub-divisions submitted for approval paved under the supervision of the Department of Public Works.

Malone's motion also asked the commission to try to have owners of lots in a new plan submitted for approval set aside for playgrounds areas relative to the size of the subdivision.

In connection with the proper paving of streets, the commission was requested to have all lines for water, gas, electricity and steam placed in position while the excavators are at work, to save the surface of the pavement later.

Malone offered his motion while Council was considering a letter from Attorney A. Christianson asking the city to establish grades in the Johnston place plan of lots, Twenty-eighth Ward.

Action on the letter was deferred.

THOUSANDS SEE STEEL SHOW

Technical papers occupied the convention sessions of the Association of Iron and Steel Electrical Engineers in the William Penn Hotel, with the afternoon given over to exposition inspection and sightseeing tours.

The huge industrial exposition is drawing thousands of members of the industry to convention headquarters, 217 national manufacturers forming the largest convention exhibit ever staged in Pittsburgh. Delegates are dividing their time between technical discussions and inspection tours of the exhibits occupying the entire seventeenth floor, Pirate Hall and the lower floor lobby of the hotel.

Today's sessions were conducted by the combustion and electrical engineering divisions. Speaking before the former meeting, over which Martin J. Conway, of Coatesville, presided, were R. C. Vroom and Walter Keenan, Jr., both of New York City, and Walter N. Flanagan, Pittsburgh. F. W. Cramer, of Youngstown, presided at the electrical session, while the speakers were J. J. Booth, of Gary, and L. A. Umansky, Schenectady.

Attempt to Loot School Safe Fails

An attempt, which police said was amateurish, was made today to rob the safe in the Woolslayer Public School, at 509 Fortieth street.

When Principal Robert Henderson arrived at the school this morning he found a window in his office broken. The combination knob had been hammered from the safe and the safe door dented. The safe held $100 and hundreds of tickets to the school's annual picnic, to be held at Kennywood Park Friday.

BUCS LOSE NINE STRAIGHT TO LUCAS

IT was just one more repetition of something that has been going on through three seasons, or parts thereof, when the Pirates fell before Pitcher Fred Lucas in Cincinnati yesterday and thus missed another chance to regain possession of first place. Lucas is the most persistent slab jinx that has camped on the Buccaneers' trail since the days when Art Nehf took 12 consecutive games from them.

Fred Lucas

Donie Bush's battlers may succeed in routing Benton, Hubbell, Malone, Root, Alexander, Vance, Haines or any of the other pitching topliners in the National League, but when they run up against Lucas the result is always the same. Down they go.

How many consecutive times would you say off-hand that Lucas has defeated the Pittsburgh club? Possibly, many fans would estimate the number at four, or five, or even six. They may be surprised to learn that yesterday's game marked the ninth time in succession that the Cincinnati right-hander has made the Buccaneers bite the dust.

LUCAS has trimmed the Corsairs in two games already this year, having hung up his first victory over them on April 22, 9 to 4. Last season he beat them four times—5 to 0, 3 to 2, 1 to 0 and 4 to 3. In his last three games against them in 1927 he downed them 5 to 4, 6 to 5 and 2 to 1.

The Bucs have not won a decision over Lucas since June 22, 1927, when he pitched 3 2-3 innings as a relief pitcher and was charged with an 11-to-9 defeat. In a 1-to-0 game in which he defeated Burleigh Grimes last season he allowed only two hits. In the nine straight games that he has won from Pittsburgh, Lucas has yielded a total of only 20 runs and 59 hits, or an average of only a fraction more than two runs and six hits per contest.

IN only the first of these nine games were the Pirates able to make their hits run into double figures. In none of the eight other events did they succeed in making more than eight.

The Pittsburgh players probably would be willing to subscribe liberally to a fund to send Lucas on a long vacation trip to Europe every summer.

Johnny Morrison

IT was a tough game that saw the breaking of Ervin Brame's clean string yesterday, following the marring of Burleigh Grimes' slate on Sunday. Brame had won five games and got a tie in another when he suffered his first defeat of the season. A sixth victory and a shutout for him seemed probable after he had retired two Reds in the eighth inning, with the bases empty, and only four more putouts needed to end the game with the Bucs on top, 1 to 0. But before the side could be retired Cincinnati scored two runs, or enough to win, the rally being started by Evar Swanson, who previously had struck out three times in succession.

AND it was just a case of good strategy being upset by the contrary baseball fates when the Pirates lost out through passing Curt Walker intentionally to bring up George Kelly with the winning run on second base and two out. Not only did this move set the stage for a force play at third or second, but in the latest compilation of the batting averages Walker was hitting .333 and Kelly only .256.

Donie Bush was playing smart baseball in passing the more dangerous Walker, even though Kelly came through with the hit that beat the Bucs. The percentage was all against such a development. It may not be out of place to remark in passing that a batting brace by the Picaroons would be mighty welcome and helpful. The club appears to have fallen into a slump just as the pitchers were rounding to form again. In their last three games up to today, the Bushmen made only four runs and 19 hits, a club batting average of only .200, or 100 points below normal.

WHEW! Look at that National League race. Only six points separated the first and third clubs up to today's games. You could cover the leading three teams with the proverbial handkerchief. The Bucs had a chance to ease into first place again yesterday while the Cards were losing to the Cubs, but they muffed the opportunity, and, as a result, found themselves three points instead of two behind the leading Redbirds while the Bruins, in turn, were the same distance behind the Corsairs.

The Giants suffered a setback in dropping a double-header to the Robins, making six defeats for the McGrawites in their last 10 games, but the New Yorkers will come up again later on, and unless June signs are misleading the National League race will be featured by one of the hottest four-cornered fights in its history.

Ervin Brame

JUST as Cincinnati kept St. Louis in the running in the National League by dropping 13 out of 15 games to the Cards, while winning four out of six from New York, three out of seven from Chicago and three out of nine from Pittsburgh, Washington's helplessness against Philadelphia continues to aid the cause of the Athletics in the American.

The A's yesterday resumed their percentage-operations at the expenses of the Senators and gained half a game on the Yanks while the latter were being held to an even break by the Red Sox. The Mackmen have won no fewer than 13 of their 14 tilts with the Senators, and their last 11 victories over Walter Johnson's outfit have been scored in succession.

JOHNNY MORRISON, one-time Pirate pitcher, is proving a very serviceable addition to the Brooklyn mound staff. Johnny has not been allowed to start a game since he was obtained from Kansas City, but he has been used five times in relief roles and has come through in creditable style.

Morrison yesterday went to the rescue of the battered Dazzy Vance and hurled the Robins to victory in their first game with the Giants. That is the second win that has been credited to him, against no de-

HIGHLANDERS, SHANNOPIN CLASH

By VERNON SWARTSFAGER

Heap Big Chief Larry Hubach, of the Shannopin wigwam, led his tribe of high-class linksmen in the direction of the Highland Country Club this morning, and this afternon Mac Hetzel, otherwise Harry Hetzel, will find his Kilties surrounded by a lot of fighting Indians—fighting to regain possession of the coveted Grogan Cup, which is held at this time by the Highlanders.

In May, the Highland Kilties invaded Shannopin's links and won the cup in the first 18-hole round of the annual 36-hole competition, and, needless to say, not a man who plays golf at Shannopin will be missing from its reorganized ranks.

SENIORS AT HANNASTOWN

Highland, however, will not be the scene of the only interesting golf tournament. At the Hannastown Golf Club, near Greensburg, every member of the Western Pennsylvania Seniors' Golf Association, which includes all linksmen more than 50 years of age, will be participating in that new organization's first championship.

A large, fast field is expected at Hannastown, and some fine scores should result. Dr. George T. Gregg, Jr., of the Oakmont Country Club, who won the first event of the sort ever held in the district, at Pleasant Valley last year, will not be able to compete because he is playing abroad with the United States and Canadian seniors' team against Great Britain, Scotland and Continental oldsters.

These two are the only tournaments on the books for today.

CRAIG'S SCORE LOW

There was some excellent golf played at the Chartiers Heights Country Club yesterday when the Pittsburgh Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, held its first one-day tournament of the season. George L. Craig, Jr., of Allegheny; Harmar Denny, Jr., of Longue Vue; Ray Babock, of Oakmont, and Bob Lyne, of Allegheny, certainly did have things their own way, so far as the prizes were concerned—but how could they help it when their foursome scored a best ball at 64?

Take a look at this card; it is their best ball:

Out ...4 3 3 3 3 4 4 4 4—32
In ....3 3 5 4 4 3 3 3 4—32—64

George (Bunky) Craig, Jr., had the low gross for the 18-hole medal play, scoring a 73. Ray Babcock was second with a 74, while Harmar Denny needed 78. Lyne negotiated the round in 80.

In the net scoring, Craig won with a 69, having had only a 2 handicap.

Other net scores for the tournament follow:

R. L. Babcock, 74-2—72; Dr. H. R. Decker, 92-20—72; Dr. H. H. Sargent, chairman of the golf committee of the Pittsburgh chapter, 89-17—72; Harmar Denny, Jr., 78-6—72; C. V. Watkins, 92-19—73; R. T. Hambleton, 81-7—74; C. M. Lingle, 93-18—75; W. L. Blackstone, 93-17—76; Stanley Hern, 80-4—76; Robert L. Lyne, 80-4—76; J. H. Johnson, 91-16—76; Dr. J. D. Garvin, 101-24—77; A. D. Reynolds, 95-18—77; W. K. Gamble, 96-18—78; G. A. Parnell, 88-10—78; G. H. Reynolds, 105-25—80; E. L. Owen, 96-16—81; William E. Pierce, 87-6—81; C. B. Nixon, 111-30—81; Weaver H. Rodgers, 110-28—82; Harry S. McKinley, 100-18—82; R. J. Taylor, 95-12—83; G. S. McK. Nycum, 100-16—84; Phil E. Hodill, 97-12—85; C. B. Nicholson, 105-20—85; C. M. Warren, 108-20—88; J. A. Brown, 118-30—88; Franklin Blackstone, 108-17—91; M. C. Adams, 106-17—89; W. H. Friesel, 89-0—89; W. J. Askin, 120-30—90; W. R. Black, 116-25—91; J. Boyd Duff, 117-25—92; Dr. C. G. Hughes, 114-20—94.

Golden Leads In Shawnee Tourney

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Del., June 19.—(AP.)—Johnny Golden, of Paterson, N. J., a member of the U. S. Ryder Cup team, led the field with the completion of the first half of the Shawnee open golf tournament yesterday with a total of 144 strokes for the 36 holes.

Holding second place with 145, was Harry Cooper, Buffalo, who in 1927 tied for the National Open at Oakmont, only to lose the play off to Tommy Armour.

The two leaders had a good lead on the rest of the field, the next three being tied with 150. They were Willie McFarlane, Oakridge; Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, and Bill Burke, Westport.

Al Heron of the Berkshire Country Club, Berkshire, Pa., and the veteran Gil Nichols, of Deepdale, were tied with 152s.

Parkersburg Stars Win Net Titles

PRINCETON, W. Va., June 19.—(AP.)—Net stars from Parkersburg High School yesterday made a clean sweep through the final matches of the state high school tennis tournament.

Biddle gained the high school singles championship by defeating Lopin, of Charleston, 6-4 and 8-6. As a result he will represent the state in the Middle Atlantic tennis tournament to be held at Norfolk, Va. Lopin also will attend the tournament under rules which provide that state champions and runners-up are eligible to competition.

The doubles championship was gained by the Parkersburg school when Biddle and Devol bested Lopin and Pugh, of Charleston, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4. The doubles matches were played as an exhibition.

BROWN WINS N. Y. COMISH'S TITLE

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—The bantamweight division had a ruler today that the New York State Athletic Commission, at least, can recognize—Panama Al Brown.

Brown, whose 118 pounds is distributed over a frame six feet high, decisively outpointed Vidal Gregorio, of Spain, in a 15-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium last night and thereby won recogni-

PIRATES SEEK WIN IN FINAL OF SERIES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

CINCINNATI, June 19.—Steve Swetonic will bend every effort to pitch the Pirates to victory this afternoon in the rubber contest of a five-game set with the Reds. The North Side boy probably will be opposed by that well-known athlete and insurance agent from Ol' Virginny, Eppa Jeptha Rixey, the angular southpaw.

The Pirates still are only a few points out of first place this morning, despite their headache defeat of yesterday afternoon when they dropped a pitching duel to the Rhinelanders by the score of 2 to 1.

Ervin Brame had the home team downed on a 1-0 basis as late as the eighth inning, but in this frame the Reds made three hits for a complete total of six, yet those blows were sufficient to turn the victory to the Cincinnati dugout.

LUCAS STINGY

There was a touch of irony in the setback for the tall Kentuckian, although it should be written that Red Lucas, holding the vaunted Pittsburgh attack to four blows, deserved a lot of consideration if not the triumph.

Brame had snapped two of the Reds out of the picture in the eighth and the home plate was still unsullied with none on the sacks. Evar Swanson, the speedy Swede, came up for more punishment, it was felt by many, inasmuch as he had fanned on three previous occasions. But Evar connected for a double down the right field line and Chuck Dressen came through with a double to left center that tied the game up tighter than a drum.

Curt Walker, best hitter on the home club, was the next batter and first base being empty, Walker was not to get anything good to hit. The count was three and one on Walker when the Pittsburgh strategists wisely decided to put the dangerous batter on the bases.

George Kelly spoiled all this strategy, yet the Pirates may be said to have played out the smart string. Kelly singled to center to score Dressen, and the Reds held in the ninth to clinch the triumph.

PIE DRIVES IN RUN

Capt. Traynor drove over the lone Pirate tally in the sixth with a clean single to left, scoring Bartell, two being out at the time. Bartell reached base in the round on an error by Dressen, but he was still on second with two out when Pie whacked out his hit to put the Pirates out in front.

The sweltering day seemed to put both pitchers in a remarkable stride. Lucas walked only one batter and Brame was just as steady, one of his passes being intentional.

A lot can happen to the first three teams in the league today. All three have a chance to find themselves in first place by evening, the Cards to remain there and the Pirates and Cubs to gain the honor.

CUBS MAY LEAD

If the Buccos beat the Reds and the Cubs hammer out another victory over St. Louis, then the Corsairs will find themselves leading the pack ere another morning dawns over this city. But if the Cubs win and the Pirates lose, Marse Joe's young men of Chicago will take the lead, with the Buccaneers slipping back into third place.

The Cubs now hold somewhat of an advantage over the Pirates and Cards, inasmuch as they have lost fewer games than either of their rivals.

CANUCKS WIN IN CLEVELAND

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN,
Staff Correspondent.

CLEVELAND, June 19.—Gilbert Nunns and Walter Martin, Giant Canadian stars, led the field into the men's singles quarter-finals of the Ohio State net championships at the Cleveland Tennis and Racquet Club here yesterday.

The powerful Canucks likewise advanced in the dual division and with Kurzrok and Sheridan, New York pair, loom as formidable threats for United States Intercity doubles honors in the tussles getting under way on the local lot tomorrow.

Meanwhile Kirk Reid and Carran, Cleveland stars; O'Connell and Royer, youthful Chicagoans, and Marsh and Castle, Buffalo entries, continued progress in the two-men section and all favorites moved forward in singles.

Billy O'Loughlin and Paul Sullivan, Pittsburgh, struck a second round snag in the Ohio doubles. Roudebush and Lowe, local veterans and aces of the fast University club team, proving too steady and smooth-working by a 6-2, 6-0 margin.

Byron Baur, Erie luminary and former Pitt captain, met singles reversal at the hands of George O'Connell Western Conference champion of several seasons ago, 8-6, 6-2.

O'Connell, with Fred Royer, ex-Oklahoma University ace, also accounted for Baur and his partner, Blickle, of Columbus, in doubles, 6-3, 6-1.

In the women's singles, Clara Louise Zinke, Cincinnati favorite and first seeded entrant, stepped ahead through Peggy Wettich, Cleveland girl, 6-1, 6-0, while Barbara Duffy of the Forest City, justified her rating as second on the list by eliminating Mrs. Winifred Eschner, Erie player well known to Pittsburgh galleries, 6-0, 6-2.

REDLEGS LACK SWAT POWER

By Staff Correspondent

CINCINNATI, June 19.—The Reds are equipped with more than a fair share of speed, and fleetness of foot is a grand asset in the diamond sport—but, as Ham Hyatt once said with eloquence, "You can't steal first base."

In Swanson, Allen, Zitzmann, Critz and Dressen, the local team sports some good base runners, but none of them are batting consistently, so Ol' Ham's lucid diagnosis may well be applied to the Reds as they bounce around in the squalor of the cellar.

HAVE BIG FIELD

The dearth of .300 batters here may be partly explained by the size of Redland Field as a playing area. A batter generally gets what he earns here; there are less homers struck in Cincinnati in a season than in any park in the circuit. And of course the home hitters must perform here 77 times a season, just as the Giants and Cardinals get the

DUKES MAY USE FORBES FIELD GRIDIRON

SCHOOL NEEDS BIGGER SITE FOR GAMES

By JESS CARVER.

Unless his present plans go the way of a four-card flush, John Holohan, graduate manager of athletics at Duquesne University, will utilize Forbes Field for all his home football games next fall, and for as many falls as may occur between now and the time the Dukes build themselves a field or stadium of their own.

With elevens of the caliber and drawing power of Catholic University and the Haskell Indians booked for contests this year, the Bluff field, where the locals have been holding forth for lo, these many years, must be definitely counted "out." In the first place, it is no spot for a college team of the rank of the Dukes to play football, and in the second place, it is hardly big enough to accommodate the folks that the Dukes hope to, and deserve to, draw in their present wealth of caste.

Manager Holohan has been dickering with Barney Dreyfuss for some time, and is about ready to accept the most recent offer that Barney has handed him. He refused the first, but according to reliable information, Barney came down quite a bit in his figure, and the Dukes are about ready to sign.

If the Dukes go into Forbes Field, Pitt and Tech, for all their reputations, will find the Bluffites no mean opponents when it comes to the matter of drawing the cash. I do not mean by that that the Dukes will play to any 30,000 or 40,000 crowds this fall, but they will cut into the revenue that Pitt and Tech expect to extract from the city in their alternating date arrangement at the Stadium. Both Haskell and Catholic University should put better than 10,000 in Forbes Field.

SCORES ACE-HOLER

Mr. Gummy Davis, Ambridge's bearded wonder, qualified for the right to spotlight position at Moyer's by scoring a hole-in-one at the Ambridge Country Club last week.

"I do not intend to let my success interfere with any of the beautiful friendships I have formed here," Mr. Davis blushingly remarked. "I'll still be my own sweet self. How about a cigaret?"

Hey, what is it? A day has gone by without someone attempting to set a new record for the century.

"To the end of the world with you, sweetheart," said the cop as he trailed the lady shoplifter.

EIGHT CADDIES QUALIFY AT NEMACOLIN

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Iris Ross won the medal with a 93 today as eight caddies of the Nemacolin Country Club qualified for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's second annual West Penn junior golf championship, to be played at the Schenley Park municipal links on Thursday, July 11. The qualifying test was conducted by Frank Bruno, caddie-master at Nemacolin, and 30 bag-toters sought to bet into the title competition. John Zamiski turned in an 87, but John's score was thrown out when it was found that he was above the age limit.

The qualifiers, their ages and their scores follow:

Iris Ross, aged 15, 93.
Steve Mihalek, aged 15, 97.
William DiNardo, aged 15, 98.
Joe Koholarchick, aged 15, 98.
Camill Ross, aged 14, 98.
Victor Moran, aged 14, 99.
Cecil Spadifore, aged 15, 103.
Thomas Holub, aged 15, 103.

The scores of entrants who failed to qualify follows:

Philip Ross, 111; Wilbert Holub, 135; Bernard Berisa, 125; Joe Malik, 109; George Abbott, 104; Joe Yeumala, 106; Cludio Porreca, 135; John Gordon, 104; Fred Mosca, 110; Jack Shemloff, 105; Frank Dinardo, 105; Camille Ross, 120; Earnest DiNardo, 107; Albert Gordon, 113; Steve Kisl, 124; Francis Ambrozie, 108; Tony DiRocco, 111; John Maticak, 124; Steve Morgo, 122; Angelo Doreno, 116; George Kusman, 124.

The four low scorers will represent the Nemacolin club in the fight for the team championship cup, the individual players on the winning team receiving medals and the club holding the cup.

CADDIES SWELL LIST

All junior amateurs who are 18 years of age and under, not attending classes above high school grades, are eligible for the competition. There are a number of boys who are not caddies entering, and among these are several of the finest in the district. In the caddie ranks, all entrants must qualify at their own club before they can play in the tournament; this will cut the field so that the good golfers can show their stuff, and it will not run country clubs shy of bag-carriers on the day of the tournament.

There is no entry fee, but all entrants must provide their own clubs and balls.

John Jay Burke, office manager for the Allegheny County parks, is the honorary director of the tournament, and he will drive off the first ball. Al McBride, Schenley professional; his assistants, William E. Super and Charley Onoretta; Andy Petrolia, caddie-master; Eddie Kunold, superintendent of the clubhouse; Tom Keefe, time clerk, and Frank Petrolia have all offered their services in assisting in putting the tournament over.

TOURNEY COLORFUL

The tournament will be a colorful affair, with many wonderful prizes for those boys who think they are in Bobby Jones class and can really win a tournament. Last year Joe Curto, who was then only 18, scored a 68 to win the Hearst Trophy, while little Steve Slivka, just 14, won in the sub-junior division with a 70. There is only one class this year—can you match their feats?

Yesterday, caddies at the Alcoma Country Club qualified for the tournament under the direction of Caddie-Master James Bruno, brother of the caddie-master at Nemacolin, where the boys are receiving their test today.

Dan Orlick and Mike Sechoka, both 15 years of age, tied for the medal honors when each turned in an 86. Both were out in 44 and home again in 42. Other qualifiers were Henry Rakoski, 15, who made 42-45—87; George Remenzo, 15, who scored 43-45—88; Mike Ristway, 15, who tallied 43-46—89; Tom Barkovich, 15, with 48-41—89; Robert Hershey, 13, 43-47—90, and Al Scaramucci, 14, 45-45—90.

One boy, Al Dempsher, scored a 79, but it was found he misunderstood the eligibility ruling—he was 16 years of age and had to be disqualified.

Next Monday morning, caddies at the Butler Country Club will qualify for the tournament under the direction of Walter Johnstone, professional at that club.

Yank Netmen Win In London Tourney

LONDON, June 19.—(INS.)—William T. Tilden defeated H. K. Lester, 6-0, 6-2, in the fourth round of the London tennis championships at the Queens' Club here today.

Wilbur Coen defeated H. David, 6-4, 6-2, in the fourth round.

FAIRHOPE WINS

DAISYTOWN, Pa., June 19.—Fairhope went on a hitting spree yesterday and easily defeated the Daisytown Moose, 10 to 2, before a large crowd. The visitors scored enough runs in the first three innings to win the game. Rohland held the locals scoreless from the second inning. The game was featured by the hitting of Rasco, Brown Widok.

feats. He has already worked in five games against four clubs, facing the Reds twice.

JOHN M'GRAW, the Giant boss, says that rarely has he regretted the loss of the player as much as in the case of Jimmy Welsh, the outfielder recently returned to the Braves in a shift that sent Infielder Eddie Farrell back to New York.

Jimmy Welsh

The average fan will be inclined to ask what McGraw means by the "loss" stuff, in view of the popular opinion that if the Giants management wants to get Welsh back after the end of the season, or any other Boston player for that matter, he'll simply arrange another of the so-called New York-Boston trades and get him.

"SELDOM have I lost a ball player as regretfully as I parted with Welsh," said McGraw. "He is as fine a boy as there ever was on the New York club. However, developments at second base forced a deal. Reese is out of commission and Cohen has failed to come up to expectations. Cohen is slower than he was last year, and I wouldn't be surprised if he has football legs. He was a great football player at the University of Alabama, and I suppose that his legs were twisted and pounded by opposing players. Anyhow, I know he is slow. He failed to beat out several grounders on which he should have got hits in the Pittsburgh series, and he didn't cover much ground around second base. Once he failed to get over to second to get what should have been an easy double play."

WHILE pointing out Cohen's slips in the recent series here, McGraw, in fairness to Cohen, should also have mentioned the play that Andy made in robbing George Grantham of a base hit by remarkable stop for the third out in the sixth inning of last Saturday's game. Two Pirate runners were tearing toward the plate, and in the light of subsequent developments Cohen's great play probably saved the Giants from defeat.

McGraw says he plans to use Farrell regularly at second base. He figures that Eddie is a better player than when with the Giants before by reason of added experience, and believes that he will play better ball for him than for any other manager. Whether he will or not remains to be seen. Eddie might have fitted in nicely as an infield utility man for the Bucs, but as a regular he has got to prove his case all over again, particularly in view of the fact that he hit only .215 in 134 games for the Braves last year.

GRAND CIRCUIT STARS FLASH SPEED

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 19.—(AP.)—The second day of Grand Circuit racing furnished some flights of speed that savored of midseason form for the trotters and pacers. The feature event of the card yesterday was the performance of Fullworthy, owned by W. H. Hanan, New York City, which trotted a final quarter of one of his winning miles in 28¼ seconds.

The Lexington-owned trotter Hollyrood Harrod, driven by his owner, J. L. Dodge, trotted his initial winning performance of the season.

Labrador, owned by E. J. Baker, Aurora, Ill., and a stake pacing candidate, won his race.

EDDIE JACOBS ADVANCES AT WILMINGTON

WILMINGTON, Del., June 19.—(AP.)—Bruce Barnes, of the University of Texas, advanced to the fourth round of the men's Delaware state tennis tournament at the Wilmington Country Club yesterday.

The Southern champion, who is North for the intercollegiates, which open next week, defeated R. C. Bostwick, of the Wilmington Country Club, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1.

In another third-round match, Eddie Jacobs, of the University of Pittsburgh, disposed of S. G. Noyes, of New York, 6-1, 6-2.

Ray Keech Buried At Coatesville

COATESVILLE, Pa., June 19.—(AP.)—Race track fans flocked to the home of Charles Keech at Hephzibah, three miles from here, yesterday to pay their last respects to the memory of Ray Keech, automobile racing driver who was killed in an accident in the Altoona speedway race last Saturday.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday at the Hephzibah Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. L. B. Jones officiating.

Among the pallbearers was Bill Robinson of Daytona, Fla., whose skidding car precipitated the fatal crash of Keech in the Altoona wooden bowl. Other pallbearers were Russell Snowberger, of Philadelphia, an auto racer; Carl Haulk, Cleveland; Edward Yaele, Philadelphia; Harry Riggins, New York; Chester Cross, of Johnstown, a schoolmate of the racing driver; Les Sykes, Philadelphia, and Carl Goldstein, Philadelphia.

PAULINO SENORITA PILAR ARCOS F. BONANOVA

Paulino Uzcudun, the Big Basque Beezark, may be a treat for the eyes in the ring, but he outrages the ears when he tries to sing, according to those who have heard him at his Hoosick (N. Y.) training camp, where he is preparing for his bout with Max Schmeling, Thursday night of next week. Senorita Arcos is an operatic star.

M'ROBERTS' 99 WINS RIFLE SHOOT

Sam McRoberts, with a score of 99 out of a possible 100, won premier honors at the June tournament held at the South Hills Sportsmen's Association traps yesterday. Jimmy Napier made the same score in the April shoot, tying for high honors for the season.

F. F. Neaville and Napier, both with 98's, finished in a tie for second place. W. D. Jarvis and L. C. Erwin split fourth place honors with 97 each.

In the 50-target, handicap event, Napier, shooting from the 23-yard mark, broke 49 out of 50 for high score. Jarvis and Dr. Sam Holland tied for second with 48 each.

Songe Wins Royal Hunt Cup at Ascot

ASCOT, England, June 19.—(AP.)—Songe, by Sundair out of Salamanca and bred in France, won the Royal Hunt Cup today.

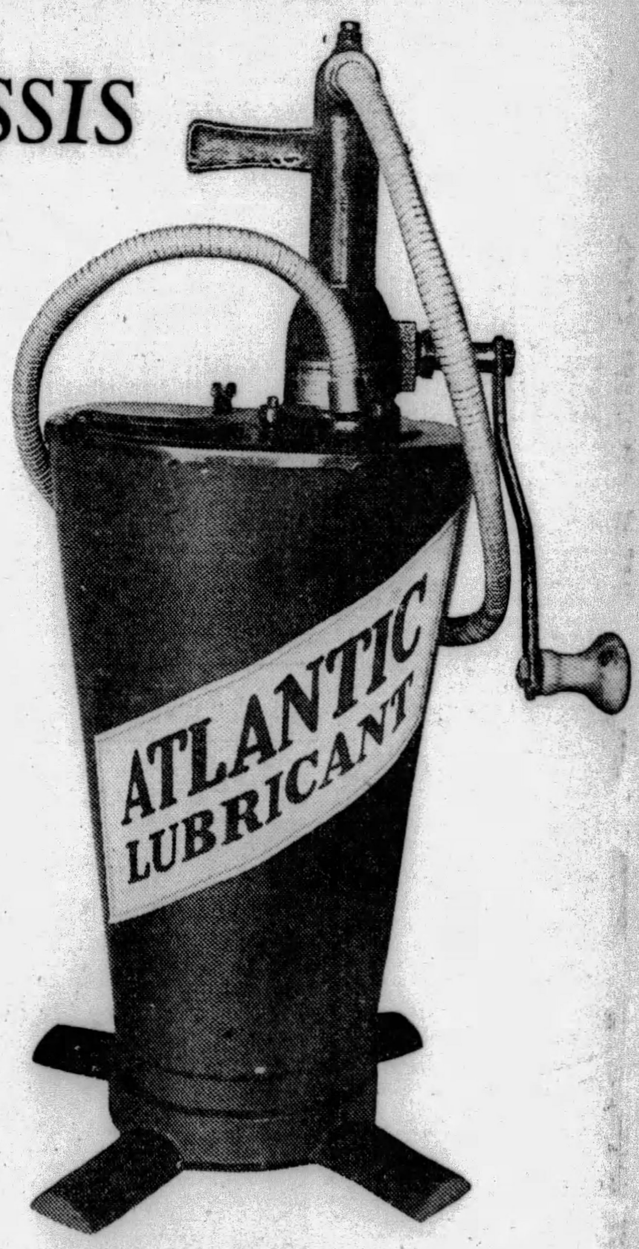
H. E. Steel's Caballero was second and Sir Abe Bailey's Guards Parade was third. Songe is owned by Lord Michelham. Twenty-nine ran.

Songe won by a half length while there was a head between second and third.

The betting on Songe was 100 to 6, on Caballero 25 to 1, and on Guards Parade 25 to 1.

The cup has a valued of £100 with £2,000 and extras. The distance was seven furlongs, 166 yards.

Here is the lubrication you should use for TRANSMISSION, DIFFERENTIAL and CHASSIS



YOU demand good oil for your motor. But, do you know that neglected transmission and differential gears can run your car into an early repair bill as quickly as a poorly lubricated and neglected motor?

The manufacturers of more than 98% of the cars sold today specify oil, not grease, for transmissions and differentials. And 64% are equipped for oil lubrication of chassis (exclusive of "one-shot" systems, to which this advertisement does not apply).

With sixty years of specialized lubrication experience, The Atlantic Refining Company recommends these as the very finest lubricants of their kind made:

Atlantic 600 Transmission Oil
Atlantic Gear Case Oil
Atlantic Worm Gear Oil

The high-quality base and the distinctive Atlantic refining processes make them unsurpassed for preventing wear and insuring quiet and efficient operation of the vital driving parts of your car.

(A) Their adhesive qualities assure abundant lubricant on gears at all times.

(B) They hold together, insuring a perfect, noise-killing cushion between gear teeth.

(C) Their unique fluidity reduces gear "drag" to a minimum.

(D) They contain no soap mixture to clog shackle bolts or oil lines. . . . They are all lubricant—easy to apply—assuring a lubricating film not possible with light oil-soap greases.

Have your transmission and differential drained—now, before your heavy midsummer driving begins—and refill with one of these remarkable wear-proof, repair-saving oils. Atlantic Service Stations and dealers know which to use, and where, on your car.

. . . And for your motor there's nothing in the wide world like ATLANTIC Paraffine Base MOTOR OIL.

NATRONA PROTESTS TREATMENT IN LEAGUE

FANS, OWNER FEEL RIVALS UNFAIR

By TOM BIRKS.

Owner Jack Friel, of the Natrona club, late of the Inter-County League, together with Natrona fans, feels anything but pleased regarding the withdrawal of the Allegheny Valley team from the Inter-County League.

"I feel that the claiming of the 3-0 forfeits by the Homewood and Dormont clubs was unwarranted," Friel said, "as in both cases a regular league game could have been played. It is true we were late at both parks and this naturally does not make a hit with the fans, but the long distance traveled, and the fact that Natrona could have played a seven-inning game at Dormont did not warrant the calling off of the contest. Natrona was back up the river at Tarentum before sun set, which gives the Allegheny River fans the impression that the umpires were hasty in calling off the game, or that the home club manager was eager to get $50 via the forfeit route."

"Then, at Homewood, our boys played even after the game was forfeited, and it certainly was bad taste to collect that $50 after the team had played the game through as the home club collected the game receipts."

MADE FAIR SHOWING

"The Natrona club surely made a better showing than the league standing would indicate. No club in the league defeated us, 15 to 1, in fact Homewood, the class of the loop, was lucky to defeat us by a 4-to-2 score. Natrona had the bases filled twice, and any kind of a hit would have changed the game entirely. Natrona tried hard to give the fans good baseball in the league, but we regret that the managers see fit to immediately claim forfeits when a team is late and is willing to fulfill its engagement."

Two games will be played in the Wagner Central League this evening. Jerry Saunier will take his C. M. C. club to the Moultrie grounds to meet the Soho Board of Trade. The other game will find the J. J. Boyles hooking up with the Harvey Club at the Salt Works grounds.

In the City loop, J. L. Thomas will meet Reliance Life, while Stowe Civics will hook up with St. Johns at Sullivan Field.

The Stowe game will be important, as the Rox outfit cannot afford to drop any games in this tight race.

CARROLL MAY SHIFT

Reports are circulating around the city in sandlot circles that Leo Carroll will not be twirling any more games for Dormont in the Inter-County loop, and will transfer his allegiance to the Beltzhoover club. Hite was smart enough to ward off a jinx, if this news is true, and Carroll should help the South Hills club a great deal.

Leo Carroll is a smart pitcher, and it is stated that a disagreement with George Falconer, manager of Dormont, resulted in Carroll asking for his release.

Despite the fact that Homewood has the first half title of the Inter-County League in the bag, the appearance of Beltzhoover at Magee Field this evening should draw a large crowd.

LEADERS TRIM BEAVER FALLS

Homewood continued along the path all good semi-pro baseball teams should travel last evening in the Inter-County League, serving out a 13-to-4 lacing to Beaver Falls. The Homewooders hit the ball hard and often.

In a second league tussle, Dormont and Butler battled to a 6-6 tie in a free-hitting game.

The two Civic teams, Stowe and North Side, won their games in the City League, Stowe beating the Reineckers, 11 to 8, in a slugfest, and the North Side outfit, league leaders, stopping Pleasant Valley, 4 to 3.

In the Philadelphia Company League, Duquesne Light defeated Equitable Auto, 9 to 6. Carnegie Steel won over Gimbels in the C. and I. loop, 14 to 6, and in the Tri-Boro League, the Owls and Westinghouse played to a 4-4 tie.

St. Phillips gained ground in the Crafton Church League, downing Hawthorne, 11 to 2. W. O. W. won over the Mt. Washington C. M. C. nine, 7 to 3, in the Central League, and in the West Penn, St. Michaels downed the Knights of St. George, 11 to 7.

Beltzhoover defeated the J. L. Thomas team in an independent tussle, 10 to 2. J. J. Boyles won from the Stowe Indies, 3 to 2, in a close battle. The Irwins had to go 11 innings to get a tie with the Mt. Lebanon Orioles, 4-4.

In the Monon Valley League, California and Dunlevy tied at 6-all and Star Junction won over Alicia, 5 to 1.

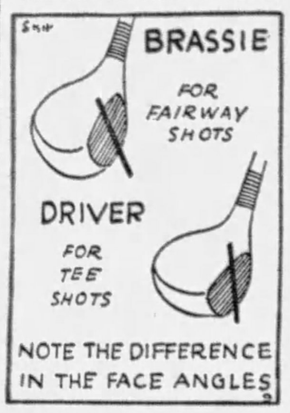
GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT



What differences are there between a driver and a brassie and what is it that dictates the use of one at one time and the other at others?

Answered by WILLIE OGG

New England professional, former Massachusetts Open, Shawnee Open champion.

The brassie is made with a stiffer shaft and more loft than a driver, because it is used on the fairway where the lie is close and it is sometimes necessary to go into the turf in order to get the ball up. Hence the increased loft and stiff shaft. The driver is used for tee shots and on the fairway where the lie is good and there is no resistance to the head of the club going through. Here the "Whipper" shaft can be used with safety. Care should be taken when using the driver for a fairway shot to see that the ball is high enough to need no additional loft.

Reigh Count Ready For Gold Cup Race

ASCOT, England, June 19.—(AP.)—'Mid royalty and pageantry America's Reigh Count tomorrow seeks a fitting climax to a sensational racing career as he battles England's prides of the turf in the gold cup at Royal Ascot.

Win or lose, Mrs. John D. Hertz plans to return her great four-year-old colt to the United States for the completion of his racing career, a career that had its beginning two years ago as a juvenile and reached its peak on the American continent with the winning of the 1928 three-year-old championship.

In striving to win the race for which he has been pointed since winning the Kentucky derby last season, Reigh Count endeavors to emulate the performance of James R. Keene's Foxhall, the only American horse that ever carried off the honors in the long history of the English turf fixture. Foxhall turned the trick in 1882, 74 years after the race was inaugurated in 1808.

'Free' Auto Race At Akron Sunday

AKRON, O., June 19.—What probably would have been the greatest auto race ever staged at the Akron-Cleveland Board Speedway was halted by a sudden downpour of rain Sunday afternoon, five laps shy of the necessary 67 laps to have the affair called a legal race, and as a result, the 10,000 persons who paid admission will be entitled to attend a free race next Sunday.

All existing records would have been shoved off the boards had the Sunday race carried through to its regular conclusion at anything approaching the pace Dutch Bauman and Bill Chittum set in the 62 laps which this pair had traveled.

DUNDEE-ALGER FINISH ONE TO ARGUE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

In what round did the Joe Dundee-Billy Alger bout in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, last Monday night, end?

The referee stopped it at the end of the eighth round to save Alger from further punishment in view of the fact that he was outclassed and had suffered a deep gash on his lip.

Does Dundee get credit for a technical knockout victory in eight rounds or nine rounds?

You can win money betting on that one either way. Here's how it figures out:

Alger finished the eighth round, and, therefore, could not have been knocked out in that round.

There was no ninth round, and he didn't get a chance to answer the gong for that session, so he couldn't have been stopped in that round. The damage was done during the eight rounds that were fought, and yet he finished those eight rounds.

PRECEDENT DISCARDED

In the old days, when a bout ended between rounds the knockout always was credited in the round in which the beaten man failed to toe the scratch. However, nowadays things are different.

Back in 1919, Jess Willard quit in his corner after the third round and surrendered his heavyweight title to Jack Dempsey. It was flashed around the world that he had lost by a technical knockout in the fourth round. But look into the record books and see what history tells you. They all have it down as a three-round battle. There was quite a controversy about it at the time, and the leading authorities upset precedent and ruled it a three-rounder. They figured Jess quit because of what happened to him in those three rounds, regardless of the fact that the third round was out of the way when he chose to call it a day.

Recently, in New York, a Negro heavyweight has been scoring a string of one-round knockout victories. In the midst of the streak, one of his opponents failed to answer the bell for the second round, precipitating a controversy which resulted in the boxer claiming his string was unbroken.

Did Dundee finish Alger in the eight heats or nine? Have it your own way and you'll be as much right as the fellow who takes the other side.

SEEK FOE FOR ROCCO

The Jolly Bowl at New Castle is trying to sign an opponent for Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight.

Rudy Ceder, who defeated Jimmy Belmont at North Braddock Monday night, meets Allen Beatty in the 10-round windup at New Kensington next Tuesday night.

Despite the heat, Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, yesterday buckled down to serious work for his 10-round windup with Andy DiVodi, of New York, in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, next Monday night. His manager, Bunny Buntach, has engaged Tarzan Joe Poole, Jack and Pete Zivic, Jack Wells and Johnny Smackey to work out with him in preparation for the battle, his biggest test to date. DiVodi, a hard puncher, has knocked out Jack Katkish and a number of others, and holds victories by the decision route over Izzy Grove, Pal Silvers, Vince Dundee, Tony Vaccarelli, Sig Keppen, Harry Ebbetts, Canada Lee and Charley Rosen.

GODFREY VS. WIGGINS

Big George Godfrey and Chuck Wiggins meet again in the Taylor Bowl, Cleveland, next Tuesday night.

That was a neat victory that Paris Cangey, of New Castle, turned in against Frankie Ferro, of Philadelphia, at New Castle last Monday night, when he came back after being floored several times to knock out Ferro in the eighth round. Ferro recently gave Tony Herrera a hard fight in the Jolly Bowl.

The card has been completed for Monday night's show. Harry Williams, Negro light-heavyweight star, who technically knocked out Stanley Simmons in his local debut recently, meets George Pavlick, of Johnstown, in the eight-round semi-final, and Harry Taylor, of the North Side, and Battling Gizzy, of Donora, are paired for another eight-rounder. Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side, and Carl Montebano, of Swissvale, former amateurs, box the six-rounder and Paul Balint, of the North Side, and Joey Angelo, of Braddock, are in the four-round opener.

Francis Flynn, promoter of bouts at the Moose Temple during the indoor season, has failed in an attempt to lease the outdoor arena of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., on the North Side, for semi-monthly bouts. The club members decided to confine the use of their plant to amateur shows, one of which is planned for next Monday night.

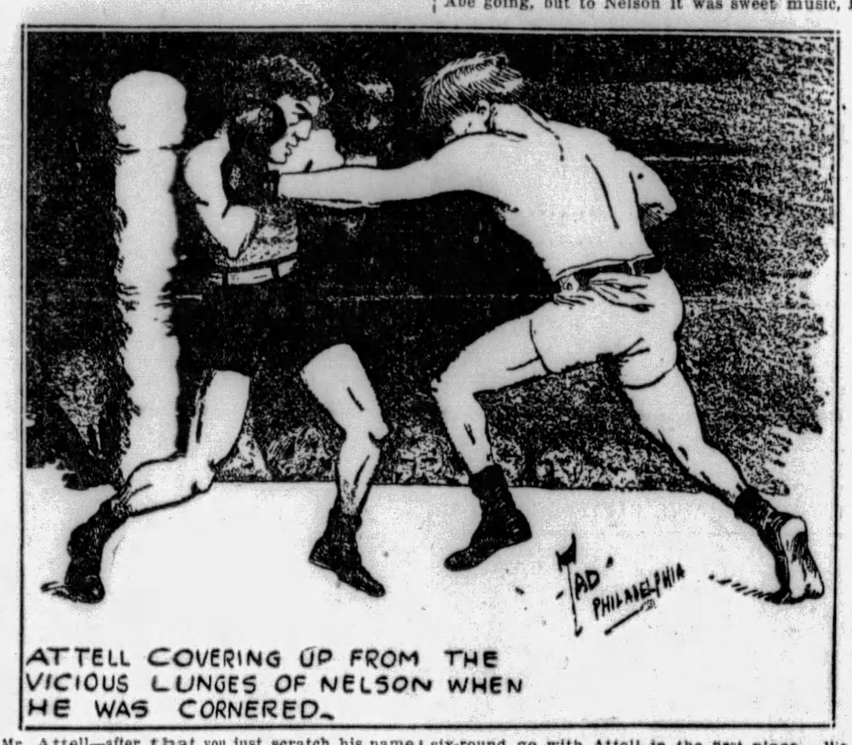
Tad's Immortal Fight Stories

By TAD

(For 10 years, Tad (T. A. Dorgan), one of the greatest cartoonists and sports authorities, covered the "fight game." Shortly before his death, recently, he wrote and illustrated a score of stories describing, in his inimitable style, those ring battles which for thrills and sensationalism were stamped indelibly in his mind. These reminiscences deal not only with fights in which titles were at stake, but also with thrilling affairs staged in private and at the smaller clubs. This story is one of the series. Others will follow.)

ABE ATTELL got away with a chunk of glory for the great fight he put up against Battling Nelson in Philadelphia on May 22, 1905. He certainly put up the rhubarb article. It was rich, rare and juicy while it lasted, and a treat that long will be remembered.

There is hardly a punch known to pugilism that he failed to slip over on the Hegewisch man. He just battered him with left and right ripping uppercuts for sake of variety, and at the end of the third round the Dane was covered with blood. Abe did everything he could to his opponent in those three rounds, and at one time had Nelson wobbling on his pins. He had the worse of the weights, but the beter of the match.



ATTELL COVERING UP FROM THE VICIOUS LUNGES OF NELSON WHEN HE WAS CORNERED.

FOR three rounds Mr. Attell—after that you just scratch his name and begin to tell stories of the gent with the tow head and the twinkling blue eyes, who up to this time was taking an awful grueiling, and he took it like a man. Never once did the Dane attempt a foul trick. Te took what Attell had and came back for more.

It was different, though, when it came to Abe's turn to lick up a little beating. Just as soon as the tide of battle changed his seconds and friends at the ringside opened their faces and out came the merry yelp. "Look out for his head, referee!" "He's holding Abe!" "Make him keep that elbow down!" "Hey, foul!"

Oh! they yelled everything that could be thought of to keep Abe going, but to Nelson it was sweet music, Huh! what cared the man from Hegewisch, Ill., for the chirps of the outsiders. He got his and was returning the treat like a good fellow. Abe didn't like the going, however, and whenever Mr. Nelson got in a few, out went the arms like an octopus, and the way he hugged Bat was a caution.

NOT only did he hug and clinch Nelson to stop the going, but he actually grabbed his abuser by the neck one time and threw him to the floor.

Yes, it was too hard for the clever boy. He stuck it out, though, and managed to hold the Dane until the sweet strains of the gong floated across the ring, releasing him from further trouble with that Western bull.

Nelson was a fish to make a six-round go with Attell in the first place. We all knew that Abe had no peer as a short-fight man, and to take the chance that Nelson did was—well, if I had his rep, I'd say: "Oh, bring me in some nice, big, fat stiff that can't move around much."

benefit of their short barricades through 77 battles.

Red Lucas would fit in like a jewel on any of the four pennant contenders, but he seems to be wasting his sweetness on the desert air as he flips the rocket for the lowly Rhinelanders. Lucas is a natural-born ball player; he can play an infield position quite acceptably, is a fine pinch-hitter, and is as dexterous on the slab as Wilbur Cooper, and that, dear fans, is saying something.

ALLOWS FOUR HITS

Any pitcher who can suppress the Pirates on four hits is worth a page line over almost any sport event you care to name. The Cincinnati sorrel-top had absolutely everything required by a champion as he swapped punches with the Buccos. His control was just about perfect and he knew what he was doing all the way.

But Lucas doubtless owes much for his masterpiece to another red-haired athlete. Johnny Gooch handled the pitcher beautifully, his calling of pitches in big situations being masterly. Gooch, for instance, would signal for a curve-ball with the count three balls and one strike and as Red was able to bend over the hook on occasion of this kind, he had some of our stars swinging in self-defense.

Tilden in Same Bracket With Cochet

LONDON, June 19.—(AP.)—The draw for the Wimbledon championships, beginning Monday, placed William Tilden III, American tennis star, in the same half as Henri Cochet, French ace, who, in the absence of Rene Lacoste, was ranked No. 1 for the purpose of seeding.

Jean Borotra led the other half of the field.

A final between Helen Wills and Betty Nuthall, which the British fans had hoped for, cannot take place, for they were drawn in the same half, but in separate quarters.

Miss Wills is in the top quarter with Miss E. L. Heine, of South Africa, while Miss Nuthall is in the second quarter with Mme. Rene Mathieu, of France. Senorita Elia De Alvarez, of Spain, is in the third quarter with the American player, Helen Jacobs, while Eileen Bennett, of Great Britain, is in the fourth quarter with Fraulein Aussem, of Germany.

BROWN VICTOR OVER GREGORIO

tion by the state commission as "defending bantamweight champion of the world."

The Panama Negro, one of the cleverest boxers in the business, also lays claim to the National Boxing Association's 118-pound championship. Brown claims he was recognized as champion by Tom Donohue, Connecticut boxing commissioner, when Donohue was president of the N. B. A. Donohue, however, later was deposed and the N. B. A. announced last night that it no longer recognized any one as king of the 118-pounders.

Brown's decisive victory over Gregorio did have the effect of clearing up some part of the tangled situation in the division brought about two years ago when Charley Phil Rosenberg came in over weight for a titular fight and forfeited his crown.

Kid Chocolate, clever Cuban featherweight, stopped Terry Roth, of New York, in the third round of the scheduled 10-round semi-final. Chocolate weighed 122½; Roth, 121.

CUBS DEFEAT CARDS; A'S WIN, GAIN

By LES CONKLIN,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Memphis Bill Terry, slugging first baseman of the Giants, is leading in the race for the National League batting championship today as a result of his hitting spree in the New York-Brooklyn double-header yesterday. In 10 times at bat Wild Willum blasted nine hits, including one home run, and ran his average 24 points up to an even .400—one of the most spectacular feats of the year.

Despite Terry's slugging, the McGrawmen dropped both games of the twin bill, 8 to 7 and 7 to 6, and lost considerable ground in the pennant race. The rival pitching aces, Vance and Benton, were knocked out in the opener, and Babe Herman's homer broke up the second game in the ninth. The high-flying Robins have copped seven of their last nine starts.

TRIPLE TIE FOR LEAD

The Cubs virtually created a triple tie for first place by swamping the league-leading Cardinals, 13 to 6, while Pittsburgh lost to Cincinnati, 2 to 1. Two home runs by the mighty Hack Wilson, the second coming with the sacks fully populated, accounted for six of Chicago's tallies.

The Cincinnati-Pittsburgh game was a brilliant pitching duel, Red Lucas allowing the Bucs only four hits and Brame yielding six. Hits by Swanson, Dressen and Kelly broke up the game in the eighth. The Pirates have been held to an even break by the Reds in four games.

Chuck Klein's seventeenth homer featured the Phillies' 4-to-2 win over the Braves.

The heralded "slump" of the Athletics was limited to two consecutive defeats when they nosed out the Senators, 7 to 6. Lefty Grove was knocked out, but Rube Walberg stopped the Nats, who have beaten the Mackmen only once all season.

A'S ADD TO LEAD

The Mackmen now lead the Yankees by eight full games, as the Hugmen lost to the Red Sox, 7 to 4, after Fred Heimach had blanked the Sox, 9 to 0, in the opener. An error by Durocher paved the way for four Boston runs in the night-cap.

Earl Combs, of the Yankees, hit safely in his seventeenth consecutive game, and Buster Gehrig's eighteenth homer kept him in a tie for the lead with Hafey, of the Cardinals, who also rapped out No. 18.

Pari-Mutuels Again Defeated in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 19.—(INS.)—The Florida Legislature again has blocked efforts to bring the pari-mutuels back to this state.

After a lengthy debate the House of Representatives last night killed tem of wagering on horse races in Florida. The vote was 39 to 33. The measure under consideration proposed a state-wide referendum to be followed by referendum by counties.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Irregular — Engineering Steady

HEAVY SELLING TURNS STOCKS IRREGULAR

Fears of Over-Bought Market Cause Extensive Unloading—Pools Cautious

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—Growing fears that the stock market has been temporarily overbought as a result of the recent series of sharp advances led to extensive selling in today's session, giving prices a highly irregular appearance.

Pools conducted their operations with caution because of the difficulty in obtaining a public following and the increasing activities of "bear" traders, but they succeeded in marking up about a score issues to record high levels.

The mid-year credit strain has not yet begun to make itself felt, and there is a rather widespread hope that recent gold shipments from the Argentine and Great Britain, including withdrawals of another million from Buenos Aires today, would alleviate the situation. Call money renewed unchanged at 7 per cent and while the supply was not unusually large, money brokers indicated that the rate might be maintained throughout the session.

WRIGLEY RATE RAISED

Except for the increase from $3 to $4 in the annual dividend on William Wrigley common, and the publication of the weekly steel trades reviews, which showed that output was being maintained at a high rate, there was little in the day's news developments to influence the price movement. Iron Age reported that "the steel industry is reducing its backlogs in various products, but output promises to continue virtually at capacity for the rest of this month and, according to forecasts of the trade, will not drop below 90 per cent in July." The steel shares, nevertheless, were inclined to heaviness, Superior dropping 3½ points and Michigan 2.

Reports that negotiations were nearing completion for a number of New York gas properties stimulated speculative enthusiasm for those stocks. Brooklyn Union Gas soared 15 points to a new high record at 203¾ and Consolidated Gas crossed 125 for the first time this year, one block of 15,500 shares changing hands at 125.

General Electric converted an early gain of 3 points into a loss of almost similar extent, but Allis Chalmers jumped nearly 9 points to a new high record at 223. Baldwin lost a good part of its early gain of 11½ points on profit taking.

WIDE JUMPS MADE

International Silver, Newport, Air Reduction, Commercial Investment Trust, Commercial Credit, National Lead, Federal Light and Traction, Commonwealth Power, Western Union and Abraham & Straus sold 4 to 10 points higher. Louisville Gas and Electric and Underwood Elliott Fisher moved into new high ground for the year.

Renewed selling of the copper shares carried Anaconda, Greene Cananea and Calumet and Arizona down 2 to 3 points. Montgomery Ward also was under selling pressure, while Murray Corporation, which had been strong earlier in the week, fell back 4 points.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, June 19.—With talk about proposed operations under the new federal marketing legislation acting as an incentive for buying, wheat prices averaged higher early today. Absence of rainfall in Canada was also a factor helping to lift values. Opening at the same as yesterday's finish to ½c higher, wheat afterward scored a moderate general advance, but then reacted somewhat.

Corn, oats and provisions were also firmer, with corn starting unchanged to ½c up and later showing gains all around.

Wheat traders displayed much interest today in statements which were current to the effect that some agency of the new Federal Farm Board would announce an intention of buying a large amount of wheat, and that if the announcement itself did not sufficient bring prices up, the agency would buy the wheat outright, to market afterward either at home or abroad. Coincident with this statement and others of a similar character, sellers were scarce and buyers more numerous at times today except when the market advanced.

Dearth of any fresh rains today in dry districts north and south of Canadian boundary also were given considerable attention on the part of traders. Advices were likewise at hand that wheat crop in some sections of Nebraska was going backward on account of high winds and lack of moisture. There were also disturbing reports of hot winds in sections of Oklahoma and Kansas.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Raw sugar was less active today and prices were unchanged at 3.58c for spots, duty paid. Both Cuban and duty free sugars were offered at this price, but the demand was light and the only sales reported were about 31,000 bags of Cuban for July shipment to an outport refiner.

Futures were easier under heavy general liquidation and selling by houses with trade and Cuban connections. The recent buying movement is supposed to have weakened the technical position to some extent and there was probably some selling for a reaction as well as realizing. The main factors, however, were supposed to be the continued free offerings in the spot market and reports of a disappointing demand for refined. The market opened at declines of 1 to 5 points and continued easy throughout the remainder of the forenoon and at midday was 6 to 7 points net lower.

Refined prices were unchanged with all refineries listing at 4.85c, but new buying showed no improvement.

Weather Helps Hardware.

Warmer temperatures, as it was expected, have brought back the much desired vitality to the hardware trade of the country, Hardware Age says in its weekly market summary. While activity in spring merchandise has been fairly satisfactory all along, weather conditions have served to prolong the demand for this class of merchandise, due to lateness in getting to work on the land, and at present there is a steady call for items needed for this work. The crop outlook in general is very bright, and optimism in this regard is already reflected in consumer demand. The steel industry continues for the present at good volume, as was predicted earlier in the season. Other industrial factors are maintaining a good level of activity at present. Prices are mainly steady and collections are improving.

Spotty Conditions Noted.

The remarkable activity still evident in the major industries is the chief factor in keeping business well above last year's level. An increasing spottiness, however, is to be noted in both retail trade and crop progress, due mainly to the reappearance of both cool and wet weather. A further slackening in industrial output, probably continuing throughout July and August, is anticipated.

SUBURBAN UP IN LOCAL MARKET

Stock Adds Fractional Gain To Yesterday's Quotations In Moderate Trading Here

There was a little more activity evident on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, with prices showing a firm tone, but holding within fractional range of yesterday's finals.

Suburban Electric Development changed hands to the extent of about 500 shares during the forenoon at a fractional gain of last night's close. Buying of this issue became noticeable yesterday when over 800 shares were taken on an advance of a full point to 24. Purchasers in the early market today were obliged to pay 24½ but demand was good at that figure. The activity in the stock was attributed to general developments in connection with the company which is now entering its busiest season. Suburban is the distributor of the Frigidaire in this and contiguous territories. Sales so far this year have shown a marked increase over the corresponding period of 1928.

United Engineering and Foundry held the gain established yesterday when it moved up from 42 to within a fraction of 44. This issue, like Pittsburgh Plate Glass, has been meeting quiet accumulation on all recessions and friends of the stock are confident of its prospects over the long pull. Not much Engineering was available either yesterday or today, although a little stock was available for trading purposes.

The fuels were handled at about the same prices noted in the previous session's trading. Arkansas Gas opened at the 9½ figure established yesterday. This is a new high for the shares under the present capital set-up. Lone Star, new, was unchanged, but the old shares were dull. The latter stock is selling "ex" the usual quarterly dividend of 50 cents today.

CRUDE OUTPUT AT RECORD

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 18,000 barrels for the week ended June 15, totaling 2,743,250 barrels, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. The daily average production east of California was 1,927,950 barrels, a decrease of 1,000 barrels.

California May crude oil output totaled 24,053,231 barrels, an increase of 758,171 barrels over April. Stocks increased 413,518 barrels to 159,749,809 barrels.

Pipe line and tank farm gross domestic crude oil stocks east of the Rocky Mountains declined 927,000 barrels in May, according to the Institute, based on reports from representative companies. There was a net increase of 449,000 barrels in stocks of oil at refineries, covering about 85 per cent of the operating capacity east of California. Storage of gasoline showed a reduction of 2,451,000 barrels and lubricating oil 178,000 barrels, but offsetting these declines were increases of 1,840,000 barrels in stocks of gas and fuel oil, 1,041,000 barrels in miscellaneous oils and 813,000 barrels in domestic crude oil.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 19.—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 1 to 4 points on continued favorable weather and crop advices and relatively easy Liverpool cables. The early decline to 18.35c for July and 18.82c for December brought in considerable covering. However, there also seemed to be some trade buying as well as a light commission house demand and prices steadied up a few points at the end of the first half hour. Trading was generally quiet and included further switching from July to later deliveries. Private cables reported continental and Bombay liquidation promoted by favorable weather advices from the South and said that order lists for cotton cloths were running down.

The weekly report of the weather bureau was generally regarded as favorable, but appeared to have been discounted after easing off to 18.34 for July and 18.80 for December, or about 6 to 8 points net lower, the market rallied on covering. There was also some bullish comment on the statement in the weekly report that the weather during the week was not generally favorable for checking weevil activity. This probably helped the rally to 18.44 for July and 18.89 for December. This bulge was not fully maintained, but the market was steady within 3 or 4 points of yesterday's closing quotations at midday.

Why New York? Outsider Tells City's Place in Sun.

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK is misunderstood, and that statement does not come from a New Yorker.

Why is it that writers in every other city take pride in upholding their town, whereas New York writers love to criticize it? Perhaps it is because they are relatively few native New Yorkers.

To have New York favorably appraised by an outsider is so unusual as to attract attention.

I HAVE been accused of writing more about other cities than about New York. And I am inclined to think the charge is true. Somehow, it does not seem to be anybody's business to induce writers to tell of the attractions and the wonders of the Metropolis, whereas the moment you step off the train in another community, you are abundantly supplied with favorable material. New York and New York organizations seem to take the attitude that New York talks for itself—like good wine. Incidentally that is exactly the attitude the Englishman takes regarding Britain.

Were I to indulge in extolling New York very often, doubtless I would be accused of a bias. So let New York today be analyzed by an outsider.

WALTER PARKER, the philosophic economist of Fenner & Beane, well-known New Orleans brokerage firm, that has spread to the principal cities of the country, in a series of studies "Why American cities grow," says of New York:

"The Civil War left New York the undisputed financial hub of the United States; the Great War left it the financial hub of the world.

"Nearness to Western Europe, formerly the only worthwhile commercial contact America had, plus a fan - like system everspreading westward through the Ohio valley, then the Mississippi valley, and finally the West, gave New York—ready by temperament, harbor and the heritage left by the Dutch and the English—its larger opportunity.

"MEN of enterprise and genius, attracted by the success of others, came in ever increasing numbers. Once established as the center of North American inspiration, growth, feeding upon itself, gained in geometric ratio. Today, money flows there for redistribution where needed. Ships go there because they can always find a cargo. Men who rise above a local environment, move there in search of a larger field.

"New York's problem is to find the means of adequately caring for its population, industry, business, shipping. It never asks for more of anything, for the simple reason that it has so much of everything that, for half a century, congestion has been its chief concern.

"Like a great human heart, it draws the life current, then sends it back as vitalizing nourishment through the arteries of commerce and industry.

"A SINGLE life insurance company there must find investments each year for some $400,000,000 of money. And so supplies mortgage loans to home builders in a thousand cities and towns in the United States.

"Industry is centered there; not the mines and the mills, but the genius that regulates mighty enterprise, so that ships, railroads, skyscrapers, commerce, may serve the multiplying needs of millions of people in many states and countries.

"New York supplies the money American enterprise requires. It serves all communities in many essential ways. The daily news of the world comes there to the hub around which the wheel of American progress revolves, for redistribution.

"BECAUSE mighty few people ever sense the highly important part New York constantly plays in the economic life, progress and prosperity of even the most distant towns and hamlets. New Yorkers sometimes feel the remainder of the country does not wholly approve of them nor their city, when just the reverse would be true were New York better understood.

"It is not understood even by its own inhabitants. Its functions are complex; sometimes obscure; always essential.

"Its safety depends on the safety of the country; its welfare on the general prosperity. Even New Yorkers know that, alone, New York could not survive."

IF you are not unreasonably prejudiced, you will admit that there is fundamental truth in this description of America's largest city.

Gray Iron Foundry Listed in Detroit

Trading began today on the Detroit Stock Exchange in Detroit of Gray Iron Foundry shares, just listed on that board, and in which Pittsburgh is rather heavily interested. Sales occurred at 16 up to 16½. The stock is ex-dividend 25 cents a share.

The stock is on a dollar dividend basis. Reynolds and Company, of Pittsburgh, E. W. Lucas and Company, of New York, and William C. Roney and Company, of Detroit, were the syndicate that placed the 44,000 shares that have just been listed in Detroit.

Murray Stockholders Given Share Rights

NEW YORK, June 19.—Directors of the Murray Corporation voted to offer approximately 216,837 shares of additional stock at $30 a share in the ratio of one new share for each two and one-half shares held. Stockholders of record August 24 will be entitled to subscribe.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP.)—Public utilities, led by a group, forged ahead in today's irregular curb market as some of the so-called Morgan Power stocks began to lag. Trading, fairly active in the morning, began to slow up at midday and gains were partly reduced by late selling.

Money renewing at 7 per cent was firmer. Shipment of more gold from England was announced. A curb market membership was sold for $165,000, an advance of $15,000 from the preceding sale.

In the utilities new peaks were sealed by American Gas and Electric, Central States Electric issues, Columbus Electric Investors, Middle West Utilities and National Fuel Gas. American Light and Traction, Allied Power and Light and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore were strong, but such issues as Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern, Mohawk Hudson Power, Southeastern Power and Light, Northeastern Power and United Gas Improvement old and new stocks encountered profit-taking.

Middle West Utilities is an Insull property that has been reporting increased earnings. American Light and Traction, affiliated with United Power and Light, which in turn is controlled by interests associated with the Mellon-Koppers group and Bonbright & Co., is reported involved in a Mid-West gas merger. Central States Electric owns more than 600,000 shares of North American, which has been strong on the "big board." Electric Investors, operated by Electric Bond and Share officers, holds stocks in a strong group of utilities as well as industrial companies.

Bristol-Myers, which is expected to win listing on the New York Stock Exchange this week, again broke through into record high ground. Tubize Artificial Silk in the high-priced industrials chalked up a good gain.

Aircraft stocks were steady and lightly dealt in. Oils were practically unchanged.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

WORKING OUT OF RELIEF TO TAKE TIME

Long Term Benefits Best To Be Expected From New Agencies to Aid Farmers

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

(Copyright, 1929, Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, June 19.—Congress by wave of the legislative hand has ordered farm relief, and President Hoover is seeking to select men for the new Federal Farm Board who can translate a wish into a reality.

Farmers will be disappointed if they expect immediate substantial boosts in earning power as a result of the creation of the Federal Farm Board and the stabilization corporations authorized by the act which is now before Congress. The best that can be expected from the new agencies is a long term beneficial effect on the organization of agricultural marketing and production. Such a disinterested non-partisan observer as the Harvard Economic Society, in its current weekly letter, says, in referring to the new instruments authorized for farm relief, "They will never have any very significant effect on the level of prices of farm products. So far as the immediate future is concerned, they are as likely to lower farm incomes as to raise them. It is doubtful if any program of increasing the carry-over of large crops can be put into effect without lowering prices more in the year following than it will raise them in the year of such carry-overs."

INCREASE SEEN

As for the crop year which comes to an end on June 30, gross cash receipts from sales of all crops, livestock, and livestock products are likely to run 4 per cent above those of the preceding crop year. If this estimate is fulfilled, the crop year, 1928-29, will be the most productive since the 1920-21 deflation, running about 1 per cent above 1925-26, the previous peak. Out of the increase in gross, farmers are likely to show a 10 per cent increase in profits over the previous year.

Of course, the closing weeks of the current crop year have been marked by a sharp drop in the prices paid to farmers, resulting from the slump in cotton and cotton seed and grains. The full effect of the decline in wheat will not be felt until the new crop year.

In spite of the loose political talk concerning the distress of farmers, farm income has shown a steady annual increase since the depression of 1921-22, with the exception of the crop year 1926-27. Various independent statistical data indicate that the worst of the crisis has been passed. Farm foreclosures are fewer, bank failures in the agricultural regions are smaller than at the peak. Moreover, the net flow of population from rural to urban centers declined from 900,000 a year in 1925 and 1926 to 600,000 a year in 1927 and 1928.

PLACE LESS FAVORABLE

But the irritation of the farmer springs from the fact that his relative place in the community is relatively less favorable than before the war. Economists ascribe this depreciated status of the farmer to a world-wide expansion in agricultural production, which was stimulated by the rising prices of farm products during the first two decades of the twentieth century. The increase in production came not only through opening up virgin fields in the newer countries, such as the United States, Canada and Argentina, but also in the increased use of fertilizers and other scientific means of heightening production in the older farms in Europe. The use of farm machinery has played a key role in enlarging the agricultural output, and for the present there is little disposition to share the fears of the economist Malthus that the population might increase far too rapidly for the food supply to keep pace.

The American farmers' troubles have been intensified by a widespread program of improving rural schools and roadways, which have greatly augmented the farmers' tax burdens. Furthermore, high wages in the cities have perhaps raised the cost of the products which farmers buy.

TO CUT COSTS

The broad period of expansion seems to have been checked, and the development of the future probably will be to heighten farm profits through reducing production costs, through the introduction of labor-saving machinery, scientific methods of cultivation and other agencies. Accordingly, farm economists are hopeful that the long term trend of farm incomes will be gradually upward. If this hope is realized, the decline in farm land values should be checked. In the next decade, there is likely to be extraordinarily rapid increase of the use of power on the farms. Accordingly, more will be produced with fewer farm hands, and therefore the drift to the towns may well continue.

The Hoover agencies will be able to guide farmers in following these hopeful new tendencies. The administrative program, which thus far has averted the threat of an equalization fee or debentures, is free from artificial patent medicine remedies. The President has publicly expressed a sense of difficulty in finding the right men for the job. In addition to dirt farmers, men of the stamp of Owen D. Young and Bernard M. Baruch, who are themselves part time farmers, would enormously heighten the prestige of the farm board.

J. S. Hines, district manager for the Savon Clothes Stores, Inc., has appointed Maurice Glasberg, manager of the two stores in Pittsburgh. This is a New York concern, owning and operating 60 stores throughout the country.

Trust Chief

GEORGE A. SILZER

Mr. Silzer, former governor of New Jersey, the president of the Interstate Trust Company, New York, host to hundreds of visitors at the new quarters of his company, 37 Wall street. Interstate is 31 months old and has resources amounting to $50,000,000.

SHEET AND TUBE PROSPEROUS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 19.—Following an inspection by directors of the properties in the Chicago and Youngstown districts of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company yesterday, President James A. Campbell advised that new business is holding up suprisingly well.

"There is a moderate falling off in orders," he stated, "but backlogs are substantial, and we may now expect a better than average summer.

President Campbell estimates that first half and second quarter earnings will establish new records.

"We are now beginning to realize from our expenditures in recent years for improvements and modernization," he advised.

"Both here and in Chicago, our improvements have turned out entirely satisfactory. Construction work on the 250-ton open hearth furnaces at Indiana Harbor is well advanced, and the buildings which will house the new mills are well along."

Mr. Campbell stated that Sheet and Tube has no negotiations at present with any concern looking toward a merger.

Kuppenheimer Net Up for Six Months

NEW YORK, June 19.—B. Kuppenheimer & Co. reports for six months ended April 30 net income was $270,426 after charges and federal taxes, equal after preferred dividends to $2.63 a share, compared with net of $2.34 a share in the 1928 period.

The company has purchased additional preferred stock for retirement purposes and the total amount of this issue outstanding has been reduced to approximately 9,000 shares.

Advance orders received by the company are in excess of a year ago.

Freight Movement Above 1,000,000 Cars

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Car loadings announced by the American Railway Association today for the week ended June 8 were in excess of 1,000,000 cars. The total was not only greater than that of the previous week, which included Decoration Day as a holiday, but also substantially above the corresponding week last year. The figures were: Week ended June 8, 1,054,792 cars; preceding week, 971,920 cars; same week last year, 995,570 cars.

Railroads Planning Equipment Issues

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The Erie Railroad has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue $8,370,000 of 4½ per cent equipment trust certificates, to be sold under competitive bidding, in connection with procurement of new equipment at a cost of $19,551,255.

The Nickel Plate Railroad asked authority to issue $2,400,000 of 4½ per cent equipment trust certificates, dated August 1, 1929, which will be sold under competitive bidding, in financing new equipment costing $3,003,619.

Increase Seen in Week's Building

NEW YORK, June 19.—New building construction contracted for during the week ending June 14 east of the Rocky Mountains showed increases over the preceding week's total and the total for the corresponding week last year, F. W. Dodge Corporation reports. The largest project in the past week was a $7,000,000 power plant to be erected at Sayreville, N. J.

Franklin Reports Good Profit Gain

NEW YORK, June 19. — The Franklin Manufacturing Company reports for five months ended May 31, 1929, consolidated net income of $1,046,109 after all charges and tax provision, equal, after preferred dividends, to $2.85 a share on 299,330 common shares, against $230,257, or 20 cents on the common in the 1928 period. Up to June 15 retail shipments exceeded the entire 1928 total.

STEEL OUTPUT HOLDING AT CAPACITY

Reducing Backlogs in Same Products, but Production To Remain High for Month

NEW YORK, June 19.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

The steel industry is reducing its backlogs in various products, but output promises to continue virtually at capacity for the rest of this month and, according to forecasts of the trade, will not drop below a 90 per cent rate in July.

The falling off in steel consumption is confined mainly to the automotive and building industries. Motor car production, however, is still larger than usual for this time of the year. The decline from peak specifications in automobile steels is estimated at 15 per cent, which represents only 3 or 4 per cent of total finished steel output. Plans to increase production, after the bringing out of the new models next month, may soon be reflected in a rebound in steel requirements.

The recession in general building activity has been evident in reduced sales of merchant pipe, but has not yet shown itself in structural steel work. The week's awards of fabricated steel, at 45,000 tons, were in good volume, although far short of the record total of the preceding seven days.

In other consuming lines demand for steel is unusually well maintained. Farm equipment makers thus far this year have taken 14 per cent more tonnage than in the corresponding period of 1928, and give few indications of reducing their requirements. Five light cruisers, on which the Navy has just taken bids and estimates, call for more than 30,000 tons of steel. Pittsburgh district barge builders have booked orders for 10 additional vessels, and railroad equipment companies have received contracts for 1,000 box cars from the Boston and Maine and 121 passenger cars from the New York, New Haven and Hatford.

RAIL ORDERS PLACED

The Southern Pacific has bought 32,860 tons of rails, of which 9,000 tons were placed with the Colorado mill and 12,430 tons each with the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company and the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Line pipe bookings have been augmented by the placing of 15,000 tons of 12-inch for a 125-mile gas line from Jennings Field in Zapata County, Texas, to Monterey, Mexico. A 500-mile gas line to be built from Saskatchewan to Winnipeg, Manitoba, will require 47,000 tons of 10-inch pipe.

The large mileage of gas lines built in the past year has resulted in a sharp increase in the sale of gas stoves, which in turn has been translated into larger consumption of sheets and other steel products.

The increasing diversification of demand helps explain the strong position of steel producers and the failure of some of them, so far at least, to experience any decline in specifications. The releases of a leading sheet maker are still running considerably ahead of shipments, which are expected to set a new June record. In the Chicago district, mill deliveries show little improvement in any product and the shortage of semi-finished steel is as acute as 60 days ago. In other areas hot weather, rather than the supply of unfinished steel, is becoming the leading factor in determining the schedules of finishing mills, particularly sheet plants.

PRICES STEADY

A number of third-quarter contracts for semi-finished steel have developed prices of $35 for sheet bars, billets and slabs. This figure is $1 a ton lower than the recent spot quotation, but is the same price that governed most of the second quarter tonnage in sheet bars and represents a concession to non-integrated sheet mills, which protested against paying more for their raw material when they were unable to obtain higher prices for their finished product. On billets and slabs the new price represents an advance of $1 a ton over the figure that ruled on most current quarter tonnage.

In most finished steel products contracts are being closed for the coming three months at recently announced prices. Black sheets, however, have been sold to large consumers in the automobile field and to steel barrel makers at 2.85c, which is $2 below the more general market quotation, but $2 higher than was paid by some tonnage buyers for most of their second quarter requirements. Similarly, contract prices on galvanized sheets range from 3.60c to 3.70c. Plain wire, although fairly steady in most markets, has been shaded $2 a ton.

The Iron Age composite prices are unchanged. Pig iron, at $16.83 a gross ton, is $1.40 higher than a year ago; finished steel, at 2.412c a pound, is up $1.42 a net ton.

Alleghany Corp Said Buying More 'Mop'

NEW YORK, June 19.—Reports are going the rounds that Alleghany Corporation is adding to its holdings of Missouri Pacific. Buying is said to be based on the belief that aside from its equity in earnings of subsidiaries, "Mop" will earn around $9 a common share this year.

Wall Street has long heard about plan to eliminate accumulations on the preferred and thereby clear the way for payments on the common. Something definite along this line is looked for between now and the end of 1929.

$1,612,114,371 Is Value Placed On P. R. R.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The Interstate Commerce Commission placed the final valuation of the Pennsylvania Railroad at $1,612,114,371 on the total owned and used properties, including $53,605,168 for working capital. This valuation is as of June 30, 1926, June June 30, 1917, and June 30, 1919, and is for the system.

Simultaneous with the valuation announcement by the commission, Thomas W. Hulme, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in charge of real estate, taxes and valuation, issued a statement in which he said the findings of the commission were for a period from 10 to 15 years ago "and are not reflective of present conditions."

The valuation was decided January 15, before the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the O'Fallon valuation case.

Final valuation of the system included final valuation on the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis (Panhandle), of $231,974,580.

NEWPORT BUYS RHODIA CO.

A. A. Schlesinger, president of the Newport Company, announced today that through negotiations conducted by Dillon, Reed & Co., the Newport Company, through Newport Chemical Works, Inc. (Delaware) a wholly owned subsidiary, has acquired the entire business and assets of the Rhodia Chemical Company, of New Brunswick, N. J. This company manufactures photographic and pharmaceutical materials and fine chemicals and has a close association with a leading French manufacturer of similar products. Its acquisition is an important enlargement of the activities of the Newport Company and the beginning of a new and important department.

The Newport Company, together with its subsidiaries, is one of the larger chemical producers. Among its products are dye-stuffs, chemicals, rosin, turpentine and pine oil. Its dye-stuff and chemical plants are located at Carrollville, Wis., Passaic, N. J., and New Brunswick, N. J., and plants for the manufacture of rosin, turpentine and pine oil are located at Pensacola, Fla., Bay Minette, Ala., and De Quincy, La.

Mr. Schlesinger states that in addition to the acquisition of the Rhodia Chemical Company, Newport will expend during the present year approximately $1,000,000 for improvements and additions in its various divisions.

All of the aforegoing expenditures are being made through current funds. Also that net profits of the Newport Company and its subsidiaries were $355,930 during the first quarter and are estimated to be about the same for the second quarter of the present year, a substantial increase over the same period of the previous year.

INSULL MELON FORECAST

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP.)—Stock melons worth $22,500,000 will be distributed later in the year by the Commonwealth Edison Company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, both properties of Samuel Insul, utilities magnate, it was announced here.

Application was made to the Illinois Commerce Commission to issue additional stock by both companies in preparation for the increase in capitalization. Additional funds will be used in an improvement program, it was announced.

The Commonwealth Edison Company asked permission to increase its outstanding stock 12½ per cent and the Northern Illinois Utility asked an increase of 16 2-3 per cent of all outstanding stock.

The former company will offer the additional shares to stockholders at $100 a share in the ratio of one to eight of their present holdings.

The Northern Illinois Company will allow stockholders to buy additional shares at $100 in the ratio of one to six shares now held.

The melon is worth approximately $10,041,000 to the Commonwealth Edison stockholders and $12,435,000 to holders of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois stock.

Leather Company Earns Dividends

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 19.—Leather Company has declared for second quarter the usual quarterly dividends of $2 per share on first preferred and $1.75 on second preferred, both payable July 1 to stock of record June 20. It is expected second quarter earnings will show up better than first quarter, when dividends were barely earned.

Gen. Fireproofing Plans New Plant

YOUNGSTOWN, June 19.—Announcement is made by George C. Brainard, president of General Fireproofing Company, that plans are underway for the construction of plant to cost in excess of $300,000, for the manufacture of aluminum chairs.

May Plate Glass Production Gains

The production of polished plate glass for the month of May, 1929, was 12,781,975 square feet, as compared to 12,554,979 square feet produced in the preceding month. The production for the corresponding month last year was 10,881,854 square feet.

Clark Has Trouble Job Making Traffic Jamless

Sometimes we sympathize with Mr. Clark, director of public safety. The present is one of the times. Mr. Clark finds the traffic tangle becoming more and more intricate. As if that were not plenty, he finds opposition to many of his efforts to straighten things out.

He decided that something drastic should be done about Fourth avenue, so he ruled that there should not be even stopping of cars in that thoroughfare, between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock in the morning and between 4 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon, the restrictions to continue for 60 days as a test.

Now Council steps in and says, "Wait until all sides can be heard."

Perhaps that may be the better way. Perhaps Mr. Clark was wrong in making such a drastic ruling, but he HAS TO DO SOMETHING. And sooner or later he or some other agency will have to receive full co-operation. There always will be people who will object to traffic rules that affect them.

If an automobile cannot progress through the downtown district at reasonable speed business throughout the entire district suffers. Protection of business in particular localities is right and proper, of course, and the public will sympathize with business concerns in Fourth avenue.

And also with Mr. Clark, who has a big puzzle to work out.

Reapportionment Bill Passage a Vital Duty

With the passage by the Senate and House of Representatives of a reapportionment bill one of the most discreditable chapters in the history of Congress nears its close.

There should have been a reapportionment after the census of 1920 because the first article of the Constitution orders that representatives shall be apportioned among the several states every 10 years.

There is no justification for this delay which is in violation of a specific constitutional mandate. But Congress concluded that the membership of the House should not be increased beyond its present strength of 435 members. And it has flinched from the duty of reducing the representation of the slower growing states in order to give to the faster growing states the additional members to which they are entitled.

It is estimated that 23 representatives will be shifted when the new apportionment is made. This means that 23 representatives will be gained by 11 states and as many lost by 17 states.

Had Congress refused to provide for a new apportionment after the next census approximately 30,000,000 people would have been deprived of that fair and equitable representation to which the Constitution says they are entitled.

And for this denial of justice "the most representative legislative body in the world" would have been chiefly to blame.

With the passage of the reapportionment bill the most vital duty of the new Congress has been performed. For important as is the relief of agriculture even legislation to that end is secondary to a belated act of justice to all the people.

It is indeed an evil precedent that Congress has set by its refusal for the last eight years to obey the mandate of the first article of the Constitution.

Let us hope that discreditable chapter of congressional history will never repeat itself.

Congress, which is the law-making branch of the government, should at all times set an example to the people of this country of obedience to the law—beginning with the Constitution which is the organic law of the land.

Sheep, on the Ancient Highway

We Are Like Those Sheep.

SHEEP ON A ROMAN HIGHWAY

This interesting photograph of old Rome, in modern days, shows the famous Via Appis, great highway of ancient days, with a flock of sheep, in the evening, returning from their pasture to the fold.

Picturesque and mournful cypress trees line the highway. Many old monuments in ruins lend beauty to it under the Italian sky.

On they go, those Italian sheep, from their pastures to the night's rest in the fold.

They are like us human beings, marching on our way from the cradle back of us to the rest in the last fold and long sleep that are ahead of us.

They know little of the future and of the past, only that they have always been sheep and are sheep now.

Yet, they know about as much as we know, however, barring a few "scientific facts."

They make grass into mutton. We make their wool into clothing and we eat the mutton.

And, like the sheep, we walk along our path and go our way.

However, we are comforted by the knowledge that a higher wisdom, infinite Justice and Mercy rule this and the other worlds that roll through space.

And hope makes us look ahead and long as these sheep long for the fold in the evening.

Bible Passages

God's Covenant

(Isaiah 61; 1-10.)

THE spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound;

To proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all that mourn;

To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified.

And they shall build the old wastes, they shall raise up the former desolations, and they shall repair the waste cities, the desolation of many gencrations.

And strangers shall stand and feed your flocks, and the sons of the alien shall be your plowmen and your vinedressers.

But ye shall be named the Priests of the Lord: men shall call you the Ministers of our God: ye shall eat the riches of the Gentiles, and in their glory shall ye boast yourselves.

For your shame ye shall have double; and for confusion they shall rejoice in their portion; therefore in their land they shall possess the double: everlasting joy shall be unto them.

For I the Lord love judgment, I hate robbery for burnt offering and I will direct their work in truth, and I will make an everlasting covenant with them.

And their seed shall be known among the Gentiles, and their offspring among the people: all that see them shall acknowledge them, that they are the seed which the Lord hath blessed.

I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, my soul shall be joyful in my God; for he hath clothed me with the garments of salvation, he hath covered me with the robe of rightousness, as a bridegroom deckeeth himself with ornaments, and as a bride adorneth herself with her jewels.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

THERE was one of these gunmen's girls at the electrocution, and she was bawling something awful. The guards had to take her out, and one of them felt so sorry for her that he was trying to comfort her.

"Well, now," he says, "you can get another man, and maybe a nice, decent guy that ain't going around bumping people off all the time."

"Oh," she says, "Bill was such a fine guy! I'll never see the likes of him again!"

"But," says the guard, "he was a gun! Not human, he wasn't."

"Oh, you don't know Bill! Not human! Say, that guy was as tender-hearted and just as human as anything. He had the failings of a gentleman. Why, you know how they ketched him? He was getting away all right after bumping off his man, but there was a sign that said 'Wet Paint' on the outside of the door, and he turned and left his fingerprints in the paint, just to see if it was wet! Tell me he wasn't human!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I HAVE a new slogan over my desk. It says:

"WELL, WHAT OF IT?"

Maybe you don't need a slogan like that, but I need it—BAD. I have a great little trick of taking myself too seriously. If I have a toothache or heartache it's the worst toothache or heartache that has ever been recorded in human history. If I'm mad, it's the worst mad.

You wouldn't guess it to meet me. I'm a big, buxom, beaming blond with a lot of glad-hand technique—but nevertheless, that's the way I am. Underneath the wide-open spaces of my smile there's plenty of peeve. And I always consider anything that happens to me as front page news.

But of course it isn't!

I've had lots of life, but none of it's novel. It all has happened to someone else before. I didn't invent tears or tummy aches—I didn't copyright the blues. Suppose they do happen to me—

WHAT OF IT?

That's life.

"It isn't the things that happen to you that count—it's how you take them." I didn't originate that sentiment—but I discover anew each day how true it is.

Almost anything can happen to you and probably will. And it may rile you a lot—but it isn't greatly important either to you or the rest of the world.

THE ONLY THINGS THAT ARE IMPORTANT—THE ONLY THINGS THAT ARE LASTING—ARE THE REACTIONS OF YOUR OWN CHARACTER UNDER STRAIN.

Lincoln called them "the proud and invincible motions of character." They alone matter.

Thousands of people have died of tuberculosis. But Robert Louis Stevenson lived gaily and generously and gallantly in spite of it. His crumbling lungs hurt him dreadfully but he saw plainly that lungs, well or ill, do not count greatly in the scheme of things. He realized that the greatest thing a man may achieve in this short adventure is not breath, but Wisdom—and Love.

So he shrugged away his pain and weakness and he gave all he had to achieve that imperishable treasure. In the face of death he cried—"WELL, WHAT OF IT!"

And now most of us do not even know that the great R. L. S. had tuberculosis. We only know he left us Beauty and Truth.

"WELL, WHAT OF IT!" That's more than a flippant retort. It is, I think, the bravest challenge a man may make to Fate.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 19.—Some of the most successful acts along the Rialto the past few seasons are those that barnstormed the kerosene circuit for years in obscurity. Many had long given up hope of New York engagements and were content with small town plaudits.

The most glamorous phase of trouping is that accidental circumstance that catapults the seemingly mediocre player to the Crazy Alley's quick fame and a name in lights. The shredded phrase "Success over night" is becoming an increasing reality.

The shoeless Weaver Brothers and Elvira from the bleak Arkansas hills knocked about the five-a-day halls for season after season and convulsed the yokel audiences. But the act was considered just hill-billy stuff until they were suddenly substituted for a turn at the Palace one day and "gooled." The Death Watch.

Charles Butterworth with his Rotarian speech with gestures was another small timber whose bucolic humor was thought appropriate only for the cross roads but he has lingered on Broadway for more than a year. Chis Sale is an illustrious example of the way Gotham chuckles at its country cousins.

Clark and McCullough were rowdy burlesquers who graduated from the wagon shows, yet so infectious is their rowdy howdy that even in a second rate play they held forth on West 43rd street for nearly two years. Jim Barton, a highly paid favorite, used to do the same stuff for $35 a week in the sticks.

Frisco and his "heater" came out of the cellar cabarets. George White and Dan Healy landed while messenger boys via amateur nights. Fannie Brice was a Brooklyn news girl and sidewalk dancer. Joe Cook is a product of back yard pin shows. Helen Morgan, Harry Richman, Gilda Gray and Ruby Keeler were night club performers.

In almost every instance these acts were under the noses of theatrical scouts for years and ripe for plucking. On the other hand so many tank turns "laid eggs" that until recently it was the rarest thing in the world for the wow in the tall grass to get a Broadway chance.

The mercurial ups and downs of the theater have been registered by a star and her husband. He was comparatively obscure when she became famous. He became celebrated in the movies about the time she quit the stage for the screen and "flopped." The talkies came along and she is now one of the large bets. His voice failed to register. And he is now out of a job.

In an exclusive Park Avenue bachelor building 19 tenants have agreed to serve no liquor in their apartments from now on. Mixing drinks among mixed folk brought about several ruckuses including a near murder and attempt at suicide.

When John W. Gates occupied his $20,000 a year suite at the old Waldorf years ago, his profligacy flashed on first pages with sundry editorialized embellishments. Today in one building along upper Fifth avenue there are six apartments with a yearly rental of more than $80,000 each. Several hotels have apartments let for $50,000 a year each.

On Sunday along the wide paved pier fronts on West Side are scores of baseball games played by boys of the neighborhood. Each team has its following and small betting adds to the excitement. I saw one between the "Dock Rats" and the "Sewer Stars" and there was probably a dull afternoon in the pool rooms.

The dancing twins who used to be billed in vaudeville as the Dodge Sisters and who are, I am told, natives of Dodge City, Kan., have been appearing on the continent for several months. They are now in a Broadway revue as "Milles, Beth and Betty Dodge." Get away from that zebra's head!

Ted Healy observes that if some of the Broadwayites wear a monocle for a weakness in the eye there are several who ought to wear a glass hat.

"I have," writes Discouraged, "failed at six different jobs because of falling asleep at my desk since I left college a year ago. What shall I do?"

Become a columnist if you are that dopey.

STARRY NIGHTS

By Garrett P. Serviss

"IT'S A starry night."

"My, how many stars there are tonight!"

How often we hear these exclamations, which show the existance of a general appreciation of the supernal beauty of the heavens, but at the same time, alas! the absence of the delightful knowledge which all ought to enjoy of the names and the storied lore of the stars and constellations—the oldest surviving memorials of the activity of the human imagination, concerning itself with things above the earth.

I know that there are people who actually suppose that the stars vary in number, not through circumstances of visibility, but as the quantity of snowflakes varies in different storms. They look upon the stars as accidental sparks—and upon the earth as the solid unchanging center of all things!

With educated people, complete ignorance of the starry heavens is truly not admissible, any more than ignorance of the chief facts of geography. Upon the whole one finds that conspicuous planets, such as Venus, Jupiter, Mars and sometimes Saturn, are generally more widely known than great stars like Sirius, Petelgeuse, Rigel, Aldebaran, Fomalhaut, Capella, Procyon, Antares, Regulus, Vega, Spica or Denebola. But even the planets are only recognized temporarily, either on account of the striking positions that they happen to occupy, or because some special occurrence, like an opposition of Mars, has fixed everybody's attention upon particular ones.

Among the constellations a part of Ursa Major (the conspicuous part called the "Great Dipper) is probably the best known. In the Winter Orion is so splendid that one would think nobody could fail to be acquainted with it. But ask your friends and see. Yet:

"Whoso kens not him in cloudless night
Gleaming aloft, shall cast his eyes in vain
To find a brighter sign in all the heaven."

A few may know the great summer constellation, Scorpio, crawling lazily along above the southern horizon in July and August nights, and they may guess at Sagittarius, which follows it, enveloped in the far-off sheen of the galactic center:

"When the Bow feels the sun, and the Bow's drawer, Shalt thou seek the evening haven, nor defy the night."

In reading travelers' tales I have often regretted their apparent ignorance of the starry heavens. Even Clarence King, the geologist and first director of the great United States Survey, telling in his inimitable story of the ascent of Mt. Tyndall, talks of a sudden blazing out of the stars in the early night of a deep canyon, but gives no clue to their place among the constellations. John Tyndall is more considerate, though often disappointing, when he takes a glance at the starry heavens from some perilous night perch in the Alps. I think he mentions Sirius once or twice.

But I am thankful to him that he opened that little window in the refuge hut on the Grands Mulets on the September night of his first ascent of Mont Blanc in 1858, and recorded that "in front of me shone a curious nodule of misty light, with a pale train attached to it," and then in the before daylight hours of the next morning: "As we advanced up the mountain that ominous light gleamed behind us, while high up in heaven to our left the planet Jupiter burned like a lamp of intense brightness."

It was the ever-memorable comet of Donati that Tyndall thus caught sight of, and how lucky that he recorded it. "I inspected the stranger with my telescope," he writes, "and assured myself that it was a comet."

Oddly enough, Alfred Russel Wallace was that same autumn exploring the islands of the Malay archipelago, and about a month later than Tyndall's observation, and when the comet, unknown to him, was amazing Europe with its brilliance, he saw it one night rising like a strange white fire from behind the volcano of Tidore. But as its great curved tail towered into view he wrote a description of it that will always stand among the records of astronomy. Indeed, the heavens offer a field of abiding interest to everybody who will learn to know them.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HOW do you treat the member of your family who is in poor health? By your words and actions do you indicate that you believe he or she is not so ill as pretended?

Do you ridicule this person, especially in efforts to be careful?

Do you fail to make allowances of the peculiarities they present?

Isn't it true that you have little sympathies and easily become irritable because of the actions of those whose minds and physical condition are not normal?

Some persons not in good health do impose upon their stronger associates, to be sure.

They make unwarranted demands and complain much.

Those who are ill or in declining health may not be as amiable as one might wish, or as those who are free from affliction.

But when members of the family are unsympathetic and too matter-of-fact in dealing with the delicate in health, sadness comes with the suffering.

Those who are ill do not have a normal self-control and for that reason don't be too hard and unfeeling—be kind.

It is the little thoughtful attentions, perhaps literally a cup of cold water to the thirsty little patient, that comfort and are worth a few extra steps.
